CONGRESS PAY REDUCTION PUT IN SAVING BILL

10 Per Cent Cut Is Voted by House Economy Committee.

DEFEAT OF HOOVER'S FURLOUGH PLAN SEEN

Further Progress Made on Slashing of Supply Measures.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The Democratic House economy committee yesterday "perfected" the President's plan for staggered Federal furloughs, then prepared to substitute its own wage-slash proposals in the pending administration omnibus bill.

Ten per cent pay cuts for members of Congress and 8½ per cent reductions for other legislative employes were written into the President's plan by the committee, which passed on to consideration of the White House proposal for $58,217,000 savings in Veterans' Administration.

Checked by occasional protesting speeches, the economy march continued in House and Senate. A $326,-340,000 naval supply bill, clipped $15,-336,000 under budget figures, was reported in the House. The Senate neared a vote on the $124,215,932 "big four" measure, cut $12,423,353 below House totals.

Vote S t Today.

The economy committee will vote today on whether pay cuts or Federal furloughs will go into the omnibus bill, but it is a foregone conclusion the former course will be followed. Economy Chairman John McDuffie said it was "likely" the group will sustain its earlier vote for 11 per cent reduction, with $1,000 exemption.

Should this be done, some Republican member of the committee is expected to sponsor the revised White House plan in a substitute amendment, offered from the floor.

Chairman McDuffie hopes to complete the omnibus draft tonight or tomorrow, and report it to the House by the end of the week. "Title 2" of the President's omnibus draft, proposing curtailments in veterans' allowances, pensions and free hospitalization, will be scanned by the committee this morning.

Hit Economy Methods.

Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia (Republican), New York, and two members of the Tammany delegation, Representatives John J. Boylan and Loring M. Black, jr., launched a counterattack on economy methods in the House, while Senator Hiram Johnson (Republican), California, assailed "hysterical economy" from the other side of the Capitol.

Representative Black sensed "something sinister" behind the pay-cut movement; Representative Boylan opined that Federal workers "will soon be donating their services;" Representative LaGuardia appealed for coordination of the various agencies cutting expenses "without regard for what the others are doing."

Senator Johnson in his attack deplored particularly the $492,000 reduction in Bureau of Standards appropriations, under the State, Justice, Commerce and Labor supply bill.

"You can't build up this sort of scientific organization overnight," he said.

Johnson's Attack.

"We have grown so hysterical that we can not see the paradoxical position we have put ourselves in. We stand on this floor and yap and whine about unemployment day after day, and say what a shame it is that 6,000,000 men are walking the streets, and then at the moment of these

Student Is Victim Of Javelin Throw

Weapon Is Embedded in Head of Youth, 20, During Bowdoin Practice.

Portland, Me., April 19 (U.P.).—Tapping S. Reeve, 20, of Detroit, Mich., Bowdoin College student, was believed dying tonight at State Street Hospital, Portland, his skull pierced by a javelin thrown during practice yesterday at the college athletic field.

The accident did not become known until today and college authorities withheld the name of the student who threw the javelin. Reeve's father, Will S. Reeve, prominent Detroit insurance man, chartered an airplane and flew here from that city, arriving at the hospital tonight.

Students at Bowdoin said the youth ran a quarter-mile from the field to the college gymnasium with the javelin embedded in his head. At the gymnasium, they said, he succeeded in pulling out the javelin himself before he collapsed.

Massie Driven Insane, Two Alienists Testify

Darrow Announces He Will Complete His Case Today, With Lieutenant's Wife Likely to Be Called to Stand.

Honolulu, April 19 (A.P.).—Alienist testimony that Lieut. Thomas H. Massie was insane at the moment Joseph Kahahawai was killed put the prosecution in a fighting mood today as the defense effort to clear four persons of the lynching approached its finale.

Insisting the young naval officer was mentally deranged when he allegedly stood before Kahahawai with drawn pistol and supposedly heard the young native confess taking part in the attack on Mrs. Thalia Massie, Dr. James Orbison, Los Angeles psychiatrist, stuck by his story under a furious attack at the hands of Barry S. Ulrich, assistant prosecutor.

Dr. Edward Huntington Williams, another Los Angeles alienist, likewise testified Massie was mentally unbalanced. This witness added he believed Massie was telling the truth.

Clarence Darrow, 75-year-old defense attorney, announced he would close his case tomorrow and probably would call Mrs. Thalia Massie, attack victim and wife of the accused naval officer, to the stand.

This made it virtually certain none of the other defendants, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, mother of Mrs. Massie; Albert O. Jones and E. J. Lord, naval enlisted men, would be called to testify.

It was learned the defense some time ago decided not to call Mrs. Fortescue and Lord, but for a time had considered putting Jones on the stand because of prosecution hints of its belief he was the real killer of Kahahawai. The defense, it developed, decided this would not be necessary and elected to take its chances on Massie's story.

Dr. Paul Withington, former Harvard athlete, who attended Mrs. Massie and performed an operation upon her after the attack, and Samuel

SYMPATHY OF D.A.R. SENT TO LINDBERGHS

Protest on Crime Expressed at Patriotic Congress; Mrs. Hoover Speaks.

The sympathy of the forty-first Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution, now meeting in Constitution Hall, was extended to Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh yesterday and a vigorous protest against the crime wave sweeping across the country voiced by Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the D. A. R., in her annual address, which was the feature of yesterday morning's session.

Speaking of the Lindbergh kidnaping, Mrs. Hobart declared among the deep silence of the 3,000 delegates, many of whom wept softly as she spoke: "In the name of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, I extend the greatest sympathy to Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh in the tragedy that has come to them. Undoubtedly this is the result of the great wave of crime that is going across the country—crime not limited to adults, but the youth and children seem to be utterly demoralized and so ruthless in all things. Evidently the Ten Commandments have been forgotten. Let every member of our great organization be on guard to help these young American parents."

In this way Mrs. Hobart called into the search for the Lindbergh child the active membership of 180,000 patriotic women of this organization.

In her address Mrs. Hobart also denounced the onward march of red propaganda in this country and called on the Nation to unite in opposing plots of radicals. She put herself on record also as regarding hungry armies as being organized for such purposes.

An interested listener at the morning session of the congress was Mrs. Herbert Hoover, who was the honor guest of the session and spoke briefly

Ohio Will Not Assume $1,000,000 Blast Loss

Columbus, Ohio, April 19 (A.P.).—Assuming the position that the State of Ohio is not to bear the financial loss of more than $1,000,000 caused by last Thursday's explosion in the new $6,000,000 State Office Building, the State Office Building Commission tonight ordered all contractors "to proceed immediately to the completion of the building."

MRS. WIMBLEY HELD CAPABLE SWIMMER

Prosecution to Contend She Could Have Saved Herself if Unimpeded.

Surprise testimony will be introduced by the Government today in an effort to demonstrate that Mrs Elizabeth Traylor Wimbley was an able swimmer and easily could have swum to the shore of the C. & O Canal had she not been impeded by her husband and his companion, John M. Crowder, in the alleged murder of Mrs. Wimbley and her daughter.

In an attempt to keep from the jury the confession of Crowder that he and Harry C. Wimbley plotted the death of Mrs. Wimbley to obtain $10,000 insurance, defense attorneys will contend, among other things, that his confession was obtained by police by force and duress.

The spelling of the name "Elizabeth," may be the deciding factor in whether the Government will succeed in its attempt to place Crowder and Wimbley in the electric chair. Should Wimbley claim that the $10,000 accident policy was validly obtained the Government will seek to show that he forged his wife's name to the application and signed it "Elizebath," which is the way he spelled her name in letters to her.

Damaging testimony was elicited from Government witnesses yesterday by Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins, when the jury was told several versions of the incidents surrounding the alleged murder by witnesses as they were told by Crowder, who, among other things, denied that he had accompanied

$4,000 Michigan Oil Well Blaze Quenched

Mount Pleasant, Mich., April 19 (A.P.).—One hundred workers, aided by the Clare Fire Department and volunteer farmers, brought the flaming Oil Well Schug No. 1 under control late today after a five-hour battle.

The well spouted flames 80 feet in the air, spraying burning oil over a 5-acre tract and threatening to ignite 20 oil and gas wells within a radius of a mile. After it had been capped, J. C. Arthurs, the owner, estimated the damage at around $4,000. The well, flowing 400 barrels a day, was believed to have been ignited by sparks from a locomotive on the railroad right of way, 500 feet distant. No one was injured.

Hobo Congress Adjourned As Police Get 18 Delegates

The annual hoboes convention is usually held in Chicago, but Washington appeared to be the lucky city yesterday. Perhaps the Knights of the Road, like many better knit organizations, picked the Capital because of the Bicentennial year. At any rate the convention drew representatives from ten States and one delegate-at-large from the District of Columbia.

The convention hall was a siding at Benning, but through special invitation of the Eleventh Precinct police the eighteen delegates gave up their open-air amphitheater to become guests of the District. Their first request was for dinner.

The spirit of "all for one and one for all" which has held them together over miles of dusty freight tracks brought them in contact with Washington's blue-coated welcoming committee. Six were taken from the convention rooms at 6:30 and the remaining dozen started a search for them. All were soon reunited by Privates F. G. Pilkerton and M. M. Welsh.

"Why are you here?" the desk sergeant asked one.

"I wanted to see the cherry blossoms."

"Well, how about you fellows?" he persisted.

"Aw, we're here to attend the D. A. R. Convention," a half dozen growled in concert.

Cities represented by the delegates are West Palm Beach, Fla.; San Francisco and San Bernardino, Calif.; Burtsville, Va.; Centralia, Ill.; Detroit, St. Louis, New York, Greensboro, N. C.; Washington, Ind., and Washington, D. C. Six came from Pennsylvania points.

BROKERS FACING SENATE QUIZ ON 'DUMMY' BEARS

Members of Committee Positive Many Names Used as Shields.

WHITNEY TESTIMONY RESUMES TOMORROW

Petition to Go to White House Asking That Exchange Be Closed for Six Months.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Although they are unable to explain why the wholesome practice of short selling on the New York Stock Exchange should, in some cases, be carried on through dummy accounts in the various brokerage houses, members of the Senate banking and currency committee satisfied themselves yesterday that many of the names presented last Saturday by Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, are shields covering the operations of influential traders.

At the same time, committee members revealed their intention to uncover the manipulations of some of the larger dummy accounts, by calling individual brokers and traders to the stand when Mr. Whitney completes his testimony this week.

The bear-raiding inquiry will be resumed tomorrow morning, at which time Committee Counsel William A. Gray will be prepared to question Whitney concerning details of the early April short selling, as set forth in Wall street's new blue book of 24,000 bears.

Examined Closely.

This list, which has been before the investigators since last Saturday, has been examined closely by a market specialist engaged by the committee. It is known to contain the names of several traders and operators of national prominence, but the committee will not release details of these accounts until it has been established whether or not certain of the dummy operations are a part of the general selling movement spotted in trade tickets of the professional bear operators.

As the committee experts continued their study of the stock exchange data yesterday, leaders in the construction and engineering industries took steps to render their professional bodies articulate on the question of bear raids. One petition now in circulation, which is to be presented at 7 Alabama Attackers Get Stay in Execution

Montgomery, Ala., April 19 (A.P.).—Seven young Negroes under death sentences for attacks on two white girls near Scottsboro, got a new lease on life today.

The Alabama Supreme Court extended the date designated for the execution from May 13 to June 24 in order that their attorneys might have time to prepare an appeal to the United States Supreme Court. The action was taken on petition of George Chamlee, of Chattanooga, and Irving Schwob, of New York, attorneys employed by the International Labor Defense.

STIMSON VISITS LEAGUE PARLEY ON ARMS SLASH

First High-Ranking U. S. Official to Make Such Appearance.

HEARS PAUL-BONCOUR ASK FOR REDUCTION

Crowds Watch His Arrival; Privately Discusses Far Eastern Row.

Geneva, April 19 (A.P.).—Secretary of State Stimson wrote a chapter of American history at today's session of the disarmament conference by becoming the first high ranking United States official to participate in an important international parley held under the auspices of the League of Nations and at the seat of the league.

When the Secretary walked into the meeting two hours after it had got under way there was a lively hum of excitement among the delegates and spectators. The conference hall corridors were thronged with persons to watch his arrival.

The American delegation escorted Col. Stimson to his place at the conference table alongside Ambassador Hugh Gibson, who has served in his absence as chief of the United States contingent.

Hears Slashes Urged.

The Secretary walked in on a discussion of the criteria of arms reductions. He heard a speech by Joseph Paul-Boncour, of France, who advocated armament cuts according to the special situation of each state, and then left the meeting to take part in several private discussions.

The conference already had approved, as a general principle, a proposal that disarmament be accomplished by stages with successive revisions, "after this conference has taken a first decisive step by general reduction to the lowest possible level."

Sino-Japanese Talk.

During the afternoon Col. Stimson received Charles te Water and Thomas R. Wilford, South African and New Zealand representatives, who are outstanding advocates of a strong policy toward Japan in the Sino-Japanese conflict.

The Secretary listened as they explained the fears aroused in them by Japan's course in China and while they expounded the views they announced at the recent league assembly meeting, when they favored the

Newfoundland Election Assured in May or June

St. Johns, Newfoundland, April 19 (A.P.).—An election will be held in Newfoundland, Premier Sir Richard Squires said today, "probably at the end of May, or in June."

The premier made this statement in reply to a question by F. C. Alderdice, opposition leader, at the first session of the House of Assembly since the April 5 riots, when Sir Richard was forced by an angry mob to flee the city. The session was held behind closed doors, with a cordon of 200 police thrown around the Colonial Building, but it ended without untoward incident.

SENATORS RAP BRITISH NEGLECT TO PUT DEBT TO AMERICA IN BUDGET

Hard Times in Britain Shown in New Budget

Proposed Revenue Plans Afford No Relief in Tax Burdens.

London, April 19 (A.P.).—Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain introduced another hard times budget in Parliament today, balancing the British national revenue and expenditure during the coming year at £767,925,000 (currently $2,895,077,250), and providing a small estimated surplus of £796,000 ($3,000,000).

No relief was afforded taxpayers from the heavy burdens levied during the national crisis last autumn. The chancellor resisted all temptations to relax efforts which, he declared, had provided such a wonderful revival of public confidence.

Pointing out that the last year had been one of "anxiety, difficulty and hardship," Mr. Chamberlain informed the House that it is "only in the last few months that some revival of trade and employment has led us to hope that at last the worst is over."

"Coming now to the financial year 1932-1933," he continued, "I am including in the budget no receipts from reparations and no outgoings for

Summary of Budget Proposed in England

London, April 9 (A.P.).—The British budget summarized:

Estimated expenditure in the new fiscal year, £767,925,000 ($2,895,077,250); estimated receipts, including new taxes, £766,796,000 ($2,890,830,000).

Revival of former tea duty of 4 pence (6 cents) a pound; 2 pence (3 cents) a pound on empire-grown tea.

Increase in empire preference for colonial sugars.

No reduction in income taxes or in tax on beer.

No provision for reparations receipts, or war debt payments; this is held in suspense pending possible agreements at the Lausanne Reparations Conference.

New foreign exchange account to be opened for "equalization" purposes, power being sought to borrow up to £150,000,000 ($565,500,000).

General 10-per cent duties imposed in March expected to yield £27,000,000 ($101,790,000). Another £5,000,000 ($18,850,000) expected from additional import duties to be announced.

Reed Fails in Effort to Allay Fears Voiced in Chamber.

BORAH LINKS ACTION TO ARMS PROBLEM

Howell and Lewis Denounce 'Cancellation,' Which They See Looming Nearer.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Great Britain yesterday left out of her official budget all reckoning of this year's $171,500,000 debt to the United States as well as her reparations claims on Germany, and in doing so upset the apple cart of a balanced American budget and released a flood of senatorial oratory against cancellation.

The total amount of receipts from European debtors on account of intergovernmental debts for the fiscal year is $270,000,000. This sum has already been included in the projected schedule of receipts by the Treasury Department and failure to receive this amount or any portion of it, would have to be made up by increased taxation.

The prospect inspired a wave of senatorial eloquence against such an eventuality. Senator Reed, administration spokesman in such emergencies, essayed in vain to allay the fears of the senators by assuring them informally that:

"The British are honest and provision will be made for the payments due in December and June next year."

Borah Attacks Cancellation.

Senator Borah roared his disbelief of such a hope and attacked the very principle of debt cancellation. The debt plan of Alfred E. Smith, recently announced by the contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, was denounced in the same breath by Senator Borah as "cancellation."

Not far behind him in eloquence and earnestness was Senator J. Hamilton Lewis (Democrat), favorite son of Illinois, who denounced it all as part of "an insidious conspiracy." With an eye to the presence of the Secretary of State at the Disarmament Conference at Geneva, Senator Lewis said:

"If I had my way, I would withdraw any American representative from this gathering at Geneva and say to Europe "If you are sincere, sit yourselves down and work out your plan for disarmament and show us some real faith."

The State Department preserved an immutable silence. No official information of the British intention had been conveyed to Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle, jr., who refused to become alarmed at the prospect created by the statement of Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain.

Hope in Chamberlain's Words.

Some slight ray of hope was afforded by the announcement from Mr. Chamberlain that the British government would review the situation after the Lausanne Conference to submit whatever proposals might be necessary to give effect to the decisions of the allies at Lausanne.

It was authoritatively pointed out here that at that time Great Britain and France may have arrived at some form of joint understanding on their reparations claims against Germany. This would enable the European debtor nations of the United States to give tangible evidence of their compliance with the official views of this Government by having "put their own house in order." They would then be in a position to request further reconsideration of the debt problem by the United States.

The Lausanne conference will meet in June and will endeavor to settle

G. O. P. IN DELAWARE PLEDGED TO HOOVER

Delegation of Nine Is Completed After Fight; Rum Vote Proposal Beaten.

Dover, Del., April 19 (A.P.).—The Republican State convention today elected nine national delegates favoring the renomination of President Hoover, and defeated a platform plank providing for a referendum on prohibition.

While all the national delegates favor the renomination of President Hoover, there was a heated debate over the personnel of the delegation.

The fight centered around Gov. C. Douglass Buck's candidacy for delegate, and resulted in his name being withdrawn.

Candidates for national delegates usually are agreed upon in county caucuses and ratified by the convention. When the slate of nine was presented today with the governor's name on it, the faction identified with J. Austin Ellison immediately started a fight, declaring that the slate presented was not the one agreed upon by the Newcastle County caucus.

United States Senator Daniel O. Hastings, the presiding officer, had difficulty in maintaining order and six State troopers were called into the hall in case they were needed in restoring order.

During the debate Secretary of

BAKER IS MENTIONED FOR LEAGUE OFFICE

Deadlock May Throw Offer of Secretary's Job to American.

Geneva, April 19 (U.P.).—The selection of an American, possibly Newton D. Baker, as secretary general of the League of Nations next year, was suggested tonight in responsible league circles.

Sir Eric Drummond, who has been secretary since the foundation of the league, has announced his resignation, effective at the end of this year, and the controversy over his successor was said to have compelled certain members of the council to consider selection of a successor from a country which is not a member of the league.

Whether Baker would accept such a position was considered problematical, although it was generally believed here that he would.

When Sir Eric announced his impending resignation there was an immediate scramble for the job. Every delegation had its "favorite son" and there appeared to be no unanimity on any particular candidate. Every possible successor whose name was mentioned was found to have opponents in the council, which must elect the new secretary general by unanimous vote. As a result, it was understood the suggestion was made that Baker be considered, and, if the council reaches a deadlock on the question, it probably will ask the American to serve.

Strictly speaking, the secretary is empowered only with the year-around

Senate to Have Beer Vote; Labor Warns of 'Revolution'

Committee Reports Adversely on Bingham 4 Per Cent Bill, But Agrees to Allow It to Go to Chamber Floor.

(Associated Press.)

A Senate opportunity to vote on beer this session was virtually assured yesterday despite disapproval of the Bingham bill to legalize 4 per cent brew by the manufactures committee. In reporting the measure adversely by a 7-to-4 ballot, committee members agreed to let it go to the Senate floor.

Meantime, an official of the American Federation of Labor warned of a "revolution" unless the employing power of the beer industry is revived but before another Senate subcommittee Bishop James Cannon, jr., said: "We are never going to surrender."

"Is it that you want a revolution in this country?" asked Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, in urging upon a Senate judiciary subcommittee the legalization of 2.75 per cent beer.

"The remarkable thing to me is that labor has been so calm, so conservative during this depression. But let that condition continue and I'll not venture to say what labor will do."

Bishop Cannon was a spectator as Woll sharply criticized prohibitionists and asserted "labor resents the idea of the church that condemns the laboring man as incapable of taking care of his own conduct."

John P. Colpoys, secretary-treasurer of labor's national committee for modification of the Volstead act, which Woll heads, said he had "never seen any one who has been prominent in the advocacy of this law who has not been a hypocrite of the first water."

Bishop Cannon's turn came late in the day before another judiciary subcommittee. There he replied warmly to the charge of hypocrisy as he and other drys urged enactment of bills to strengthen the Volstead act by making the purchaser of liquor equally guilty with the seller and punish those who make wine at home.

He said the members of his church "who have been referred to as hypocrites" favor strengthening, rather than weakening the law."

Those testifying in behalf of the bills to strengthen the Volstead act were Bishop Cannon, Dr. Clarence

Condition of Premier's Eye Causes Alarm in England

London, April 19 (U.P.).—The failure of Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald to recover fully after a recent operation on his left eye aroused considerable concern tonight when it was disclosed that he was practically blind for a few moments last night, after he was forced to break up a cabinet meeting because of his condition.

A physician's bulletin revealed that both of the prime minister's eyes are affected, since the right eye was specifically mentioned. An operation last February was on the left eye. Physicians said they doubted if the strain of public duties would permit an operation on both eyes at present, and it is possible that physicians shortly may insist that MacDonald rest indefinitely from all his duties to make possible effective relief. The alternative would be total loss of sight, it was understood.

MacDonald, whose condition was officially described as less satisfactory today, plans to make a trip to Paris and Geneva tomorrow, despite the failure of his eye, but he will be forced to take extreme precautions to protect his sight.

It was disclosed that during the cabinet meeting yesterday the prime minister suddenly startled his ministers by announcing, "I'm sorry, but I can not continue. We must adjourn immediately."

Later last night the prime minister was walking on the stairs on the ministerial side of the House of Commons when, for a moment, he became practically blind.

These incidents led to the issuing of an official bulletin on his condition today.

"The condition of Mr. MacDonald's eye unfortunately has not been

D. A. R. LEADERS GIVE COLONIAL RECEPTION

Mrs. Hobart, National Head, in Charge of Fete at Constitution Hall.

One of the most picturesque and colorful functions ever taking place in the National Capital was held last night when Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and the national officers of the Forty-first Continental Congress entertained at a colonial reception in Constitution Hall. Mrs. Hobart and her board and the delegates and other D. A. R. all wore colonial dress, many of the costumes being of intrinsic as well as historic value. To add to the interest of the occasion, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of the Vice President, was guest of honor.

Mrs. Hobart wore a most striking colonial dress of rare old ivory brocade satin and point lace made in the fashion of the ladies' dresses of colonial times. Mrs. Gann wore a handsome costume of green white brocade and lace and a high white wig.

In the pageant which thronged across the stage of Constitution Hall to receive the guests and be received were many of the candidates to be elected on Thursday. Prominent among these was Mrs. Russell William Magna, of Massachusetts, candidate for president general, who wore an elaborate colonial costume of blue silk and lace flounces caught with rosebuds.

Mrs. David D. Caldwell, vice president general, of Washington, was with Miss Helen Harman, the State regent. They both wore striking costumes. Mrs. Caldwell's of orchid and green made in colonial fashion, and Miss Harman a lovely colonial blue and yellow costume.

Mrs. George Maynard Minor, honorary president general, and Mrs. John Laidlaw Buel, of Connecticut, arrived in colonial costumes. Mrs. Minor's costume was of rustling old blue silk and lace which is an heirloom in her family. Mrs. Buel wore an orange and white silk costume.

National Colonial Daughters Elect

Mrs. Ellison, of Massachusetts, Is Chosen President of Society.

The National Society of the Daughters of Colonial Wars held an organization meeting Monday at the Mayflower Hotel to complete its incorporation. Miss Isabel Gordon, president of the Massachusetts Society, presided. Hitherto the society had no national organization.

The following national officers were elected: Mrs. Frank D. Ellison, of Massachusetts, founder of the organization, president; Mrs. C. Edward Murray, of New Jersey; Mrs. William Butterworth, of Illinois; Mrs. John H. MacCracken, of New York, vice presidents; Mrs. George P. Bent, of California, chaplain; Mrs. John B. Richards, of Massachusetts, secretary; Mrs. Harriet Vaughn Rigdon, of Indiana, treasurer; Mrs. Charles B. Hall, of Massachusetts, registrar, and Mrs. Thomas E. Scull, of New Jersey, historian.

Councilors elected were Mrs. Almerin Marston, president of the New Jersey Society; Mrs. Frank J. Bowman, president of the Illinois Society; Mrs. Willard Haff, president of the New York Society; Mrs. Earle J. Fellows, president of the California Society.

Widow of Harris May Occupy Seat

Georgia Governor Probably Will Name Woman to Senate.

Atlanta, Ga., April 19 (U.P.).—Possibility of another woman taking her seat in the United States Senate loomed today when it became known that Gov. Richard B. Russell, jr., of Georgia, would probably name Mrs. William J. Harris to fill until the November elections the office of her husband, who died yesterday in Washington.

Clark Howell, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, had been proposed for the place, but announced late today that he thought he could best serve where he was and that he did not want the office.

Georgia's political experts, after Howell's withdrawal, were almost unanimous in the conclusion that the position would be offered Mrs. Harris, but none of them would say whether they believed she would accept it. If she does not, it is believed here that the governor will offer the place to Edgar Dunlap, nationally known legionnaire, of Gainesville, or Murphy Candler, sr., of Decatur.

Harmony Needed, Roosevelt Avers

Governor Says Northwest Seems to Be Stanchly Democratic.

Chicago, April 19 (A.P.).—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt stopped off in Chicago tonight long enough to say "the Democratic party needs harmony" when asked if his speech last night at St. Paul, Minn., was an overture for peace with Alfred E. Smith.

"That's a pretty good guess," he said when shown newspaper articles interpreting the speech as "an answer to Smith which should bring to a close the Smith-Roosevelt breach."

Other than that, the New York Governor and candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination did not discuss the Smith matter.

"The most important thing I have to say is that the Northwest seems to be stanchly Democratic," said Gov. Roosevelt in discussing his trip to Minnesota and his reception by party leaders of several States.

Mrs. Hoover Is Entertained By Iowa D. A. R. Delegation

First Lady Also Receives Several State Groups at White House; Mrs. Hobart, President General, Attends Number of Unit Meetings After Session.

The meetings of the State delegations of the D. A. R. yesterday afternoon were almost entirely of a social nature, as most of the business had been dispatched before the delegates started for Washington.

Teas and dinners and luncheons were the order of the day, with the "favorite daughters" of the various States as the special guests of honor.

No member of the D. A. R. was busier with matters relating to the D. A. R. than Mrs. Herbert Hoover, because she received a number of groups at the White House, attended the morning session of the Congress, and was the special guest at the Iowa delegation's tea in the afternoon at the Carlton.

Mrs. Hobart, the president general, also spent a busy day attending many of the meetings and being present at the Ohio State meeting, which was rather an informal affair, so that Mrs. Hobart and Ohio's candidate for vice president general, Mrs. Walter L. Tobey, could attend other functions. The Ohio delegation will entertain at a breakfast this morning at the Willard in honor of Mrs. Hobart, with Mrs. Charles Myers, of Cincinnati, in charge of arrangements.

District Women Entertained.

The District of Columbia as the hostess society does not hold a State meeting during the congress, but the District's candidates for national offices, Mrs. John N. Beavers, for corresponding secretary general, and Mrs. William Louise Dunne, who belongs to the Texas delegation but resides in Washington, for the office of historian general, were entertained at many of the State meetings. Miss Helen Harman, the District's State regent, and Mrs. David D. Caldwell, vice president general from the District, were invited to many of the State meetings.

Mrs. John G. H. Lilburn, of Baltimore, State regent, presided at the Maryland State meeting. Mrs. Lilburn reported on the celebration recently held by the Maryland D. A. R. at Fort McHenry on Flag Day and other activities.

Mrs. J. Charles Linthicum, wife of Representative Linthicum and honorary State chaplain of the Daughters of the American Revolution of Maryland, was a guest at the dinner given last night at the Mayflower by the Maryland delegates. Approximately 125 guests were present at the dinner and the State meeting that followed.

Guests included Mrs. Robert A. Welsh, of Baltimore, honorary State regent; Mrs. Daniel M. Garrison, of Annapolis, vice president general; Mrs. Frank M. Dick, of Cambridge, Md., candidate for office of librarian general, and the following State officers, all of Baltimore: Mrs. Lilburn, State regent; Mrs. Henry Zoller, jr., vice regent; Mrs. Adelbert W. Mears, secretary; Mrs. E. D. Edmonston, recording secretary; Mrs. Edward B. Passano, historian; Mrs. George H. Stapp, treasurer; Mrs. I. P. Gough, librarian, and Mrs. Golder Shumate, chaplain.

Dr. Gillentine Speaks.

Dr. Flora Myers Gillentine, of Arkadelphia, Ark., historian general of the D. A. R., was the guest speaker.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the dinner included Mrs. E. E. Woollen, chairman; Mrs. Harry K. Nield, Mrs. Loyal R. Alden, Mrs. William E. Northam, and Mrs. Golden Shumate, all of Baltimore.

Flags and spring flowers were used for decorations in the grand ballroom of the hotel, where dinner was served.

At the South Carolina meeting Mrs. John Carroll Coulter reported that more than 6,000 trees have been planted by the South Carolina D. A. R., 13,000 bulbs and 3,000 shrubs, besides the memorial trees and 63 cherry trees at Tamassee. She said a part of the State Bicentennial celebration, the baby elm from the Maryland Daughters, was planted on the State House Grounds March 19, with Gov. Blackwood accepting it for the State.

Mrs. Nathaniel Beaman, State regent of Virginia, was the guest of honor at the Virginia tea when plans for the furtherance of Mrs. Beaman's candidacy for vice president general from Virginia were discussed. Mrs. Beaman outlined some of the high points of her report to be made at the sessions to be given over to reports of State regents. She said the research work done in the Richmond State Library in connection with the Yorktown campaign will be of much value, not only to the Daughters of the American Revolution, but to the compilation of correct Revolutionary lists and history. This work will be indexed and printed as soon as it is possible to do so, she said.

Pennsylvania Meeting.

Discussion of the candidates for Vice President General of Pennsylvania will support at the elections, took place at the Pennsylvania State meeting. Pennsylvania has no candidate this year. Mrs. Joseph M. Caley, State regent, announced that Pennsylvania heads the list in the distribution of Manuals. For the year ending March 1, 1932, the sum of $3,769.75 has been paid in for Constitution Hall.

Quaker City Chapter has been presented a ring in which a lock of George Washington's hair is mounted. Only four other rings of the same kind are known.

Mrs. Russell William Magna, candidate for president general, was given much applause at the Massachusetts State meeting and her father, Col. Walter Scott, was greeted by the Massachusetts Daughters. Mrs. Stephen P. Hurd, State regent, praised the work of the Massachusetts D. A. R.

The outstanding accomplishment of the year was the raising of a fund of $10,000 through the means of life insurance for Hillsdale School for Boys. The money is to be used toward defraying the debt on a new dormitory.

From all sources the amount given to patriotic education by the chapters is $14,573.33 against less than $3,000 the preceding year.

The outstanding work of the committee on patriotic education of the State of New York was discussed at the New York State meeting, over which the State regent, Mrs. Frank H. Parcells, presided. The sum of $25 was given toward the Navy Trophy. Scholarships to indorsed schools amounted to $6,719.42, an increase of $2,289.42. Other scholarships amounted to $1,008.05, an increase of $408.05. Boxes sent to schools were valued at $2,062.52, an increase of $1,134.52. General contributions amounted to $2,580.40, an increase of $22.01. Total amount spent for patriotic education, approximately $16,422.91, an increase of $2,180.49 over last year. Thirteen of the schools indorsed by the National Society received aid this year as follows: American Indian Institute, Berea College, Berry Schools, Carr Creek Community Center, Inc.; Crossmore School, Inc.; Hillside School for Boys, Kate Duncan Smith D. A. R. School, Lincoln Memorial University, Maryville College, Montverde Schools, Tennessee D. A. R. Industrial School, American International College and Schauffler Training School.

Reports on Tennessee.

The State regent of Tennessee, Mrs. Joseph Hayes Acklen, reported that 8,000 trees have been planted in cooperation with the State department of forestry. All of these trees are in honor of the Bicentennial. The chapter at Mountain City reports a forest with 4,000 trees already planted and a thousand more just placed.

The State regent of Texas, Mrs. William Perry Heming McFaddin, said at the State meeting that Texas has 60 chapter, with 3,924 members. Fifty-four girls used State and chapter student loans and scholarships last year.

The North Carolina delegation held its annual banquet last night at the Mayflower Hotel. Mrs. Sydney Perry Cooper, of Henderson, N. C., State regent, assisted the committee in charge of the event, composed of Mrs. Ralph Van Leadington, of Charlotte, N. C., vice president general, and Mrs. J. C. Silversteen, of Broverd, S. C., recording secretary.

Notes on D. A. R. Session And Members' Activities

The Children of the American Revolution will make a pilgrimage to Wakefield Friday to hold memorial services in the Mary Ball Washington bedroom, representing the one in which Gen. Washington was born. This room has been furnished by individual contributions from the members of this society.

Memorial services will be held for the late Mrs. Harry Lee Rust, president of the Wakefield Memorial Association. The pilgrimage will include sightseeing in Fredericksburg and a stop at the grave of Mary Ball Washington, where a wreath will be laid by Miss Laura Belle Wyatt, of Wakefield Society, C. A. R., of the District of Columbia.

Mrs. W. W. Graham, of New York, is in Washington attending the D. A. R. convention, and while here she is making her home at the Potomac Park Apartments.

Mrs. Charles J. Kirby, jr., of New York, is in Washington attending the D. A. R. convention, and is a guest at the Potomac Park Apartments.

Mrs. Florence Harcourt Williamson, alternate from New York City Chapter and registrar of Light Horse Harry Lee Society, Children of the American Revolution, arrived in Washington from New York for the C. A. R. Three generations are represented in this family—Mrs. Williamson, her two daughters, Mrs. Burns H. Waters and Mrs. Philip F. Hickey, and six grandchildren, Ruth Tracey Waters, June Elizabeth Waters, Burns Hargett Waters, Richard Williamson Waters and Donald Mansfield Hickey, alternates, and Frederick Morwick Woodward Williamson, the third. Ruth Tracey Waters, assisted by June Elizabeth Waters, will read the reports of Harry Lee Society, which is the largest children's chapter in New York City. The New York City Chapter is the largest of D. A. R. in New York City.

Mrs. Pat Allen, of Portland, Oreg., who figures prominently in affairs of the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion, is attending the sessions of the D. A. R. as a delegate from Multonomah Chapter, of Portland. She is a general chairman of the Women's Auxiliary. After adjournment of the D. A. R. she will leave here to visit in New York, Detroit, and Indianapolis.

Thirteen cedar trees will be planted on the Mount Vernon Memorial highway this afternoon by the D. A. R. State regents of the thirteen original States.

Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, will present these trees and Mrs. Eliza Perry Leary will accept them. Mrs. Charles A. Finley, national chairman of conservation and thrift, will have charge of the ceremonies.

Mrs. John Gillett Oglesby, wife of former Gov. Oglesby of Illinois, is in the city for the D. A. R. Congress, stopping at the Mayflower. Mrs. Oglesby is a niece of Mrs. Gillett Hill, who lives at 2133 R street northwest.

Mrs. Laura B. Kendall, of Oklahoma City, Okla., is in Washington attending the D. A. R. Congress. Mrs. Kendall was appointed by the president general, Mrs. Fletcher Hobart, to serve on the house committee.

Maine Daughters of the American Revolution are much interested in the candidacy of Mrs. Fred C. Morgan, of Saco, for the office of vice president general of the national society.

Mrs. Morgan is a member of Rebecca Emery Chapter, Biddeford-Saco. She has served as State parliamentarian five years, chairman of business resolutions five years, chairman of child welfare and chairman of legislation. For three years she has acted as national chairman of legislation in United States Congress, appointed by Mrs. Hobart, and giving to this important department much time and thought.

Mrs. Morgan is a practicing attorney in her home town of Saco. She has served five years as a vice president of the National Association of Women Lawyers.

Mrs. Stanley Forman Reed, of Maysville, Ky., candidate for the office of registrar general, was born at Sharpsburg, Ky., and has always lived in that State. Her forebears went into the then wilderness of Kentucky direct from the battles of the Revolution, where one, Moses Sharp, had served at Valley Forge.

For more than twenty years Mrs. Reed has been active in women's clubs and charitable organizations, being one of the founders and the first president of the Mason County (Ky.) Woman's Club in 1912; one of the organizers of the Maysville Health League; a member of the Kentucky Historical Society, the Filson Club and has served in several State offices of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs.

As there was no Maysville chapter of the D. A. R. in 1912, Mrs. Reed joined the Bryan Station Chapter, D. A. R., because of family connections with the heroic defenders of that Revolutionary outpost.

In April, 1921, she became the organizing regent and first regent of Limestone Chapter, D. A. R., at Maysville. She has served successively in three-year terms as State treasurer, State vice regent and State regent of Kentucky.

SYMPATHY OF D. A. R. SENT TO COL. AND MRS. LINDBERGH

when introduced to the applauding delegates. Mrs. Hoover, who was attractively gowned in a brown ensemble, was presented with a bouquet of red, white and blue flowers. She explained that the President could not leave affairs of state to visit the congress but she brought greetings from him.

"It is a great pleasure to me," said Mrs. Hoover, "to be with you this morning and to see this colorful pageant again. In giving my little word of greeting I want to express a hope for success in your work for the preservation of the ideals of our country as our ancestors have preserved it in the most strenuous years through which they passed. I suppose there really isn't a great difference, if any difference at all, in the importance of the years as they go on. Yet sometimes some of them stand out more than others. This is one of those years.

"Your work this year," continued Mrs. Hoover, "is going to stand out in comparison with that of the most constructive years of our ancestors, who builded as well as they fought. I am very sorry the President is not here to give his own greeting to you. I am sure that he joins me in my good wishes to you. This is the year of unmitigated work for him, too. There are several hundred conventions that meet in Washington in a year, and they have already asked him to come and participate, in one way or another, in some of their deliberations.

"He knew that the Daughters of the American Revolution would be the very first one to tell him to stay and do his duty, and allow him to maintain his activities along other lines of work. We can enjoy these times together some other years when we will have more time for pleasure than for just work. Good luck to you all."

The congress gave her a rising ovation when she concluded her remarks.

Defense of Childhood.

Warning the delegates to be on guard in defense of childhood, she told them that the new ventures of alien communists magnify our responsibilities in this regard.

Mrs. Hobart charged that in certain schools even in Washington there was no celebration of birthdays of such heroes as George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and other distinguished men and women who have "made it possible to inhabit this country as happily as we do."

"We must demand," she said, "that schools provide programs emphasizing the part patriotic leaders have played in creating and preserving the United States."

Other high points of Mrs. Hobart's speech were as follows:

Atheists, communists, socialists, and propagandists are being planted in large numbers near settlements of the foreign born, especially where groups of students may be influenced.

Hatred of the United States Government is generated among the unemployed and distressed by the same agencies.

Even in theological seminaries unpatriotic addresses are made, tending to arouse suspicion against the Government and distrust of fundamental Bible doctrine.

The Indian needs more direction in citizenship.

Honorary Leaders.

Greetings were also given by the honorary presidents general in attendance, including Mrs. William Cumming Story, of New York; Grace Lincoln Brosseau, of Greenwich, Conn.; Mrs. George Maynard Minor, Waterbury, Conn.; Mrs. George Thacker Guernsey, of Kansas, and Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, of Pennsylvania.

At the afternoon session further reports were read by national officers, including the annual report of Mrs. Hobart, the president general. Mrs. Hobart stated that in her three-year term of office just concluding that she had attended meetings in 47 States, visiting all except Louisiana.

In her report Mrs. Hobart urged that members of the D. A. R. take deep concern in preventing historic shrines from being ridiculed. She deplored the use by communists of Independence Square, in Philadelphia, and Union Square, in New York City, both of which she declared dedicated to the preservation of the American Union.

Mrs. Hobart urged that George Washington be exalted in the Bicentennial observances and that "personalities and committee activities sink into oblivion. "Let honor rest alone," she urged, "upon the one for whom it is intended—George Washington."

The progress of the patriotic and educational work of the society was stressed in the reports of the national officers who shared the afternoon program with Mrs. Hobart.

The registrar general, Mrs. Josiah A. Van Orsdel, reported that in the 42 years of its existence 276,890 women have joined the Daughters of the American Revolution.

HOOVER IMMUTABLY DRY, WOMEN HOLD
Prohibition Backers Assert Wet Republicans Know He'll Not Change.
(Associated Press.)
Mrs. Leigh Colvin, of New York, yesterday told the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement that wet Republicans have conceded President Hoover is a prohibition supporter and that his views can not be changed.
The committee is holding a convention in connection with its prohibition fair, and today will oppose attempts at repeal or modification before a congressional committee.
"It means defeat for the Republicans," Mrs. Colvin warned, "if their party adopts a wet plank in its platform, even though President Hoover stands as a dry."
Shocked by Byrd's Plan.
She served notice that if both parties insert wet planks, the Nation's law supporters "can organize—not as a third party movement, but as the dominant party—and elect a dry President."
Her statements were made as a part of a forum on the prohibition question. Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, chairman of the national committee, presided.
Mrs. Lon Q. Hooker, of Missouri, representing the Daughters of the American Constitution, said "Gov. Byrd certainly shocked the dry women of America when he came out for resubmission."
She contended there was no need for a resubmission plank in the party platforms because the Constitution holds the only legal means of changing the law.
"Wet Propaganda" Hit.
An attack on what they characterized as "wet propaganda" was made last night by four women prohibitionists—Mrs. Clayton Eulette, Chicago; Mrs. Jesse Nicholson, president of the Democratic Women's Law Enforcement League; Mrs. Richard Aldrich, of New York, and Mrs. Helen Patten Hanson, of Kansas City.
They urged the women of America to combat this "propaganda" with facts as contained in Government, industrial, and philanthropic agencies' statistics.
Mrs. Eulette described the "wet propaganda" as the "most tremendous propagandist campaign the world has ever known."

Theater Burglary Inquiry Ordered
Three First Precinct Police Must Explain Failure to Discover Act.
Three First Precinct policemen were yesterday ordered to make complete reports as to why they failed to discover the burglary of the Central Theater at 425 Ninth street northwest between the hours of 11:15 p. m. April 15 and 10:30 a. m., April 16. The report was ordered by Inspector L. I. H. Edwards, personnel officer.
The manager of the theater came down on April 16, found the front door had been broken open and the safe tampered with. The burglar apparently had been frightened away before he could open it. Privates J. F. Reynolds, S. Davis and T. R. Woodson were directed to make out complete reports.
"This report (one made of the robbery) indicates that the premises were entered by the front door. You will submit a report as to why this was not discovered by officers on that beat," Inspector Edwards ordered.

SENATE WILL VOTE ON BEER PROPOSAL
True Wilson, of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, and Senator Sheppard (Democrat), Texas, sponsor of the legislation and a coauthor of the prohibition law.
Wealthy Are Accused.
Rufus Lusk, of the Crusaders, anti-prohibition organization, replied that to make the purchaser of liquor a law violator would compel the jailing of two-thirds the population of the United States in the first year.
Bishop Cannon and Dr. Wilson charged that the wealthy and "persons in high places" are responsible for the existence of the bootlegger and for crime, because they buy liquor, thus providing his source of funds.
"Some even on the floor of the United States Senate," said Cannon, "flaunt the law and continue to purchase liquor."
Purchaser Called Criminal.
The purchaser, he said, must be "branded as a criminal," as he is equally hostile to the great purpose of the eighteenth amendment.
"Loopholes" in the Volstead act, Bishop Cannon said, make possible the manufacture and sale of great quantities of intoxicants.
The Sheppard bills, he said, would stop these. Senator Sheppard had explained that his legislation would provide the Jones law penalties of five years and $10,000 fine for the purchaser and would eliminate sections which say the making of non-intoxicating fruit juices in the home and the consumption of liquor at home are permissible.

3 VETERANS LAUNCH WARFARE ON BONUS

LaGuardia Demands Jobless Insurance; Simmons and Johnson Rap Pay.

(Associated Press.)

Three veterans of political and World War battles yesterday launched the counterattack which administration leaders hope will block the two billion dollar bonus payment.

Representatives LaGuardia, of New York, and Simmons, of Nebraska, formerly of the Air Service, and Representative Johnson, of South Dakota, once an infantryman, assailed the currency expansion plan to cash the bonus certificates.

All three Republicans favored changes in the existing law, a point immediately stressed by Representative Patman (Democrat), Texas, who is leading the bonus fight, but none favored the $2,400,000,000 cash payment.

Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, is the next opposition witness scheduled. Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, is expected to show Thursday how this huge credit source has helped the small banker and business man.

Demands Jobless Insurance.

Mr. LaGuardia, Independent leader, led off for the opposition, demanding national unemployment insurance instead of the bonus payment.

"If a secret vote were taken on this bonus plan in the House, there would not be 30 votes for it," Mr. LaGuardia said. "I am here this morning in behalf of 6,000,000 unorganized unemployed who have no means of reaching Congress and can't understand why Congress doesn't do something.

"Not over 13 per cent of the unemployed are veterans. What will be the feeling of the veteran's neighbor who is out of work if Congress says it has settled the unemployment question by paying the bonus?

"If we are going to print money let us use that money as an initial fund for national unemployment insurance."

Mr. LaGuardia predicted legislation soon would be passed refunding interest charges against loans on veterans' certificates. Mr. Johnson favored a reduction in interest charges and legislation allowing veterans with certificates less than two years old to borrow. Mr. Simmons joined in urging amendment of the two-year provision.

Fears Creation of Panic.

"I don't think you can pass this bill without creating another panic," Mr. Johnson testified. "All that will come out of this propaganda will be the tragedy of blasted hope. Currency expansion should be obtained under the Glass-Steagall act that will permit contraction when desired."

Mr. Simmons said, "I do not believe that it can be established that the money is due now on these certificates.

"I would favor amendment of the existing law so that whenever any service man desires to surrender his certificate and accept payment that he would be paid its present value," he said. "But beyond that I do not believe Congress should go."

2 SUICIDES CLIMAX GAMBLING SCANDAL

Noted Doctor and Wife Dead and Two Titled Players Held in Vienna.

Vienna, Austria, April 19 (A.P.).—A gambling scandal in two fashionable clubs was exposed in Vienna today with the suicide of a prominent physician and his wife, and the arrest of two titled frequenters of gambling establishments.

The physician, Dr. Hermann Loewy, and his invalid wife were found shot to death in their apartment.

The two aristocrats are Baron Otto Gutmann-Gelse and Baron Henri Menasse, and they were charged by police with fleecing fellow members of the two clubs with the aid of another member of the aristocracy, who is sought, and a bribed club employe.

Dr. Loewy was believed to have been duped into helping them, although friends said the chronic illness of his wife was the cause of the double suicide. Dr. Loewy, however, was to have appeared before the police today for questioning in the case.

The physician was reported to have told a Hungarian newspaper correspondent a few hours before his suicide that the man who is sought by police usually sold him and the two barons horoscopes indicating the best times to play.

Other reports had it that Dr. Loewy was paid outright by the unnamed society man, and that others, who were not named, gave 40 per cent of their winnings to him.

The vanished clubman gave tips only when his bribed associate was on duty at the club tables, according to the police. The associate was reported to have furnished doctored cards and the fleecing allegedly extended over a period of about a year.

Viceroy of India Near Train-Bombing Scene

Peshawar, India, April 19 (A.P.).—An attempt to wreck a train with a home-made bomb caused more than usual agitation here today because of the presence of Viceroy Lord Willingdon, who is here on a visit.

The bomb exploded under a mail train between the city and the cantonment. The train was not damaged and there were no casualties. Three natives were arrested.

43 Cents for Missouri Would Cost U. S. $11

(Associated Press.)

Representative Barton would have Congress authorize the appropriation of 43 cents for "the relief of the State of Missouri."

It seems that one Joseph M. Cameron of Missouri served 80 days in the Army during the Civil War. Cameron was reimbursed for only 79 and Barton proposed in the bill he introduced today that the other day's pay be given to the State.

It would cost about $11 to print the usual number of copies of the Missouri Democrat's bill.

lachrymose appeals, we adopt rules that throw more men out of work."

Representative Ayres (Democrat), Kansas, chairman of the Navy appropriations subcommittee, took the House floor to explain $15,336,000 in cuts in the Navy bill, and to appeal at the same time for maintenance of the Nation's fleets.

He quoted Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, as follows:

"Under stress of existing conditions we have cut our operating forces to the danger zone. We can go no further without jeopardizing our National security."

Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, whose department's supply bill was reduced $11,000,000 below budget estimates by Congress Monday, conferred with the President yesterday.

Charges "Sham Savings."

"We were looking into the grab bag to see what could be done with the odds and ends that were left," he said after the conference. He denounced the $2,000,000 cut in Boulder Dam funds as "sham economy."

Following yesterday's House economy committee session, Chairman McDuffie explained how the group had revised the President's five-day week, staggered furlough plan, with a view to having it ready if the House votes down the committee's pay cut.

Neither the legislative services nor the judiciary were touched in the White House draft of the plan. The 8½ per cent reduction for legislative employes other than members of Congress, written into the plan by the committee, was reached on a basis of one-twelfth of their pay. Other employes would be deprived of that much under the calendar month enforced-furlough provision in the President's plan, he said.

Other sections inserted in the White House draft provide that members of the judiciary may voluntarily remit to the Treasury a proportional percentage of their salary. They are protected under the Constitution from compulsory cuts. Mr. McDuffie indicated the revised plan also hits at their retirement pay.

Representative William Williamson (Republican), South Dakota, made known that the committee had inserted the Byrns Army-Navy consolidation bill bodily into the omnibus measure.

The measure provides for one secretary of national defense, assistant secretaries for War and Navy, leaving it optional with the President whether air forces are merged under an assistant secretary for Air.

Work on Further Cuts.

A humorous note was injected in the Senate retrenchment debate by Senator Tom Connolly (Democrat), Texas. He said the Senate favored a public funeral "for Old Man Economy" when it voted down his proposal to cut $75,000 from appropriations for Commerce Department agents' living expenses abroad.

Senator Logan (Democrat), Kentucky, proposed consolidation of the Civil Service Commission, the Personnel Classification Board and the Employes Compensation Commission into a civil service administration. A similar bill has been reported by the House expenditures committee.

A Senate appropriations subcommittee today will begin its task of cutting 10 per cent from the $1,059,000,000 Treasury-Postoffice supply bill, as ordered by the Senate Monday. Secretary of the Treasury Mills and Postmaster General Brown will appear before the committee today.

MORE FUNDS GIVEN LINDBERGH'S POLICE

All Clews Prove Vain as Colonel Pursues Efforts in Desired Secrecy.

Hopewell, N. J., April 19 (A.P.).—Ten thousand dollars was transferred from other State police accounts today to help defray expenses of the official investigation of the Lindbergh kidnaping.

So far the State police inquiry has developed hundreds of "tips," clews and wild "leads," but not one has proved of value, as far as is known.

Today's police bulletins from the Lindbergh home told of nearly a dozen separate investigations that had been made in the hope of finding trace of the missing child, but none turned out to be of any importance, Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf said.

Meantime, the secrecy which Col. Lindbergh himself has said he desires surrounded the activities of himself, his three Virginia intermediaries, and Dr. John F. Condon, the 72-year-old educator who paid the $50,000 ransom, but failed to obtain the child's return.

In his latest appeal for secrecy Lindbergh said "we have been unable to reestablish a definite contact" with the kidnapers.

Mysterious Plane Arrives.

The arrival of a red monoplane at Princeton, N. J., aroused considerable conjecture. The pilot and a passenger about 40 years old landed at Princeton Airport and were taken by automobile to the Lindbergh home. They refused to talk to State police and entered the house, where, it was believed, they conversed with Col. Lindbergh for two hours.

When they came out, the passenger said, "If I'm lucky I'll be back." The plane came from the West and was understood to have been flying two days from its point of departure. There was an unverified report that the passenger was E. T. Eustace, of Kansas City, and that he had stopped overnight in Pittsburgh.

New York, April 19 (U.P.).—Dr. John F. Condon, returning late today from a six-hour trip in a rowboat that carried him from City Island to Baxter Creek Inlet, several miles away, presumably seeking a contact with the Lindbergh baby's kidnapers, fell from the boat as he was about to land and was pulled from the river by boatmen.

Billfold "Clew" Found.

The doctor was taken to his home in a car, and refused medical assistance. It was reported that during his trip, "Jafsie" met two other men, in another rowboat, and conferred with them for some time.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., April 19 (U.P.).—A leather billfold found today in the deep ravine near Chilmark, where a trout fisherman found a mysterious traveling bag Sunday may establish the identity of the bag's owner, State police believe.

JAPANESE FIGHTING REBELS REINFORCED

Renewed Drive Planned on Manchurian Insurgents; Forbes Optimistic.

Mukden, Manchuria, April 19 (A.P.).—The Japanese command today drew on its garrisons south of Mukden for reinforcements which were rushed to the northwest to put down new insurgent outbursts in the districts around Chengchiatun, Taonan, and Tungliao.

Officials denied that this troop movement had any connection with reported tension between Japan and Soviet Russia.

Lieut. Gen. Hirose, whose division is replacing the troops of Gen. Tamon, declared on his arrival in Harbin that the Japanese were determined to free northern Manchuria and Mongolia from lawless elements. He added that there was not a bit of truth in reports that Japan harbored aggressive intentions against the Soviets.

Fighting has reached new heights in the Chientao district, where strong resistance is being put up by insurgents against the new Manchurian regime of Henry Pu-Yi. These rebels, led by Gen. Wang Teh-Lin, have occupied several towns in the region, according to official Japanese dispatches, and have burned and looted them.

Peiping, April 19 (A.P.).—After hearing the farewell of Marshal Hsiao-Liang, the members of the League of Nations Commission investigating the Sino-Japanese dispute entrained tonight for Chinwangtao, whence they will proceed to Mukden, Manchuria, by rail and sea in three groups, the members of which were chosen by lot.

(Associated Press.)

Difficulties in Manchuria were described yesterday by W. Cameron Forbes, former Ambassador at Tokyo, to be "simmering down gradually."

Calling at the State Department to discuss the Far East situation with officials, Mr. Forbes, who has just returned from Japan, told newspapermen:

"I am not given to guesses, and making a guess about the developments in Manchuria would be much like shuffling a deck of cards thoroughly and trying to name the cards."

Among those with whom he conferred was Joseph C. Grew, who will leave San Francisco on May 20 to succeed him at the Tokyo Embassy.

use of all the league's resources to restore just peace in the Orient.

The Sino-Japanese question also was discussed by Col. Stimson during a half-hour conversation at the league secretariat with Foreign Minister Paul Hymans, of Belgium, and Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary.

Col. Stimson entertained Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy at lunch and had tea with Chancellor Heinrich Bruening of Germany. With them he talked disarmament.

Both Signor Grandi and Dr. Bruening have indicated their anxiety about the success of the present meeting as essential preparations for a useful conference at Lausanne, where reparations are to be discussed.

Walter I. Plant eulogized the members receiving the new degree and Grand Knight George F. Howell presented the emblems denoting the degree. Short talks were made by the Rev. Joseph M. Sullivan, chaplain; Charles J. Considine, deputy grand knight; F. J. Hemelt, financial secretary; John T. Buckley, recording secretary; John Fitzpatrick, chancellor, and Grand Knight Howell.

Lecturer James T. Filgate then made a short talk on the work of the council, bringing a message of congratulation to the honorary members and distributed Bicentennial bronze medals of George Washington.

64 Liquor Resorts Raided in New York

Two-Day Forays of U. S. Agents Net 2 Women Among Prisoners.

New York, April 19 (A.P.).—Rounding up two women among their prisoners, prohibition agents paid another round of calls on the "directory of speakeasies" today and increased their two-day number of known raids to 64.

The women, identifying themselves as Mary Smith and Gertrude Schaeffer, were arrested in west midtown resorts and were taken before Federal Commissioner Garrett W. Cotter, with 30 men, for arraignment. The total number of defendants for yesterday and today was listed officially at 79.

Still, Andrew McCampbell, prohibition administrator, said: "This is just our routine enforcement work, just our usual work. Men working out of my office since last December have seized property valued at $385,000 in speakeasy raids."

SENATE WILL HOLD FUNERAL OF HARRIS

Service This Morning to Be Attended by Dignitaries; Burial in Georgia.

A state funeral to be held in the Senate chamber at 11 a. m. today for Senator William J. Harris, of Georgia, was ordered yesterday by the Senate in compliance with the wishes of his widow.

The White House last night announced that the President would attend. The President also dispatched a letter of condolence to Mrs. Julia Harris, widow of the senator.

Colleagues of the late senator will gather at his bier in the chamber to mourn his passing. The Rev. ZeBarney Phillips, chaplain of the Senate, will conduct the service. Private services for the Georgian will be held at his apartment an hour earlier. The body will be sent to his home, Cedartown, Ga., for burial.

Following the funeral services, the Senate and House will adjourn until tomorrow as a further token of respect. A committee from the Senate and House was named to accompany the body to Cedartown for the final rites tomorrow afternoon. The funeral cortege will leave Washington at 2:30 p. m., via the Seaboard Air Line Railway.

Invitations were sent to the members of the Cabinet, members of the House, the Diplomatic Corps and other Government dignitaries to attend. Only three other state funerals have been held in the Senate in recent years.

Senator Harris, who was 64 years old, died at his apartment, 2400 Sixteenth street northwest, after a long illness. Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, submitted in behalf of Senator George, Senator Harris' colleague, the resolution calling for the state funeral. The House adopted a companion resolution offered by Representative Crisp, also of Georgia.

Senator Robinson's tribute to Senator Harris was paid yesterday in a brief statement, in which he said "the departure of Senator Harris is a distinct loss to his State and to the Nation. He was diligent and able in the performance of legislative duties."

Native City Will Honor Senator Harris at Rites

Cedartown, Ga., April 19 (A.P.).—Polk County prepared today to pay final tribute to its native son, Senator William J. Harris, who died in Washington late yesterday.

The body will arrive here Thursday morning at 9 o'clock from Washington, and will be taken to the old home place, known as the Sterling Young house, to remain until 11 o'clock. At that hour it will be transferred to the First Presbyterian Church, of which Senator Harris was a member, and will lie in state until the funeral services at 2 p. m.

The Rev. Henry F. Petersen, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will conduct the services. He will be assisted by all the other ministers of Cedartown. Interment will be in Greenwood Cemetery here.

A committee from city council and the Cedartown Post of the American Legion will meet the funeral train. The American Legion will supply a guard of honor from the time the body arrives until after interment.

All places of business will be closed during the funeral.

Man Falls Dead in Street.

A man tentatively identified as John Kozoski, 60 years old, of St. Louis, Mo., was fatally stricken yesterday as he walked in front of 313 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. He was taken to Emergency Hospital, where he was pronounced dead from a heart attack. The man was dressed in overalls and had several shoemaker's tools in his pockets.

BROKERS ARE FACING SENATE QUIZ ON 'DUMMY' TRADERS

the White House next week, carries in its text the suggestion that the New York Stock Exchange be closed outright for six months.

Another petition, which already has been signed by hundreds of architects and construction engineers, charges that every wave of short selling, by driving securities to new low ground, "causes much necessitous liquidation."

A copy of the petition, which reached a member of the Senate banking and currency committee yesterday, says in part:

"We, the undersigned representatives of the building industry, firmly believe that bear raiding on the New York Stock Exchange has existed to such an extent that it has very adversely affected the building business and business in general.

"We believe that the psychological effect of the continuous depressing of security prices has been so great that through the resultant fear and uncertainty many contemplated building operations are being held up indefinitely."

Second Movement Begun.

A second movement in the business world to bring better management to the great security exchanges was reported in the plan of several national trade associations to bring short selling before the annual convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce, scheduled to begin in San Francisco on May 16.

At their regular meeting in Washington last October 3 the board of directors of the chamber of commerce formally adopted a resolution recommending to the board of governors of the New York Stock Exchange that short selling be curbed. The text of this resolution asked: "* * * that steps be taken to limit the short selling of stocks and bonds, such limitations not to interfere with the orderly and legitimate marketing of such securities. Limitations might require that such sales be prohibited except by those who have actual possession of such securities or who deposit 40 per cent of the sale value in cash and give evidence of posession of the remainder."

Watson Seeks Action.

Among those who yesterday expressed determination to press the stock market inquiry to a positive conclusion was Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, the majority leader. Senator Watson left the tariff hearings before the finance committee Monday to sit in at the cross-examination of Mr. Whitney.

"It seems quite apparent that some mysterious influences have been depressing stock prices," Senator Watson said. "The inquiry should be prosecuted for the good of all concerned, the stock exchange as well as the general public."

Senator Steiwer (Republican), of Oregon, said yesterday he would ask the committee also to investigate the recent publication by a well-known national magazine of a list of 1931 short sellers. Publication of this list had been discontinued suddenly, Senator Steiwer said, after advertisements had announced more names for a future issue of the magazine.

BANK INTEREST COST CUT IN CREDIT THAW

New York Clearing House Move Is Linked to U. S. "Easy Money" Drive.

New York, April 19 (A.P.).—New evidence of what is hoped by central banking authorities to prove a general spring thaw made its appearance today in the credit field.

The New York Clearing House Association notified its members, including virtually all of the sizable banks of the City of New York, that on March 22 certain rules covering interest payments on deposits would undergo a change, resulting in a saving of many millions of dollars annually in interest paid by banks on deposits.

While commercial bankers did not attribute the change in rules to the Federal Reserve Bank's aggressive drive to loosen up credit, they said the action was unquestionably in "recognition" of it. In other words, they denied that the Reserve Bank's drive to pile up cash resources of the banks to such a height that they would be forced to look elsehere than at Government bonds for profitable investment caused the move, but they admitted that the early trend appeared already to point to likelihood of Reserve Bank success in that direction.

As a means of scaling down their interest charges on deposits to conform with the expected easier tone of money, the clearing house announced it had ruled "that in calculating interest on deposits from April 22, allowance is to be made for deductions in the reserve covering demand and time deposits. On the demand deposits, the reserve is to be 13 per cent and on time deposits 3 per cent."

Technically, it was explained, this will get around a general reduction in interest rates on deposits, but the effect will be the same. Under the new rule, the clearing house member banks will not pay interest on that portion of their deposits which, under law, they are obliged to turn over the reserve bank as deposit reserve. This reserve, on which the banks do not receive interest, amounts to $13 for every $100 of demand deposits and $3 for every $100 of time deposits.

Since March 12, deposits have been growing, the clearing house report showing a total of $5,174,000,000 on that date, against $5,344,000,000 last week.

NEW BRITISH BUDGET PROVES HARD TIMES

war debts. The two are self-balancing.

"Later in the year, after the Lausanne conference, I shall submit whatever proposals may be necessary to give effect to the measures we agree upon."

The chancellor explained that the omission of reparations and war debts did not imply that any new decision had been made "on our policy in this delicate question."

"Hard work, strict economy, stern courage and unfailing patience," he told the House, "are the qualifications required of us, and with them we shall not fail."

The French, Belgian, Italian and Russian ambassadors and the Swiss and Austrian ministers heard the budget speech, but Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon decided to read it in the newspapers rather than spend the afternoon in the packed gallery for distinguished strangers.

The tall and dignified chancellor, funereal in manner, relieved his speech only by a joke about patriotic taxpayers "paying more for worse beer" so as not to disappoint the British exchequer, and another quip about British millionaires living too long.

He reviewed the whole British financial position and touched briefly on the world problems of business depression, reparations and war debts.

To millionaires, whose death duties during the last two years decreased about $68,000,000, Mr. Chamberlain said he felt like calling out as did a British general during the Peninsular War, when his soldiers hesitated in battle. "Come on you rascals, do you want to live forever?" was what the general said.

He announced that there would be no relief from the standard rate of income tax at 25 per cent, but firms would be urged to help their employes pay their tax by installments.

The beer tax of 31 shillings ($5.86) a barrel will remain, and a tax on tea, which has been a feature of British taxation from the time of Queen Elizabeth through the American Revolution to the modern days of Winston Churchill, will be levied at 4 pence (6 cents) a pound.

Mr. Chamberlain said he expected the recent tariff measures to produce £27,000,000 ($101,790,000) and that new tariff levies which will be announced during the coming week were counted on for £5,000,000 ($18,850,000) additional.

SENATORS DENOUNCE BRITISH FAILURE TO BUDGET U. S. DEBT

definitely the problem of German reparations. No American delegate will be present, in line with the traditional policy of this Government that purely European reparations problems do not concern the United States.

New Moratorium Doubted.

Senator Reed was quick to see in the British statement a possible interpretation by opposition members of the influence of newly arrived Ambassador Mellon on the British chancellor of the exchequer. Ambassador Mellon, some time before his appointment as Ambassador to the Court of St. James, had expressed the hope that some revision of the intergovernmental debts might be possible, especially in view of the difficult British financial position. Senator Reed declared yesterday:

"I am perfectly certain that no responsible American official has given our British friends any reason to think that these payments will not be expected to be made."

Any possibility that President Hoover might declare another moratorium after the present one has expired was scouted here in all circles. The rising tide of congressional opposition to the ratification of the present moratorium which almost succeeded in overwhelming the President's emergency measure of last June would certainly manifest itself in categoric fashion at this time.

Borah Speech Dramatic.

The Borah speech was one of the most dramatic he has made this present session. The senator from Idaho was on familiar territory. His attitude on the question of war debts, revision of treaties and disarmament was again forcefully brought to the attention of all nations as he declared:

"So long as the peace treaties are unrevised, there will remain intellectual, emotional and spiritual war and there will be no disarmament in Europe."

"It is said that the war ended with the armistice. War as remorseless has continued since November 11, 1918, because it has reached more people. The economic and financial war has never ceased."

Borah's familiar theme of the armament of Europe in the face of her financial obligations to the United States was thus expressed yesterday:

"I don't know whether the reparations question can be solved, or whether Europe will disarm, but I do know that until these two questions are settled, the United States is powerless to help."

In his denunciation of the debt cancellation, Borah had yeoman assistance. Senators Robert B. Howell (Republican), of Nebraska, and Lewis were equally as aroused.

Attack on Smith's Plan.

Howell declared:

"Not one of these governments asked for the moratorium. Who did ask for it? The great invisible government, our Government, the international bankers."

The Illinois senator said:

"Representatives of foreign governments have joined with the international bankers in an effort to either adjust the debts downward looking to an early cancellation, or have the moratorium made permanent now."

However, the address of Senator Borah took on an almost campaign flavor as he attacked the project of Al Smith for dealing with the question of intergovernmental debts. Former Gov. Smith would postpone the entire debt problem for 20 years and then permit the gross value of American exports to these European countries to be counted as 25 per cent of the total debt figures.

"There is no question as to who would benefit under the 20-year plan. The American taxpayer could not. The only persons who could benefit would be those who hold private loans in Europe."

Plan Called Cancellation.

This would be only cancellation under another name, according to the chairman of the foreign relations committee.

"Examination discloses that if these countries purchase no more, if they continue to purchase the same amounts, the result will be cancellation."

"Cancellation of the debts on the theory that it will help the economic condition, without a change in treaties and in spirit, is, in my opinion, a perfectly futile proposition."

The senator cited the Hoover moratorium as an example of the futility of dealing with the question without a fundamental agreement in the decade-old spirit of Europe. "This," he declared, "has been disappointing, which, however, was no fualt of the United States. Europe's condition is bad, but the United States can do nothing until she helps herself.

"It doesn't seem to me to be a perfectly desirable proposition for all the taxpayers to surrender the public debts in order that a few taxpayers can collect private debts."

BRITAIN IS WORRIED BY M'DONALD'S EYE

maintained," the bulletin, issued at Downing street, said. It was added that the prime minister's condition was such that "under normal conditions he would be advised to take a complete rest for several weeks." However, it was decided that MacDonald should go to Geneva, accompanied by Sir Thomas Horder, the physician who signed the bulletin.

MacDonald will leave by airplane, flying first to Paris for a one-hour conference with Premier Andre Tardieu of France. They will discuss the disarmament situation and the Danubian plan for relief of central Europe.

$15,336,000 IS CUT FROM NAVAL BILL

Measure Reported to House Carries $326,340,000; $136,000,000 Saving.

A $326,340,000 Navy appropriations bill, trimmed $15,336,000 by relentlessly striking at every naval activity with the single exception of sea fighting strength, was reported to the House yesterday.

Savings under the measure brought accumulated economies claimed by Appropriations Chairman Joseph W. Byrns to $136,000,000. This figure is challenged by President Hoover, who believes most of it must be made up in deficiency appropriations.

Representative W. A. Ayres (Democrat), Kansas, chairman of the Navy appropriations subcommittee appealed against further cuts in the bill. Quoting Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, he declared naval operations already reduced to the "danger zone."

Despite far-reaching economies throughout the service, the bill carries $41,230,000 for construction of new warships and for modernizing old vessels, including the New Mexico, Mississippi and Idaho.

Among the committee's unusual recommendations was a request that the dirigible Los Angeles be retired from the Navy.

Further economies were proposed in public works, aviation, ration funds and reduction in flight and submarine pay. To cut further, Representative Ayres said it would be necessary to reduce personnel, withdraw vessels from active commission, provide reduced sums for repair and upkeep, curtail employes in shore establishments, and cut civil and naval pay.

INDICTED OFFICIALS DUE IN COURT TODAY

Arlington Trio Scheduled to Plead Before McCarthy; Elm Trees Planted.

With indictments returned by the grand jury at the opening of the April term of the Circuit Court of Arlington County on Monday against former County Treasurer E. Wade Ball, County Clerk William H. Duncan, and F. J. Hallock, former clerk to the county school board, for alleged shortages in their accounts, citizens of the county are waiting to learn what will happen when the trio appear before Judge Walter T. McCarthy today to answer the indictments.

With Duncan reported by his physician as unable to appear in court on Monday to answer the rule issued against him by the court to show cause why his bond as county clerk should not be increased, indications are that he will not be in court today.

After much speculation as to what action the grand jury was going to take, conditions at the courthouse yesterday took on their usual appearance. All officials, many of whom were seen in and about the courtroom on Monday, to learn the grand jury's action, were yesterday in their offices.

With county officials busy with their usual duties, the corps of State auditors was likewise busy, with their heads buried in the pile of books in the rooms where they are carrying on their investigation.

What will be the final results of their investigation as to the financial condition of Arlington County no one will know until the audit is complete. When that will be the auditors declare they are unable to say.

With the arrival of 100 elm trees yesterday, the Lee Heights Citizens Association took the lead over all other sections in the county in an effort to beautify its section.

Under the leadership of M. Q. Macdonald, president, a group of the association members, armed with spades, took up the task of planting the trees along Hill Crest avenue.

That the trees might be planted in a uniform plan, much aid was given by the county engineer's office, which laid out the avenue so that the trees would be of uniform distance.

In addition, the members of the Hall's Hill Fire Department took part in the tree planting by furnishing the necessary water as each tree was set in the ground.

President Macdonald says this is but a start to what is planned by the association to make this section of Arlington County one of the beauty spots.

Senator Marvel M. Logan, of Kentucky, is announced as the principal speaker at the annual banquet and dance of the Arlington County Civic Federation, to be held this evening at 6:45 o'clock in the George Mason Hotel, Alexandria.

Robert N. Anderson, president of the federation, will act as toastmaster. The entertainment program will include songs by Representative Woodrum and members of the Estelle Wentworth Opera Company. Dancing will follow the banquet.

The Edward Douglas White Council, Knights of Columbus, will hold its first meeting in its new home, located on Garrison road, Clarendon, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

The building was recently purchased and has been thoroughly remodeled. There are still a number of improvements to be added, which promise to make it a model clubhouse for the Knights.

MASSIE WAS INSANE, 2 ALIENISTS TESTIFY

Stewart, retired Army captain, had testified briefly, after which the prosecution recalled Massie to the stand to question him about participating in amateur theatricals.

At Darrow's request, Dr. Orbison explained the meaning of the word psychiatry for the benefit of the racially mixed jury. He then termed Massie's condition at the time of the tragedy as "delirium with ambulatory autonomism." Darrow asked for a simplified definition and the witness called it mental derangement.

Massie "carried around this terrible memory," Dr. Orbison continued, "and also what his friends had told him—terrible rumors about his wife, and one that he himself hit her in the jaw and broke it."

"Do you believe his condition of mind, started with the assault on his wife, was contributed to by everything else that followed?" Darrow asked.

"Oh, certainly."

The witness then went into a long discussion of glands, but Darrow cut him off with:

"Well, doctor, you believe the defendant, Massie, was insane when the shooting occurred?"

"Certainly," Dr. Orbison said. "Massie told me that in the moment Kahahawai uttered the words 'We done it,' he didn't know what happened. I asked him what he did with the gun and other things and he said he didn't know."

The fight began when Barry S. Ulrich, assistant prosecutor, took Dr. Orbison for cross-examination. Prosecutor John C. Kelley previously had expressed disbelief in the story told on the stand by Massie, and hinted that Albert O. Jones, another defendant, actually fired the shot.

Ulrich sought to get Dr. Orbison to admit that his opinion was based on the assumption Massie's story was true.

"I would still believe he was insane whether I believed him or not," the witness said.

HANCOCK IS NAMED TO COUNTY OFFICE

Is Appointed Account Clerk for Montgomery Funds by Commissioners.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Appointment of Alexander K. Hancock, of Takoma Park, Md., a certified public accountant, as account clerk for the county funds, at a salary of $3,000 a year, was announced yesterday by the Montgomery County Commissioners at their meeting in Rockville. The appointment is in line with the recommendations of R. G. Rankin & Co., auditing firm, which audited the county books. The auditing firm reported that appointment of such an official would be of great benefit to the county.

Mr. Hancock is a member of the bar of the Supreme Court of the United States, and has been employed by the Rankin company and by Thomas O'Brien, jr., & Co., and has practiced law and conducted an independent business as a certified public accountant. He is familiar with the county records, as he was one of the auditors who worked with the Rankin company in auditing the county books.

The commissioners yesterday rejected the application of Michael E. Young, the owner, for rezoning of the property which was the site of the Silver Spider on Conduit road, near Glen Echo, from residential to commercial. The property was permitted to be used as commercial, since it was in operation when the zoning laws were adopted, but it was carried as nonconforming and no other commercial property can be erected without first obtaining rezoning to commercial.

The commissioners referred to the State roads commission a request of the Damascus Citizens Association that shoulders be built on State Highway No. 29, which was presented to the board by Commissioner Sherwood Duvall. Charles Y. Latimer, clerk to the county commissioners, has written to the various civic boards and fire departments asking that they furnish necessary information for use in preparing the annual county levy.

A letter opposing the proposal to cut the salaries of county officials 10 per cent, offered by the county grand jury, was received yesterday by the county commissioners from Mrs. Daisy I. Whiton, of Beach avenue, Alta Vista. Mrs. Whiton declared that the officials should be given a 10 per cent raise instead of a cut.

Mrs. Whiton also stated that "big business" should be made to tell how much it pays its "servants," which would show that the salaries paid public officials are but piker's salaries.

The Bicentennial celebration, which was announced for the Sandy Spring community for today will be held on May 20, it was stated last night.

Dr. Charles C. Clark was reelected chairman of the citizens committee of Chevy Chase, Md., Section 2, at the annual meeting of the citizens. Other members of the committee elected are Curtis Walker, Frederick Stohlman, John W. Smith, Walter A. Johnston, Miss Beatrice Clephane and Mrs. James C. Ord.

The citizens voted to continue the present special assessment of 30 cents per $100 assessed valuation for upkeep of the village and approved a budget totaling $22,600 for the new fiscal year. The treasurer reported expenditures of $28,464.57 and a balance on hand of $9,122.40.

Sibley Hospital Guild Will Gather Tomorrow

The Women's Guild of the Sibley Memorial Hospital will hold its April meeting in Rust Hall at 10:45 o'clock tomorrow morning. Dr. B. Simpson Daugherty, of the Memorial United Brethren Church, will speak at the meeting.

Reports of the recent linen shower will be given and an entertainment and luncheon will follow. The women of the Foundry M. E. Church will be the hostesses at the luncheon. Mrs. T. Hayward Brown will sing several numbers.

ALEXANDRIA POPPY GROUP LAYS PLANS

Offers Prizes to School Children in Competition of Poster.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU, 907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va. Phone Alexandria 523.

Mrs. Leroy E. Peabody, chairman of the American Legion poppy committee of Alexandria, has announced that all posters in the poppy poster contest sponsored by the National and Department organizations submitted from the Alexandria schools must be in her hands not later than May 1. A local committee will judge the entries and send the best to the department poppy chairman, Mrs. Charles McKinney, of Harrisonburg. After all entries of the Department of Virginia are judged, the best from the State will be sent to the National poppy chairman. The national prize will be $25, the department prizes $5 and $2.50, while the local unit will give an award of $2.50 to the best entry from the Alexandria schools.

The local and department awards will be made at the annual convention of the American Legion and Auxiliary to be held in Alexandria in August. All posters submitted in the State will be on exhibition during the convention. The subject of the posters will be the veteran-made poppy.

Mrs. Peabody is arranging for the annual sale of poppies in May.

The city council of Alexandria will hold an open meeting, May 5, to consider the question of rezoning a portion of South Washington street for commercial purposes. The meeting will be at 3 p. m.

One section sought to be rezoned is on the west side of Washington street, between Franklin and Jefferson streets, comprising a strip 31 feet wide. Application for the change is being made by B. B. Ezrine. Another section is the area at the southwest intersection of Washington and Jefferson streets. This application was made by V. Ward Boswell.

Another change from residential to commercial use is being asked for the frontage on the east side of Henry street between Cameron and Queen streets.

Sam Reese, colored, 22 years old, arraigned in police court yesterday on a charge of shooting and killing Burke Bodley, also colored, of 413 North Henry street, Alexandria, was acquitted of the charge by Justice William S. Snow.

Reese maintained several colored men came to his home the night of April 12, armed with shotguns, and threatened him, whereupon he fired upon them. One of the shots struck Bodley and he died several days later.

The Alexandria branch of the Salvation Army reports that 256 persons were accommodated with lodging in the week ended April 16, 395 suppers and lunches were served, 21 garments distributed, and 3 pairs of shoes given away. For the Alexandria United Charities, the Salvation Army served 405 breakfasts to transients, of which number 242 were to white and 163 to colored persons.

Assault to Slay Dry Agent Charged in Prince Georges

An indictment charging Aubrey Harding with assault with intent to kill and assault and battery on Harry D. McMunn, a Federal dry agent, was among first lot returned by the Prince Georges County grand jury. Harding is accused of wounding McMunn with a shotgun during a raid near Croome, Md., last fall.

Lomas Gordon was indicted for manslaughter in the death of Richard Dean, who was thrown from an auto when it rounded a curve near Silver Hill several months ago. James Jumper, accused of being the Mount Rainier "burnt match burglar," was named in two indictments charging him with housebreaking, larceny and receiving stolen goods. One alleges that he took jewelry from Mrs. Sadie Haskell and the other accuses him of stealing money from Luke Green. The man responsible for these crimes marked his depredations by piles of burnt matches he used to light his raids.

Other indictments were: Samuel J. Hannah and George W. Schneider, larceny and receiving goods stolen from Richard H. Steele; Joseph Nicholson, assault with intent to kill and assault and battery on William Wilson; Hayden Charles Kidwell, nonsupport; Henry H. Kidwell, nonsupport; George Walker, Albert Foster, and Buster Foster, larceny of chickens and receiving goods stolen from J. P. Sayer.

Maynard Phair, storebreaking, larceny, and receiving goods stolen from Albert Block; Robert E. Mahoney, nonsupport; Sam Wells, assault with intent to kill and assault and battery on Ben Duckett; Edward Williams, assault with intent to kill and assault and battery on Albert Foster.

Edward Callaway, larceny and receiving goods stolen from Mary E. Beckert; Joseph Ayers, larceny of an auto and receiving goods stolen from Hilda Harrison; Gilbert Smith, nonsupport; Lucille Robertson, larceny of $85 and receiving goods stolen from William Gladden; Raymond Puller, Freddie William, and Harry Simms Brooke, store-breaking, larceny, and receiving goods stolen from Nunale Farma.

BOARD IN ARLINGTON ATTACKS BYRD'S ACT

Members State Adherence to Road Plan Would Hinder Progress.

Provisions of the Byrd road act, which provide for the Virginia State Highway Department to take over all county roads into a secondary highway system on July 1, thereby affording a material reduction in taxes, as advocated by Delegate Hugh Reid, were attacked by members of the county board of Arlington County at a mass meeting last night at the Ashton Heights Woman's Clubhouse.

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Magruder, member of the board, attacked the act, asserting that "by remaining under the act we will halt our present program for the county's development."

Replying to the statement of Delegate Hugh Reid that he advocates a reduction in the road tax for this year, John C. Gall, another member of the board, declared that it would be poor policy to reduce taxes "before we know whether the citizens of the county wish to remain in or withdraw from the provisions of the bill."

Gall said, "Arlington County will profit far greater in the development of its road system by withdrawing from it, and I hope that the voters in the county will go to the polls on August 9 and so express themselves."

Other members of the board advocating withdrawing from the bill were Fred A. Gosnell and Harry A. Fellows.

County Manager Roy S. Braden briefly outlined plans for the county-wide cleanup campaign which starts May 2.

MRS. WIMBLEY HELD ABLE TO SAVE SELF IF ALLOWED

Wimbley and his wife and her child to the canal.

Patrolman J. A. Fleishauser, of the Seventh Precinct, told the jury that on the afternoon of September 17, he went to the drowning scene and saw "Crowder and Wimbley there near the body of a woman. Crowder came to the north bank of the canal in a canoe and brought the policemen to the south bank."

He noticed a wrist watch on Mrs. Wimbley's arm, with the hands of the watch indicating 2:21. He compared this with the time on his own watch, which was indicated as 2:50. They unsuccessfully applied artificial respiration, he said.

Wimbley's Story Related.

"Wimbley said his wife and little girl were in a canoe and were standing up. He said he shouted to them to sit down. Then he said he heard a dog barking nearby and went down to the river bank, where he saw a colored man training a bird dog. Crowder was still fishing from the bank, he said. Wimbley said he saw the wife and child get into a canoe and shove off. The canoe overturned and he ran to the canal and dove in.

"He said he saw his wife's hat floating in the stream and he dove under it, hoping to find the body, but he found nothing. Then he said he saw a fishing pole in the water and he grabbed the pole and his wife's hand was clutched in a death grip on the handle. He said he pulled the body to the surface and brought it to the bank, where he applied artificial respiration," the policeman said.

After Fireman James R. Curtis, of the Rescue Squad, had testified that Wimbley had expressed particular interest in the length of time that a person would be submerged before drowning occurred, Lieut. A. C. Kefauver, of the Rescue Squad, told the court that Crowder had told him that he had not accompanied Wimbley on the fishing party, but that he had been fishing on the canal bank when the drowning occurred.

Tells of Another Woman.

Mrs. Nellie K. Leonard, of 305 C street northwest, testified Wimbley had lived with another woman at her rooming house whom she believed to be his wife. They remained there from July until September when the woman left for the Middle West. On the night of the drowning, Mrs. Leonard said, "I asked him how many wives he had, and he told me that the woman who was drowned was his wife and the child was his stepchild."

"I asked him why he used a canoe because they were so dangerous," she said, "and he said he couldn't get a boat."

Fight on Evidence Fails.

A lengthy argument over the admissibility of evidence surrounding the $10,000 insurance policy featured the morning session in the crowded courtroom, Defense Attorneys Cedric Johnson and Louis Whitestone contending that documentary evidence of the policy had been suppressed by the Supreme Court because of illegal entry. Justice James M. Proctor ruled in favor of the Government.

The Government introduced testimony through Michael Klackho, an insurance broker, that Wimbley had inquired specifically whether the policy would cover accidental drowning.

Wanted "Good Policy."

Under cross-examination by Mr. Whitestone, the insurance agent admitted that Wimbley had asked him about an insurance policy and that he had inquired at length about the health features of the policy.

Under further questioning by Mr. Collins, who is being aided by Assistant District Attorney John J. Sirica, Klachko told the jury Wimbley had discarded a few of the policies, including one for limited accidental death, and said, "I want a good policy—one that covers everything."

PORTO RICAN FLAG MOVEMENT FAILS

Legislature Adjourns Without Adoption of Official Emblem.

San Juan, Porto Rico, April 19 (A. P.).—Another session of the Legislature has passed without assigning an official flag to Porto Rico.

The House of Representatives adjourned today without considering a bill passed by the Senate to make the one-star emblem the official banner of the island.

Senate passage of the measure Sunday provoked a riot in which one student was killed and several were injured. The Nationalists opposed making the one-star flag official, because they contended it was their banner, and such action would leave them without one.

A budget of $11,200,000 was voted by the Legislature, exceeding by about $1,200,000 the recommendations of Gov. Beverley, based on anticipated revenues.

A 2 per cent sales tax was imposed, but the legislators declined to make general salary reductions in government posts.

Mayor of Hyattsville Heads Election Board

Lemuel L. Gray, mayor of Hyattsville, yesterday was chosen head of the Prince Georges County Board of Election Supervisors, to succeed J. August Miller, who died recently. The board met yesterday to make up the form of the ballot to be used in the election on May 6, and to swear in new election officials.

Registration days for the presidential primary will be held April 26, from 9 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night. One of two Democrats will be chosen for the nomination from the Fifth Maryland Congressional District, and the names of two Republican candidates for President will appear on the ballot.

THE ECONOMY BILL.

President Hoover won an important point when the House economy committee agreed to put all of the items in the economy program into one omnibus bill. In no other way could the vital issue of cutting down Federal expenditures in this critical period be placed squarely before Congress. Any item in the program might be defeated, if it went before the Senate or House alone. But when the entire program, which balances the interests of one group against another, is brought to a vote, minor issues will be buried under the general demand for a drastic reduction of expenditures to supplement the new tax program.

To be satisfactory, however, an omnibus bill ought not to involve any major questions of policy. At least two items which the Democratic leaders intend to include within the economy measure do not belong there under any circumstances. First is the proposed merger of the Army and Navy Departments. From any angle that it may be considered this is a vital question. It is not a simple matter of economy, but involves a major question of policy. To include such a measure in an economy bill would make a farce of national defense.

Heretofore the economy committee has been unable to agree on this proposed consolidation. But the Democratic leaders are aware of the fact that President Hoover and all his Cabinet are opposed to it. Inclusion of this obnoxious measure in the economy bill, which the President himself has sponsored, would be a masterstroke of political trickery. President Hoover would have to choose between vetoing the economy bill or jeopardizing the national defense. Whatever action he might take would lead into certain difficulties. If the Democrats intend to play politics with economy in this manner the whole program may be scuttled.

One other item that ought not to be included in the omnibus bill is the proposed reduction in Federal salaries. Salary cuts or enforced leave without pay are a matter of broad general policy. Since the committee is determined to go ahead with its pay-slashing measure Congress ought to be given a chance to vote on it separately. This measure is too vital to the welfare of the Government and the employes themselves to be included in a general economy bill.

Thus far the President and the House committee have worked in admirable harmony to trim down expenditures. It would be unfortunate indeed if the opportunists of the House insist on injecting extraneous questions into the general economy issue. Let the silly move to consolidate the Army and Navy be abandoned, and the pay-cutting measure postponed until every effort has been made to balance the budget without this sacrifice on the part of Government workers.

IRELAND AT CROSS-ROADS.

History of far-reaching importance may be written in Ireland today when the Dail passes on the oath of allegiance to the British crown. There will be no violent eruption, regardless of what action the Dail takes. But it is probable that the vote will mark the beginning of a new era for Ireland, unless the course mapped out by President Eamon de Valera is reversed by later action.

Various complicated elements have been injected into the issue since Mr. de Valera won the recent election on a promise of abolishing the oath of allegiance. Canada and South Africa have given the Irish government notice that the relations between them as members of the British Commonwealth of Nations would be changed by abolition of the oath. The Irish republicans, who demand a reunion of the Free State and Ulster, have definitely announced that they will not support President de Valera on what they consider a half-way measure. Industrial leaders are very much disturbed at the situation and they make no secret of the fact that much of their business may be transferred to other countries if the Free State disrupts its friendly relations with Great Britain and the dominions.

On the other hand, Great Britain is not alarmed by Mr. de Valera's determination to renounce King George. If Ireland wants to commit suicide, Britain is not going to rush in and stop her. The London government has warned Mr. de Valera against violation of the Anglo-Irish treaty. But it is apparent that Britain will rely upon the economic necessity of the Free State to bring reason out of fanaticism.

It would be enlightening to hear Mr. de Valera discourse upon the international status of Ireland under his program. The Free State, he says, is not a British colony. He draws a distinction between Ireland and Canada or Australia. Yet he contends that the Free State would not be outside of the commonwealth if the oath of allegiance is abolished. In view of the fact that allegiance to the same monarch is the only tie that holds the commonwealth together, this is curious logic. If Ireland could claim the benefits of the empire's tariff preferences after repudiating the king, what is to prevent Holland or Sweden from demanding similar privileges?

Apparently President de Valera does not know just what he seeks, except to gratify the vanity of Irish radicals. Ireland will pay a frightful price for that luxury if the attitudes which are now manifest in England and the dominions as well as in Ireland are solidified into public policy.

PLATFORM BUILDING.

Under the inspiration of Al Smith and Jouett Shouse the Democratic national committee is making arrangements to have the party's platform committee meet in advance of the Chicago convention. Apparently this is a move toward drafting a model platform that will charm the voters by its logic, clearness and brevity. If any other purpose actuates the amiable Mr. Shouse, his ostensible motive is so praiseworthy that no opposition has developed.

It might be argued that Mr. Shouse and his colleagues who are now in control of the Democratic party machinery are taking advantage of this opportunity to impress their own ideas upon the platform committee before the convention assembles. Do they intend to crystallize the party's policy and then attempt to choose a presidential nominee to fit the platform? Or is this merely an innocent scheme to prevent the party's wild men from living up to their reputation?

The idea of working out a concise, straightforward and definite platform before the convention meets is more appealing in theory than in practice. Charlie Michelson is right when he says that "days of turbulence, impassioned speeches and bitter controversies" are not likely to produce intelligent platforms. The apathetic public will testify that lengthly, evasive and inconsistent declarations of policy are regarded as nothing more than ornamental camouflage. As a rule, however, platforms are equivocal and deceiving because the politicians who stand on them have no desire to face the issues, and not because those platforms are hastily drawn up in the chaos of battle.

Virtually all Democrats are agreed that the tariff, for example, will be an important issue in the 1932 campaign. Who will write the tariff plank? Will that duty be intrusted to the Democratic leaders of the House who interpolated new duties in the revenue bill and to the Senate Democrats who are clamoring for more protection for their own States? Or will the more detached idealists who still worship at the shrine of free trade be allowed to prescribe the alternative for the Smoot-Hawley act? It is inconceivable that any amount of "mature consideration" could reconcile the tariff demands which many Democrats have made at this session of Congress with the traditional policy of that party.

The split between wet and dry Democrats is no less gaping than the division on the tariff. If the platform committee intends candidly to tell the public what the party stands for on these two issues, it ought to begin its grind immediately. But the greatest dilemma is what the party intends to substitute for President Hoover's valiant efforts to stem the depression. A year's research probably would not reveal any formula that could satisfactorily disguise the negation of the Democratic policy in this field.

Under the circumstances it seems probable that the early call of the platform committee is considered necessary to insure the concealment of these schisms and this negative policy in clever and florid phrases.

GOV. ROOSEVELT LEARNS.

The public utterances of Gov. Roosevelt are disappointing. They lack the virility that is demanded of national leaders. He repeatedly states self-evident facts, and pleads for recognition of the truth of things that no man questions. He specifies glaring wrongs that are obvious to all, but the remedies he proposes are as general and as lacking in application as they are platitudinous. Speaking at St. Paul the governor quoted from Jefferson and Lincoln, from Woodrow Wilson and Theodore Roosevelt, to support his plea for the welfare of the public as a whole.

This was a broadening of the demand in the governor's radio address for justice to the "little man." Following the denunciation from his predecessor, former Gov. Smith, that his first speech was a demagogic appeal to class prejudice, Mr. Roosevelt appeals for a true "concert of interests." It is to this "national community of interests that we should dedicate ourselves," said Mr. Roosevelt, and added: "If that be treason make the most of it." The governor is quite safe; no one will call him a traitor for speaking for the good of all.

It is remarkable that a man in Gov. Roosevelt's position should beg the question of the decline of foreign trade, laying all blame upon the American tariff and taking no account whatever of lowered prices and a world-wide depression. Lesser lights do this repeatedly, but is it to be expected that a man aspiring to the executive chair would resort to such palpable evasion as to charge the development of protective policies of European nations as exclusively retaliatory measures against America?

With equally questionable judgment Gov. Roosevelt endeavors to make a national issue of the water-power question. It is a question that holds peculiar interest for New York. For the Nation at large, in which hydro-electric power supplies less than 8 per cent of the energy used, it is not so vital a matter as the plight of the bituminous coal industry which furnishes more than half the country's power. Furthermore, modern fuel plants produce electricity more cheaply than it can be done by water-power, and they offer the important advantage in the present crisis of calling for more labor than is the case with hydro-electric power.

Fomer Gov. Smith doubtless will take no little satisfaction in the fact that he has forced Gov. Roosevelt to change his position and come out in his latest plea "for a policy broad enough to include every part of our economic structure." The governor's earlier misrepresentation of the work that is being done by the new agencies for the relief of credit, the aid they have given the small banks and through them the "small men" and interests, and the manifold ways in which direct assistance is being extended to agriculture, has called down upon his head severe criticism from many members of his own party. Without admitting that he feels Gov. Smith's rebuke, Gov. Roosevelt takes care not to appeal to class prejudice. This is progress in the education of a Presidential candidate.

AMERICA'S GREAT ADVANTAGE.

Scarcely a day passes that does not provide evidence of the advantage offered to American producers by the great, protected home market. Foreign producers would be fortunate if they possessed such a home market. An example of the foreign producers' handicap is shown in the plight of the Lancashire cotton industry. It enjoyed a brief spurt following abandonment of the gold standard in England, but even the decline of the pound, and with weavers' wages averaging less than $8 a week, it is found impossible, with antiquated machinery, to compete in the markets of India, China and Africa. There are mills in Egypt where women and children work long hours for 10 cents a day. The low-wage workers of Japan and India, too, are gradually supplanting English cotton goods.

Following a year and a half of negotiations the British manufacturers have failed to come to an agreement with the workers and have abandoned the attempt to introduce the plan of more-looms-to-a-weaver in an effort to reduce costs. As this principle would inevitably reduce the number of employes, it was successfully opposed. But the only alternative, apparently, under which British competition can be continued in the great cotton-consuming countries of the East is further reduction of already meager wages.

It is not hard to imagine what British manufacturers, not only in the cotton industry, but all others, would give for a market like that of the United States, where every citizen is not only a potential but a real customer, and where wage earners are protected against the cheap labor of other lands. While English factories have not the capital to install modern equipment, American plants will emerge from the present business slump in better shape than before, with obsolete parts discarded, with expenses curtailed, prepared in every way to realize better profits.

In spite of all disturbing factors in the commercial and industrial situation, American business will once more be resumed in full measure and prosperity will return. No sane person questions the ability of Americans to work out of their troubles. Such an experienced visitor as Sir Josiah Stamp, director of the Bank of England, is astounded to find the widespread fear psychology current here, when its productive resources are unimpaired. The renewed efforts of executive and legislative branches of the Government to work together in all measures of national rehabilitation are having a good effect in the entire business world.

An amendment to the old song, "The Bears Went Over the Mountain," would be in order. It ought to read: "The bears went over the top."

If any further evidence of depression is needed, one may note that Jack and Estelle remain unreconciled.

Representative LaGuardia moves to save the country from the bonus by adopting a dole.

The aims of Japan in the Far East are said to be uncertain, but the target knows it is the target.

HONORABLE FINGERPRINTS

From the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

The case of Sergt. Charles W. Vernoy, who died at Camden early this month and will be buried today at Beverly with military honors, illustrates the use of fingerprints for identification of a man with an honorable and patriotic record. Except for the discovery of the soldier's identity through the fingerprint records of the Veterans' Bureau at Washington, Sergt. Vernoy would have been buried in a nameless grave. An amnesia victim, he did not know his own name. After his death Army fingerprint records named him.

Coincident with this comes the full identification through the fingerprint records of the War Department, of "Joe Bond," as the missing Tobias Burke, of this city, to the great satisfaction of his family here.

Repugnance to fingerprinting arises from the fact that it is best known to civilians as a means of identifying criminals. Every American soldier has been fingerprinted, however—the total running to several millions, and also thousands of others in Government employ. The aversion to fingerprinting ought not to be stronger than aversion to photographing, for criminal identification bureaus file photographs as well as fingerprints. On the other hand, photographs can not be catalogued like fingerprints. A fingerprint record has a definite place in an identification file, but a photograph must be located by search. Its usefulness is limited.

As fingerprinting becomes more important in general use for identification purposes, it will hardly be more disliked than photographing for the identical use. The police camera is just as unpopular as other accessories of criminal identification, but outside a police station one's fingerprints are just as honorable as one's likeness or one's character and reputation.

POST HASTE.

The Daughters Are Right with the Vice President on preparedness.

Gov. Roosevelt journeyed to St. Paul to warble "A concert of classes." It's a good theme, but it needs some new words.

It has all the indications of an intended affront, striking all that gold out in Senator Pittman's country.

That noise you hear must be the half million coal miners out of work cheering Roosevelt's water power speech.

If there are 24,000 bears prowling around Wall street no wonder there have been howls over the slim picking.

Al Smith will have hard work demolishing the governor's contention that the way to have prosperity is to make everybody prosperous.

So far from retiring, the Japs seem to have insomnia just as bad at Shanghai as in Manchuria.

Everybody says Frank Roosevelt is a nice fellow, but somehow he can't put a punch in anything he says, not even when repeating the words of Jefferson or Cousin Theodore.

The things they can propose with straight faces as national legislation should convince Dr. Sirovich that there are enough actors in the House to organize a troupe that would be beyond criticism.

What would you do with your certificates if Patman should succeed Mills and Meyer?

Pussyfoot Johnson, the veteran temperance crusader, is a hopeless reactionary. He favors a prohibition referendum, but just according to plain, constitutional procedure.

Some spellbinders can perpetrate political platitudes with a punch and get away with it, but it's a gift.

Possibly a diagram could be prepared that would show how purchases of $100,000,000 in Government securities every week by the Federal Reserve will help even the "little fellow."

Prunella is still suspicious that the stagger project for employes is a scheme of the liquor interests.

The greatest drawback to the five-day week will be the folks who will insist that those Saturdays be used to improve the alleged mind.

PLANT A GARDEN.

If your purse no longer bulges and you've lost your golden treasure,
If at times you think you're lonely have hungry grown for pleasure
Don't sit by your hearth and grumble, don't let mind and spirit harden.
If it's thrills of joy you wish for, get to work and plant a garden!

If it's drama that you sigh for plant a garden and you'll get it.
You will know the thrill of battle fighting foes that will beset it.
If you long for entertainment and for pageantry most glowing,
Plant a garden, and this summer spend your time with green things growing.

If it's comradeship you sigh for, learn the fellowship of daisies.
You will come to know your neighbor by the blossoms that he raises;
If you'd get away from boredom and find new delights to look for,
Learn the joy of budding pansies which you've kept a special nook for.

If you ever think of dying and you fear to wake tomorrow, Plant a garden! It will cure you of your melancholic sorrow.
Once you've learned to know the

You will find that every morning some new happiness discloses.

Eventually the Crowd Trusts the Man Who Means What He Says.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

SUCCESS in business depends on intelligence and industry; success in the arts depends on "luck."

A business man can adjust his product or his service to public taste. If one offering isn't popular, he can switch to another.

But the artists—the writer, the preacher and the politician are born to succeed or born to fail. Circumstances alone determines their rise or fall.

Each does his work according to his nature and helplessly awaits the public verdict. If he has rung the bell, fame and fortune are his in abundance. If he has failed to strike a popular chord, nothing he can do will save him from obscurity.

Those who win fame are not the ones who adjust themselves to public taste, but those whose ideals, prejudices and capacities happen to match the public standards of the time. A Shakespeare or Milton would fail today, as a jazz band would have failed in the time of Beethoven.

A layman might suggest that writers and statesmen whose labors fail to win public approval could make success certain by giving the public what it wants.

But products of the mind can not be changed as products of machinery are.

Henry Mencken is successful because a portion of the public enjoys the kind of writing he does. But suppose it did not; suppose he could find no market. Could he adopt a more popular style and mimic Harold Bell Wright? No more than a leopard can change its spots.

For better or worse, he is as he is. Even if he could sacrifice his self-respect and prostitute his art to win public favor, his obvious insincerity would doom him to failure.

It is sincerity that holds a following. Men without pride or principle may shout for the cause that happens to be popular and thus win favor for a day, but they never last. The shrewdest of frauds somehow fails to ring true and the public never quite trusts him.

One who sells his birthright has his mess of pottage, but that is his only reward. Only the man who is true to himself can win permanent honors. If he is right, time will prove it. And while he is eating crusts and waiting, he has the satisfaction of keeping his self-respect.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Big Loan Facts.

Kansas City Times.

The statement of Secretary Hyde in Kansas City about the purpose of administration financial measures to date should clear up some misconception, ignorance or deliberate misrepresentation with respect to these matters. The Secretary had particular reference to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, to the credit corporation which was established earlier, to extension of powers of Federal Land Banks, those of some home land banks, assistance to depositors in failed banks, and other measures. All of these, he said, were designed to help the little fellow, not the big fellow.

Yet there is the frequent assertion that the funds provided through these measures are grants to the "big bankers, the railroads and insurance companies," and that when the little fellow wants anything from the Government he is refused. All that is sheer bunk, of course; partly propaganda for the bonus, partly idle talk and partly political claptrap. No Government money has been or will be "given" to any agency through these credit provisions. The money is being extended in the form of loans, expected to be made on a sound business basis and to be repaid with interest. And the loans are made to the banks, the railroads and the rest only that they may continue in operation and help millions of people through extension of credit, protection of accounts and through the furnishing of employment. Already the benefits are apparent through the checking of bank failures, the prevention thereby of serious hardships to depositors and to the business of hundreds of communities and in a gradual restoration of confidence, which is being noted throughout the country.

Need More Time.

Judge.

The presidential term really ought to be six or eight years, so as to give the Democrats more time between elections in which to clean up their campaign deficits.

Inside Information.

Kansas City Times.

Whatever others may think and however the delegates already may be lining up, former Senator Joseph I. France, of Maryland, is in position to state unequivocally that "Mr. Hoover will not be the nominee of the Republican party at the Chicago convention." As to who will be the nominee, that is just a little embarrassing to former Senator France. He has been looking about the country, waiting for signs and perhaps seeing a few; and if one insists upon knowing the truth, the former senator will out with it frankly. He believes that he, himself, has a chance. It is not held to be strictly an inside chance, but the information as to who has a better one is from the inside, absolutely, no matter what an outsider may think of it. But the former senator should be sure to get word to the convention that he has been running.

Smith's Attack.

Kansas City Star.

The Democratic Jefferson meeting in Washington was taken by surprise when Al Smith, without using a name, denounced Gov. Roosevelt's recent radio speech. Yet those who know Smith and at the same time understand the significance of the Roosevelt address should not have expected Smith to overlook his opportunity, even for the sake of harmony.

Logical.

Philadelphia Bulletin.

If a majority of the country is wet and a majority of its legislators are dry, it's a pretty fair inference that voters do not regard prohibition as a dominant issue when they go to the polls.

Residue.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

When all is said and done in Congress the result will be talk and taxation.

Looks Like Prearrangement.

Indianapolis News.

Al Smith does the talking and Gov. Roosevelt garners the delegates.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

"American" Discusses Religion in Public Schools—Keep Them Free of Dogma, He Asks.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Our unsectarian free public school system is the pride of the Nation. It has properly been called the corner stone of the Republic. Through the knowledge acquired in these schools our children become intelligent, useful and independent-thinking citizens. This does not mean that the pupils do not receive Christian training; quite the contrary, for by attendance at Sunday school connected with the respective churches ample religious instruction is received.

It is gratifying to note a determination on the part of the citizenry to keep these schools free from the blighting hand of ecclesiastical interference and possible control. The primary purpose of the schools is mental development and not the dissemination of sectarian theories of religion. The schools were established on sound principles and there should be no deviation therefrom. Certainly, no friend of these schools would wish to seek to pervert them by injecting into the system the poison of religious dogma.

Jefferson Was a Prohibitionist, Says Writer Who Quotes the Sage.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Thomas Jefferson is the idol of the Democratic party. All the self-appointed leaders of the organization praise him. The Al Smiths and Frank Roosevelts, big and little, quarrel among themselves like cats, but they raise their melodious voices in unison at the mention of Jefferson's name. It is rather a pity that they do not trouble to read their hero's literary remains.

Since their ignorance of what the man really believed is their distinguished characteristic, they may be surprised to hear that Jefferson was a prohibitionist. He would have had scant patience with the specious nonsense uttered at the recent dinners in his honor. "I am happy to learn," he wrote from Washington, November 3, 1802, to Handsome Lake, an Indian corn planter, "that you have been so far favored by the divine spirit as to be made sensible of those things which are for your own good and that of your people and of those which are harmful to you, and particularly that you and they see the ruinous effects which the abuse of spirituous liquors have produced upon them. As it is the desire of your nation that no spirits should be sent among them and I am authorized by the great council of the United States to prohibit them, I will cooperate with your wise men in any proper measure for this purpose which shall be agreeable to them."

Of whisky drinking, he wrote, December 21, 1805, "In general it is (an) injurious and demoralizing practice." The originals of these letters are extant. They were included in the famous William F. Gable sale of Americana, New York, 1923.

It is clear that the Jeffersonian Democrats can not have it both ways. They must either be loyal or disloyal to their master. A wet Jeffersonian is a contradiction ridiculous in the highest degree.

Praises Secretary Mills for His Industry and Sound Judgment.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There is a very able executive at the head of the Treasury Department. Mr. Mellon has been succeeded by a financial statesman. Secretary Mills certainly is making the grade.

Presiding over the Treasury is a function of the very highest importance. For the post in times like the present a cool and clear head and persuasiveness of the highest order are imperative. Mr. Mills had the advantage of long training, and therefore he entered upon his duties with definite knowledge of their meaning in terms of labor. But he is an indefatigable worker, and his industry plus his good judgment foreshadows his continued success.

Secretary Mills has taught the country to demand a balanced budget. He has insisted that sound industrial financing depends upon sound Government financing.

Brooklyn Reader Has No Patience With Al Smith's Proposal.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Al Smith nostrum sounds like a Raskob idea—the voice of Jacob, &c.

The insanity of trying to buy business from Europe is pathetic. The thing for Europe to do is to stop building navies and armies for twenty years, and pay her honest debts with the money.

Why should we postpone or cancel these debts?

If Roosevelt is a "demagogue" for asking assistance for the small banks, the little business man, and the farmer, then more power to him.

Perplexed Student Asks, "Who Is the Father of the United States Navy?"

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Who is the father of the United States Navy?

Some say he is Commodore John Barry; others that he is John Paul Jones.

In your issue of April 10 under the caption: "Father of Navy to Be Honored," I have read that on April 28, at Edenton, N. C., there will be dedicated a monument to "Joseph Hewes, father of the United States Navy."

Perhaps some reader can explain this paternity question.

TAX BILL HEARINGS TO END TOMORROW

Smoot Predicts Report by May 1; Witnesses Favor General Sales Levy.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Hearings on the billion-dollar tax bill probably will be concluded tomorrow and a bill will be reported for consideration on the Senate floor before May 1, Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), of Utah, chairman of the Senate finance committee, predicted at the conclusion of another long day of hearings yesterday.

Throughout the day the committee heard fervent and sometimes heated protests against taxes imposed on the business of witnesses, all of whom, however, agreed the budget should be balanced and protested they were willing to bear their fair share of the increased tax burden. Almost unanimously they turned to the general manufactures sales tax as the proper alternative to the taxes levied against their particular products.

Senator David A. Reed (Republican), of Pennsylvania, put many witnesses on record in favor of the general sales tax through questioning and at the conclusion of the hearings Senator Samuel M. Shortridge (Republican), of California, said he would fight to have the committee approve such a tax as a substitute for the varied taxes imposed in the House bill. He predicted that if the committee approved the sales tax both the Senate and House would accept it.

Rewriting Is Predicted.

Other committee members, however, were not of the same opinion and some of the most powerful swept aside the suggestion with the statement that even if it could get past the Senate it would not be accepted by the House, and the bill would have to be rewritten again.

The fight to put additional tariffs into the tax bill was presented to the committee yesterday by representatives of the copper and manganese. The committee still is to hear proponents and opponents of the proposal to put a prohibitive tariff on imports of lumber and wood pulp. Embargo tariffs on coal and oil already are in the tax bill, having been put in there by the ways and means committee to lure votes for the general manufacturers sales tax, opponents of which went the committee one better and promised their support to the coal and oil members if they would join their fight against the sales tax.

Senator Tasker Oddie (Republican), of Nevada; Representative Lewis W. Douglas (Democrat), of Arizona; A. E. Petermann, representing the Calumet and Arizona Copper Co., and H. W. Steinkraus, of Bridgeport, Conn., representing copper fabricators, urged a tariff of 5 cents a pound.

Claimed as Embargo.

Opponents of the tariff said it amounted to an embargo. Those who talked against it included Heath Steele, of the American Metal Co., of New York; Philip D. Wilson, of the United States Metal Refining Co., of Carteret, N. J; Robert H. Patchin, vice president of W. H. Grace & Co., New York importers and exporters, and Everett Morse, of Boston, representing copper fabricators.

Levi Cooke, of Washington, attorney for manufacturers of toilet articles, protested against the 10 per cent tax on such articles. He declared that rate too high on articles purchased daily by large numbers of persons.

W. Bruce Phillips, of Washington, represented the National Association of Retail Druggists and, speaking from his own experience as a retail druggist, opposed the tax on toilet articles.

Pleasure Boat Tax.

Henry R. Sutphen, of New York, a boat builder, and representative of the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers, opposed the tax on pleasure boats. Admiral H. A. Wiley, retired, representing the Naval Architects and Yacht Brokers Association, New York, wanted foreign boats brought to this country taxed.

Louis Ruthenburg, of Detroit, representing most of the mechanical refrigerator production, urged that such articles were not luxuries but necessities, and proposed a general manufacturers' sales tax as a substitute.

Makers and dealers in furs, fur trimmings, watches and clocks, silversmiths and even jewelry were among those who protested against the excise taxes on so-called luxuries. The committee will resume hearings at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Attorney Paul Sleman represents the plaintiff.

Shot Fired Yesterday Heard Around World

By JOHN J. DALY

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY YEARS ago—157, to be exact—a militant Yankee farmer standing on his acres at Concord, Mass., fired the shot that was heard around the world. At least they said it was heard around the world. It was the beginning of the Revolutionary War.

That was a fine phrase, "the shot heard around the world." The truth is, the shot was never heard around the world—until yesterday. By the magic of radio some experimenters fired a gun in Schenectady, put it on the short waves, and that shot was actually heard around the world. It was done in commemoration of a historical event—the shot heard around the world in honor of the shot that was not heard around the world.

It all goes to show how far the world has advanced in 157 years. They could shoot the works in 1775 and nobody, 10 miles away, could even hear a report of a gun. In 1932, a man can fire a toy pistol and, by the aid of amplifiers, it might be heard not only around the world, but on Mars—and, what is more, the report can be made so loud that the toy gun sounds like a piece of heavy artillery.

* * * *

THERE is no telling what might happen in this age. The shot fired at Schenectady was heard in Kootwijk, Holland, at the same instant that natives of Bandoeng, Java, heard it, and one scientist, figuring the speed of light at 186,000 miles a second, offers the suggestion that probably a man in Sydney, New South Wales, might have heard the shot even before it was fired.

Two and two always made four up until this year, but with the great advancement of science, and all the marvelous things they are doing in the studios, there is some doubt now even about the accuracy of mathematics. Einstein is right—it depends upon how fast you are moving whether you are in the past or the future.

Treasury Denies Plans For Tariff Retaliation

(Associated Press.)

Treasury officials yesterday denied any knowledge of plans being discussed to invoke the tariff act to increase duties against importations from France. The act permits the President through proclamation to raise tariffs or ban imports from countries placing discriminatory duties on products of United States.

Reports were to the effect that this country was considering invoking the section against France because of its recent action in raising duties and limiting importations of certain products of the United States. Treasury officials said they had heard of no discussion of a retaliatory program.

Miss Anne Sinnott Devereux Is Married to Lieut. Chase.

One of the most charming of the spring weddings which took place yesterday afternoon was that of Miss Anne Sinnott Devereux, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Ryan Devereux, and Lieut. Harry Taylor Chase, U. S. N., son of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Jehu V. Chase. The ceremony was performed at 5 o'clock in the charming Devereux home on Bradley lane, in Chevy Chase, Md., the Rev. Thomas G. Smyth, rector of the Shrine of the Blessed Sacrament, officiating, in the presence of only the members of the two families and a few intimate friends.

The large drawing room where the ceremony took place was opened onto the terrace, and a prie dieu was placed before an improvised altar banked with palms, ferns and white lilacs and white stock. The room was decorated with a profusion of greens and white spring flowers.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory bridal satin fashioned on fitted lines, with a draped neckline and long, tight sleeves, with oversleeves of rose point lace. Her veil of rare old lace, belonging to her aunt, Mrs. Ashton Devereux, of Philadelphia, fell over a long circular train. She carried an arm boquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Miss Norvell Munford was the bride's only attendant and she wore a frock of melon pink chiffon fashioned on long lines, flaring at the knees and ending in a short train.

Little Anne Rogers Devereux, niece of the bride, was flower girl and wore a frock of flesh-color organdie with a hat of the same material and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and forget-me-nots. Young Joseph F. S. Devereux, jr., nephew of the bride, was a page and wore white. The acolytes were John Ryan Devereux 3d, and Richard Hall Jeschke, jr., also nephews of the bride.

Lieut. Wallace Estill Guitar, U. S. N., was best man, and the ushers were Lieut. J. R. Wallace, Lieut. Stanhope C. Ring, Lieut. W. D. Brown, Lieut. R. W. Clark, Lieut. J. C. Shively, and Lieut. A. M. Hurst, all of the United States Navy.

A small reception followed the ceremony when Dr. and Mrs. Devereau and Admiral and Mrs. Chase received with the newly married couple and the wedding party. Mrs. Devereaux wore a gown of lavender chiffon trimmed with caramacross lace and a corsage of lavender sweet peas and gardenias. Mrs. Chase was in a gown of pale pink chiffon with a corsage of pink sweet peas and gardenias.

Later Lieut. Chase and his bride started on their wedding trip to the West Coast, the latter wearing a costume of biege wool with a printed blouse and small close-fitting biege hat. They will be at home after May 15 at Coronado Beach, Calif.

Among those from out of town at the wedding were Miss Mary McGuire and Miss Frances Morrow, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Ashton Devereaux, Miss Elizabeth Devereux, Mr. and Mrs. Presley Morgan Taylor, Miss Nannie Minor, Mrs. Devereux C. Donohue, and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kemper Ryan, of Philadelphia, and a number of others from Baltimore.

RECORD TEST RUSH GROWS IN VOLUME

Four Days Only Remain in Post's RCA-Victor Competition.

All Washington is talking about the novel experience of hearing one's own voice reproduced by the marvelous new RCA-Victor "home recording" radio combination. Not only are they talking about it, but it seems to the contest editor that nearly every one has actually enjoyed the unique privilege of making a record of his or her own voice.

The fact that yesterday brought a greater number of people to the recording stations than have appeared on any prevoius single day is the only circumstance to indicate that there may still be people in Washington and the vicinity who have not yet availed themselves of this free opportunity.

Four Days Remain.

If you are one of this seeming minority you have just four more days to enter the competition for $700 in merchandise prizes, together with all-expense-paid tours to the RCA-Victor laboratories in Camden, N. J., where the fortunate prize-winners will make records that may lead to profitable commercial relationships.

There is no cost or obligation involved in making a record. You simply announce your intention of entering the contest, at any of The Post's "recording stations" listed below. You will be given a blank record and escorted to a booth, where, under the direction of an expert, you may speak, sing or play a musical instrument before a tiny microphone.

Judging of Records.

Imediately thereafter, the record will be played back to you. It will then be submitted to a committee of judges and after it has been rated according to character of reproduction it will be sent to you to keep. The decision of the judges will be positively final in every instance and in case of ties duplicate prizes will be awarded.

The contest is divided into two classes—amateur and professional—and each person will compete only within his own division.

Free auditions on the "home recording records" will be given at the following stations:

In Washington.

National Furniture Co., Seventh and H streets northwest.

F. O. Sexton Co., 647 H street northeast.

Arthur Jordan Piano Co. Thirteenth and G streets northwest.

F. S. Harris Co., 2900 Fourteenth street northwest.

Homer L. Kitt Co., 1330 G street northwest.

House & Herrmann, Seventh and I streets northwest.

Hub Furniture Co., Seventh and D streets northwest.

Hugo Worch, 1110 G street northwest.

Louis & Co., 713 Seventh street northwest.

Miss Blanche Gott, 1370 Harvard street northwest, takes advantage of the final week of The Washington Post-RCA-Victor "home recording" contest, to record her voice at the establishment of F. S. Harris Co., 2900 Fourteenth street. Merchandise prizes worth $700 will be given for the best recordings, together with special auditions at the RCA-Victor laboratories.

British Airmen Kill Rebels.

Bagdad, Irak, April 19 (A.P.).—A British royal air force raid on Kurdish rebels today was reported to have inflicted heavy damage on several groups in a mountain stronghold. The raiders bombed cave retreats and said they killed ten of a band near the caves. Machine guns were used to open strongholds. Several casualties resulted from the strafing.

Woman Speaks in Trance And Is Removed by Justice

London, April 19 (A.P.).—A libel action brought by Mrs. Meurig Morris, a spiritualist medium, against the Daily Mail ended tonight in a judgment for the defendants after some of the strangest scenes ever witnessed in an English court of law.

The trial, climaxed by Mrs. Morris going into a trance, was based on an article in the newspaper on January 26, which was advertised as "trance medium found out."

The jury found for the Daily Mail.

After the trance scene in which Mrs. Morris addressed the judge in a deep masculine voice and was removed from the court, Justice McCardi said:

"I hope I have not hurt the feelings of anyone unnecessarily, but as a judge I care not for all incarnate or discarnate spirits in the world, and as long as I remain on the bench I shall resolutely seek to reach for the truth and shall advise the jury to do the same although there may be ten thousand million discarnate spirits around us."

Justice McCardie was in the midst of his summation to the jury today when the plaintiff stood up suddenly with her eyes closed and addressed the court in a deep voice: "Hearken to my voice, O brother judge."

The justice stopped his reading and ordered her to be seated. "Let her speak," some one shouted. The court then ordered the woman removed, but when the usher approached the deep voice came again: "Do not touch her until I have left her body."

Later the justice resumed and told the jurors he disliked such cases.

Inspection Planned Of Salvation Army

High Officials Will Hold Annual Event Today at Headquarters.

After a continuous week of activities in connection with the Bicentennial officers' and young people's councils here, Maj. James Asher, commanding the District of Columbia Division, Salvation Army, is preparing for inspection, an annual event, today. The inspection will be conducted by Lieut. Commissioner Alexander M. Damon, commanding the army in the Southern States; Col. Arthur E. Smeeton, chief secretary, and Adjt. Sidney E. Cox, young people's secretary.

The Bicentennial program offered by the officers and young people of the local division brought a number of leading officials in the Salvation Army to Washington. Mrs. Damon assisted her distinguished husband in conducting several of the meetings and also had charge of several herself. The big feature of the meeting was the exhibit of young people's work and the demonstrations by the various teams of the local corps.

Inspection today involves a checking up of the work of the District of Columbia Division for the past year, including an accounting for all moneys received by the army here, whether from the Community Chest or from other sources. Maj. Asher and other officers of the District division were highly praised for their work following inspection last year.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

This is the third of a series of articles on the importance of beauty for every woman, in every walk of life. Elsie Pierce feels that every woman, regardless of her work or calling, can arrange a beauty program and follow it daily. Study the hints given here and write to Miss Pierce in care of this paper if you have any beauty problems.

Business and Saleswomen Should Plan Daily Beauty Schedule

WE have defined beauty as good grooming and the modern woman has accepted this definition. Surely, the importance of good grooming for saleswomen, business and professional women is very obvious. Brains and ability alone are not sufficient in this modern day. Just as personal loveliness and good grooming are important to make the "entree" to win the interview for the new job, so these factors are necessary to keep the job successfully.

Occasionally, a frumpy old employer gets into the news with the statement that he won't permit his employes to use make-up and does not wish "good-looking young ladies" around. When that happens we suspect that there's something wrong some place, so far as the employer is concerned. For the most part the masculine heads of offices have to admit that a drab looking creature has a depressing influence on an office or show room, while a beautifully groomed young lady has a cheering air, helps to create an optimistic outlook, and makes for precision.

The Daily Routine.

Your daily beauty routine should start the night before. Budget your time for this schedule. Exercise to keep your figure well proportioned, devote a few minutes to brushing your hair, give your skin a treatment every day; cleanse it thoroughly, keep the circulation stimulated by the use of a tonic, the contour firm with a good astringent. If your skin is dry, use a good skinfood before retiring. Take a warm, relaxing bath, look over the clothes you are to wear the next day to see whether they need brushing and mending. In the morning, your shower, a quick treatment for the skin, make-up skillfully applied. Your eyes sparkle, you look and feel fit and fine, you are poised and self-confident, your clothes are simple and smart. If you are a saleswoman, you will probably attract your customers and selling will be so much easier; a professional woman, then you will win the respect of your colleagues; a business woman, your employer will probably wonder at the unique combination of "beauty and brains."

An Emergency Kit.

You can assemble in a small tin box, to keep in your desk, small bottles and jars of the necessary facial creams and lotions, an emery board and polish for your nails, a clothes brush, a bit of perfume, a needle with mending thread. This emergency kit will serve you whenever you wish to freshen up before lunch, of if you should have a last-minute engagement and not have time to go home to change before dinner or theater.

My Beauty Schedule is available. Every woman should have it. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for it.

What Today Means to You

"ARIES."

IF April 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:15 p. m., and from 9:45 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 1:30 p. m. to 3 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8:20 p. m.

Astrological influences on April 20 will be vigorous, and you will be electrified into the desire for action instead of letting things drift. It will be a good time to bring up troublesome questions and for the settlement of differences. Favorable for those in educational or publicity work.

The child born on this April 20 will be a thinker and student and will be more fond of reading than games. It will be high-strung and will be easily upset by inharmonious conditions or an unkind word. It will be rather a solitary little figure, as it will stand rather mentally aloof from most of its playmates.

If of the masculine gender and born on April 20, you have a vigorous, zealous and boyish nature. You are both simple-minded and intelligent and possess the ordinary civic virtues of honesty and sobriety. You are not overly ambitious and are content so long as you can maintain the standard of living to which you are used. Money appeals to you mostly because of the pleasure it affords you to give others. You might like to "show off" your family, but personally never pretend to anything more than what you are. You are a demon for work while you are at it, but no job will ever make you its slave, and you shut the door upon your office worries when you leave it.

The April 20 women are ultra maternal and generally find some poor chick over whom to cluck. You take your responsibilities more seriously than your April 20 brothers and allow your worries to depress you. You are the most loyal of friends, although some people may resent your possessive attitude. You like others to look up to and lean upon you; and prefer as friends those whom you can patronize. You are charming and agreeable as long as you have your own way; as soon as thwarted, however, you become hard and hostile. You are sympathetic toward those whom you love and approve, but are indifferent and intolerant to others.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A Delightful Way to Make a Dinner Gown More or Less Decollete! (A Dah-ray Design.)

NEW YORK, April 19.—What, today, is really modernistic? Isn't it about time that "modernistic" has caught up with "futuristic," that the future has become the present, and the past-present that was in the past called the present, become merely the past?

Yes, it is time, and it has happened. Lucien Lelong, one of the first and stanchest advocates of modernistic art, architecture and styles, explained this to a newsgatherer recently. "Don't misunderstand me. I was for modernistic art yesterday—I still admire its masterpieces, but it no longer belongs to the present scene. It has served its purpose and is now finished. The movement was a sane and justified one. We were searching for simplicity of expression, eliminating everything that was superfluous. The reaction against overelaborate decoration was necessary and salutary. But, by stripping a work of art of every minor detail, we eventually arrived at solutions which were hard and dry, although intellectually interesting.

"Now for the balance. Our innate desire for grace and charm was bound to cause a reaction when this happened. Now artists, architects, artisans, strive to fuse the intellectually interesting simplicity with grace and harmony, infusing into perfection of line some softness, restfulness, calm gayety—soul, I call it."

This being a Fashun Collom, apply all the above to the mode. For the mode is as truly an artistic expression of the times as any other art—and a far more important one, I think. Because the mode enhances "love's loveliest," woman.

To quote Lelong again. "Today's mode represents at once the negation of modernistic expression, and the affirmation—in terms of grace and charm, of a completely new epoch, the Modern Period."

* * * *

To be modern, Miladi, you must be lovely! To be lovely, you need not have innumerable servants, loads of money, and time. But you do have to develop your intelligence, make use of the opportunities of the moment, such as sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post, for the leaflet that tells you how to make two of the most divine nightgowns you ever saw! Or didn't see, because I have never seen one, really, like these. Materials, good ones, are reasonable, and we can afford to use more material. So your Dah-ray has designed and made for herself some nightgowns that take more material but far less time and handwork to make than any other nightgown in her Lingerie Box. A half hour apiece is what it takes to make and finish either of these nightgowns! Better send for the leaflet and see!

* * * *

Charm and grace, the kind Monsieur Lelong means, is expressed in the gown designed for you today by Dah-ray. Chiffon, black, is the loveliest, and with an expensive buckle or jewelry piece of some sort that has a little weight, and is in two parts, are all there is to it. That and the cut. For the cut enables one to have a Sunday night type of gown when the throw, which is part of the gown and sewn down to the bodice, is thrown over the shoulder; or a more formal decolletage when the weighted scarf is left open and thrown over the other shoulder. The skirt can follow the general lines of the mode, being softly full around the ankles, slim over the hips. Like it?

The Grand Coup as a Grand Finale.

"IT was 3 o'clock in the morning," reports Mr. M. Porter Walley, of Columbus, Ohio, "and they had played the long night through." Mr. Walley was thinking longingly of bed, when along came this hand with him in the South position and vulnerable. It was to be the last rubber, and when Mr. Walley picked up his cards, he decided to pass, as his opponents had a part-score of 60 and he feared that he might not be able to defend the hand without incurring a penalty. The hand, of course, does not contain 2½ honor-tricks and is too weak to bid preemptively, as opposite a blank hand it might be set disastrously.

The hand and bidding were:

South—Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.

	♠ A 9 ♡ K J 8 5 ◇ Q J 10 ♣ A 7 4 3
♠ — ♡ Q 9 6 ◇ A K 9 4 3 ♣ K Q J 10 6	N W E S	♠ Q 6 5 3 ♡ 10 7 4 ◇ 6 5 2 ♣ 9 5 2
	♠ K J 10 8 7 4 2 ♡ A 3 2 ◇ 8 7 ♣ 8

The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	1◇	Dbl.(1)	Pass
3♠(2)	4♣(3)	4♠(4)	Pass
Pass	5♣(5)	Dbl.(6)	Pass
5♠(7)	Pass	Pass	Dbl.(8)
Pass	Pass	Redbl.(9)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—A very sound Double, even though not too well prepared for a spade response.

2—South now discloses the fact that he holds a long and reasonably strong suit and has 2 honor-tricks, or rather more than 2 honor-tricks, as the K J 10 combination is almost 1½ tricks.

3—Showing the two-suited nature of the hand.

4—Fully justified in view of partner's double Jump response.

5—A venture in game saving.

6—A sound Penalty Double and, as can be seen, one that would have netted a very substantial return.

7—Thinking longingly of sleep and preferring to end the rubber.

8—East's first affirmative action in the contracting.

9—If South will not accept penalties, North reasons that five redoubled should be some compensation.

West opened the diamond King and when Mr. Walley saw the cards in the Dummy hand and considered the bidding, he immediately placed four trumps to the Queen in the East hand, as the only possible justification for the Double. If this were the situation, then the hand can only be made on the basis of a coup, as 2 tricks in diamonds must be lost, and if a trump trick is to be lost in addition, the contract is defeated.

West, for the second lead, chose the club King, which was won with the Ace in Dummy, and a small club led and ruffed in the closed hand. While Mr. Walley was sure that East must hold four spades, there was nothing to be lost by confirming this impression with a lead of trumps through the West hand. Hence, to the fourth trick he led a small spade, and his diagnosis of the trump situation was proved to be correct. He won this trick with the Ace and led the nine of spades, which East, of course, refused to cover. He decided the distribution of West's hand to have consisted probably of five diamonds, five clubs and three hearts, and, the three hearts, in all likelihood, included the Queen, as East had passed every opportunity to bid, until he made the Double. If this reading of West's hand was correct, East must have held originally three hearts, three diamonds and three clubs, as his spade holding had already been determined.

In order to capture East's Queen, it was then essential to execute the coup; that is, have the lead in the Dummy on the twelfth turn to play, with the Declaring Hand's trumps shortened to only two and with East still holding his two trumps. After winning the trick with the nine of spades, another club was led and trumped in the closed hand. South then led his remaining diamond, which West won with the Ace. West exited from his hand by leading the heart, which was won by South with the Ace, and the suit returned, the finesse being taken, as another entry to the Dummy was essential. The diamond Queen was now led from the Dummy and trumped in the closed hand, executing the grand coup, which is the trumping of a winning card in one hand in order to shorten the trumps to the same number as held by the opponent to be couped.

In trumps, Mr. Walley now held the King and Knave. His opponent in the East held the Queen and six. To the eleventh trick, Mr. Walley led his last heart, which was won with the King in Dummy and East was helpless. He trumped the twelfth trick with the six of spades, South overtrumped with the Knave, and for the thirteenth trick laid down the high trump, capturing East's Queen, and scoring thus, as a result of his careful planning and play, a vulnerable rubber—a premium of 200 points for making the contract and 600 points, the value of five spades doubled and redoubled.

East's Double of the five spade contract was extremely venturesome. It is probable that Mr. Walley would have made his contract in any event, as the first lead of trumps would have disclosed the situation, but East's Double, with the strength in South's hand, that in the Dummy, and that disclosed by West's bidding and lead made almost sure the success of the contract.

TODAY'S POINTER.

By careful planning and accurate play, "lost" contracts may frequently be scored as won games. It is essential not only to have a good plan, but to execute it perfectly.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.

East and West vulnerable.

	♠ 4 2 ♡ Q 4 3 ◇ A Q J 10 8 7 ♣ K 6
♠ 9 ♡ A K 8 7 2 ◇ 4 ♣ Q 10 8 4 3 2	N W E S	♠ K J 7 5 3 ♡ J 10 9 ◇ K 9 6 5 ♣ 7
	♠ A Q 10 8 6 ♡ 6 5 ◇ 3 2 ♣ A J 9 5

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES McDONALD

SHE LOVES HIM.

DEAR FRANCES McDONALD—I read the good advice you give. I want you to help me. I'm worried and I don't know what to do. I am married one year, and my husband has been chasing around with girls. Tells me he made a big mistake when he married me. Makes fun of my face. Has no respect for me; goes out on his day off alone, comes home at 5 or 6 o'clock in the morning with liquor on his breath. I left him four times. He came after me and told me he would start all over again. He is good for a week or two and he starts it again. Then he tells me to find myself a boy friend and I could go out if I want to. He is always bragging how good-looking he is. He wants me to have a baby to stay home. I do stay home. I don't want a boy friend. I love him. I want him to be good. I am 22 years old; he is 23. I am thinking of a divorce. I can go back to work. I can't stand it any longer. And he has nerve enough to tell me he loves me. Then he tells me he doesn't believe in divorce. He tries to tell me all married men cheat.

"WORRIED."

Just what particular characteristic in this man do you "love?" When you girls begin to really think a little instead of dashing blindly hither and thither like stampeded sheep in a storm, you will find a little more of permanence in your marriage relations. You have left this man four times in a year. In other words, your leaving him means exactly nothing, and he knows it. He is as unfit to be any woman's husband as if he went on all fours, yet four times you have reaccepted him as yours! He is devoid of every feeling that characterizes man, yet you "love" him. If what he is constitutes what you "love" in a man, why complain?

There is just one thing for you to do. Decide what sort of woman you really are. If you are the sort we get in court, who have a man arrested one day and the next dash in wild-eyed to beg for his release, then just admit it, and settle down to a long life of every sort of abuse. If you are an intelligent woman worthy of some man's respect, make up your mind to get respect or live your life alone. Men respect women by instinct. Only after a woman convinces a man that she does not expect to be respected, does he begin to slip back a few centuries into the stone age. At present this man feels sure that no matter what he does, you will condone. He feels entirely secure in that "love" he has inspired. Of course you can divorce him. But that would not solve your problem. If you "love" that type of moron, you would be married to another within the year, and facing the same problem all over again, listening to one more "bragging about how good looking he is." You see it is a matter that depends entirely upon you, and what type you really are.

Our advice? Give yourself some thought. If you only rate this sort of mate, stay with this one, for they are all about alike, and you would always pick the same type. So why have half a dozen? But if you deserve a better fate than to be a door mat for the remainder of your days, prove it! The world steps aside for the woman who knows exactly which way she is going. It is only the woman who chases around in circles who finds herself buffeted this way and that. When you know yourself a little better you will know what to do. Then do it.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

GROWING DELPHINIUMS.

THE more blue flowers you plant in your garden the more beautiful it will be. Delphiniums are the most beautiful of all blue flowers.

Much of the success you have with these plants will depend on the situation you have to offer them. They refuse to live in any soil that is not well drained in winter. They must have a soil of depth and substance. You must dig the soil to the depth of two feet, but the plants will do better if the ground is dug to the depth of three feet.

Light soil, composed of a large part of gravel, must be changed. Delphiniums require a fertile soil, so add plenty of well-rotted cow manure or manure from the stable, provided it is well decayed. This material should be added before planting time.

Delphiniums require sun, so never plant them under trees or where they will be shaded most of the day by a fence or building. It is wise to place them in a sunny location where there is some shade at midday, as hot sun bleaches the colors of the flowers. You will find that they do well if you plant them where they will be sheltered from strong winds. Sometimes a hedge affords them the necessary protection. Of course, they must be far enough away from the hedge that the roots do not absorb the food which is so necessary to the welfare of delphiniums.

As a rule, delphiniums are more beautiful when planted where you see not only the flowers but also the foliage. If planted where they are closely surrounded by other tall plants, you always find a weak growth of foliage and poorly developed flowers.

Delphiniums do best when planted at the time the roots begin to make growth.

When the roots begin to send up flowering spikes and when the buds show color is the time to begin to feed them. Some growers recommend sprinkling the fertilizer in a ring around each plant, the ring being not less than a foot away from the stems. Do not overfeed the plants. Better give two small applications of food at intervals of ten days than a large application at one time.

Before applying any fertilizer be sure that the soil is moist. It is wise literally to soak the soil. Cease feeding the plants after the end of August. You may use well-rotted manure, bonemeal or a proprietary plant food.

Location of Various Cuts of Beef Help Beginners

VEAL, at least the cuts suitable to fricasseeing, is far from an expensive meat this year, so let us plan for such a dish for tomorrow, and with fricassee of veal nothing less than mashed potatoes, of course, but let's leave all that to the menu proper and answer Mrs. Roylan's request for information. The "flank" cuts of beef are sections of the meat which lie just before the hind legs on the under side of the animal, running from the under part of the lower stomach about a third of the way up the animal's side. The flank cuts do not go straight across the side in a line but taper downward toward the hind leg, meeting the hind leg at its point of joining the body. Descriptions of this sort are difficult, words seem clumsy and inadequate in attempting to draw clear pictures. The side of the forward part of the animal offers the rib roasts and stew meat cuts. This will perhaps give you an idea of the small expanse of animal from which the flank meat comes.

The newcomer to cookery will be badly confused by all this: flank meat, sirloin, porterhouse, these may be but a jungle of words to their inexpert conception of things. So we beg them to pay no attention, but go on with their efforts to achieve cookery knowledge in a calm and serene way, tackling one phase of the art at a time. All this will come later and quite easily and naturally, without the growing pains which an attempt to assimilate these descriptive paragraphs might bring on!

THURSDAY'S DINNER.

Fricassee of Veal
Mashed Potatoes
Buttered Cauliflower
Tomato Baskets
Pineapple Bavarian Cream
Coffee or Tea

Fricassee of Veal.

Cover 2 pounds of loin of veal with boiling water. Add to the water one small onion, three celery stalks and one carrot cut in pieces. Cook slowly until the meat is tender. Remove the meat from the liquor, sprinkle with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Saute in bacon fat until browned. Strain the liquor in which the meat was cooked (there should be about two cupfuls) and add to it four tablespoonfuls of flour blended with four tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Bring the gravy to the boiling point, season to taste with salt and pepper and a dash of celery salt and pour around the veal on a heated platter. Garnish with sprigs of parsley.

Tomato Baskets.

4 firm tomatoes
1 large green pepper
1 can asparagus tips
Salad dressing

Cut the peppers into slices crosswise to form rings ¼ inch in width. Scald the tomatoes, peel, chill and cut in halves, crosswise. Place on lettuce leaves with cut side up. Lay four or five asparagus tips side by side in center of each tomato half. Cut pepper rings and place across the top of the asparagus, forming a handle to the baskets. Serve cold with French dressing.

Pineapple Bavarian Cream.

2 tablespoonfuls gelatin
½ cupful sugar
1 tablespoonful lemon juice
½ cupful cold water
2 cupfuls cream, whipped stiff
1 can grated pineapple.

Soak gelatin in cold water for 5 minutes. Heat pineapple, add sugar, lemon juice and soaked gelatin. Chill in a pan of ice water, stirring constantly. When it begins to thicken fold in whipped cream, pour into a mold and chill. Garnish with maraschino cherries and marshmallows.

THE WEIGHT GUIDE.

For individual assistance, write to Nancy Carey, sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and give age, weight, height and habits of life.

Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey: I am nearly 14 years old and am 5 feet 5 inches tall. I weigh about 140 pounds and would like to reduce to my regular weight. I do not look as nice in my clothes as I would if I were thinner. I eat three good meals a day and generally a sandwich after I come home from school. I promise to follow your instructions carefully and thank you.

JOAN K.

Even though you are quite a few pounds overweight, Joan, it would not be wise for you to adopt a regular reducing diet. That your diet needs altering I have not a doubt, for you are about 20 pounds heavier than the average girl of your age and height. But reducing diet while you are still young and growing, unless very carefully planned and carefully supervised, might result in injury to the health which you must safeguard as your most precious possession.

If you will let me have your name and address I shall be very glad to send you a list of caloric values just that you may make a little study of food values and the like to see how best to arrange your diet. Watch the "nibbling" and eating between meals especially. Make up your mind definitely that you are not going to eat between meals for one whole week. Then at the end of the week it will not be so difficult to make the resolution for another week, and the first thing you know you won't even want to eat between meals. Include in your daily diet plenty of milk (it will not make you fat), fruits of all kinds and a variety of vegetables. Restrict somewhat the amount of cereals, bread, cake, pie, &c., which you have been eating. That is really all that you need do. And so that you will not become hungry between meals, take second helpings of vegetables rather than two slices of bread and just a small portion of dessert with a glass of milk rather than a too large portion of dessert alone. The milk will help to satisfy your appetite and will not be nearly so fattening. So much for this time and let us hear from you soon.

Horrors! Expert Says Helen's Feet Were Big!

London (U.P.).—Helen of Troy's face may have launched a thousand ships, but she probably had large feet, according to Dr. H. J. Van Praagh.

"It is difficult to imagine why small feet have always been considered a sign of beauty," he told the Incorporated Society of Chiropodists. "Trilby had large feet and was proud of them. I believe also that Helen of Troy had large feet."

"Modern court shoes," he added, "are worth thousands of pounds a year to chiropodists."

SOURCES OF VITAMIN A.

THE scientists are beginning to understand why the people now have, and always have had, so much faith in carrots.

The trend of scientific opinion is that vitamin A for the use of growing children and young adults is of greater service than is any other of the vitamins. It is not easy to compare needs. If a given child has scurvy his need of vitamin C surpasses all others, and the man with pellagra is interested in one of the constituents of vitamin B, and for it he could afford to pass up all the others. But as an aid to the general run of garden variety boys and girls, the importance of vitamin A heads the list, in the estimate of many scientists.

This vitamin is an ingredient of the juices and oils of vegetables, and particularly of those that are colored. It may be scientifically wrong to put it that way, since the vitamin itself can not be shown in these oils and juices. The more cautious way to put it is that the helpful substance is manufactured by the animal body out of these juices and oils.

No one has been able to prove just when or how this manufacturing has been done. The general opinion is that the liver does the job, but nobody has proved it, nor shown how the liver works it, if it is done there. However, though what happens along the way is not provable, what has been produced by the end of the process of assimilation can be established. The chemical substance out of which vitamin A is made is named carotin, as a tribute to the humble carrot. This vegetable is rich in it, and can be cooked in all the usual ways without destroying it.

However, it is not the only source of the substance from which vitamin A is made, and that is lucky, because some people do not eat carrots, and will not eat them, even in soups. Others like them well enough, but eating them causes the complexion to turn more or less jaundiced. Many are unwilling to pay for vitamin A with a poor complexion. The juices and oils from yellow corn and turnips are well supplied with this substance. So are most of the vegetable oils used on salads. In fact, this substance is pretty well distributed among vegetables, nuts and some fruits.

WHAT RHINITIS IS.

A. V. writes:

1. What is rhinitis?

2. Is it a case of sinus trouble, or a branch of cancer?

REPLY.

1. Inflammation of the lining membrane of the nose. Coryza, or the common cold, is one form.

2. It is neither. However, infection of a sinus may result from rhinitis.

HE MUST HELP HIMSELF.

W. H. writes: We have seen several statements in newspapers recently that alcoholism is a disease and that it can be cured. We would like to have your advice on this question, without the knowledge of a friend and his family. This man, of middle age, is habitually addicted to the drinking of strong liquor, consuming a pint or more each day. He has a fine family and home and an excellent position, all of which he will lose unless his drinking can be stopped. Any information as to a cure or a curbing of this desire for liquor will be appreciated.

REPLY.

You will not accomplish anything worth while unless you have the cooperation of the drinker. Physicians can give him medicine that will cause him to vomit when he drinks. This will take away his appetite for a few days only. They can give him other medicines to eliminate the drug and "clean out the liver," as some say. That, too, has a temporary good effect. They can give other medicines to soothe and quiet while the man is climbing into a seat on the water wagon. But they can not help much in making him stick to the seat. That requires cooperation, training, character and, in many cases, religion.

CAUSE IS NOT KNOWN.

A. C. E. writes:

1. What is a duodenal ulcer?

2. What is the general cause?

3. Is it dangerous?

4. Is diet the best cure for this ailment?

REPLY.

1. An ulcer located in the first part of the small intestine.

2. I wish somebody knew.

3. Yes; sometimes it is dangerous. At others it is not so much so.

4. Some cases are cured by operation. Some by diet.

RIDGES ON FINGER NAILS.

A. G. S. writes: I am troubled with ridges on my finger nails. Do they indicate poor health? I am troubled with nervousness. Would that be the cause?

REPLY.

It is more likely that the cause of these ridges is living in air that is too dry, or exposing the fingers to soap and water, to chemicals, to cold, or to some irritant suggested by the mention of these.

TREATMENT FOR ARTHRITIS.

C. A. P. writes. Is typhoid fever preventive serum ever used for treatment of arthritis? If so, how effective is the treatment?

REPLY.

Typhoid vaccine and other killed bacteria are among the foreign proteids injected in some cases in the treatment of arthritis. This method of treatment is sometimes serviceable, but not in many cases.

British Teachers at War Over Ability of Sexes

London (U.P.).—The schoolmasters and schoolmistresses of Britain are at war over the question of their respective abilities.

English youth is becoming effeminate, the men teachers say, because some 7,000 classes of boys are being taught by women. Women teachers in recent years have displaced men in many positions, a few rising to become headmistresses in schools employing men teachers.

The National Association of Schoolmasters passed resolutions at its Easter conference declaring that "in view of the greater social and economic responsibility of men, the salaries of men and women teachers should receive separate consideration."

BUS FIRM DEFENDS INTRASTATE SERVICE

Alexandria-Washington Line Official Answers Writ of Virginia Tribunal.

Richmond, Va., April 19 (A.P.).—Charles P. Orr, manager of the Alexandria-Washington Buses, Inc., appeared before the State Corporation Commission today in answer to that tribunal's order to show cause why the bus company's certificate should not be revoked for doing an intrastate business.

Asked by Commissioner Lester Hooker if the company, which holds an interstate certificate, expected to continue to haul passengers within the limits of Alexandria, Mr. Orr replied, "we hadn't expected to stop.'

Charles Henry Smith, of Alexandria, counsel for the bus company, told the commission that it was without authority to restrain the bus line from doing an intrastate business within the city of Alexandria. Witnesses for the company denied that the buses are doing business between Alexandria and points in Arlington County as alleged by the commission.

W. C. Thomas, of the State motor vehicle division police force, testified that on several occasions he had ridden buses of the company from Alexandria to points in Arlington County.

Three bus drivers, however, testified that the company is doing an intrastate business within Alexandria, and not between that city and Arlington County.

Latin Envoys Attend Howard Art Exhibit

The formal opening of an exhibition of paintings by Valentin de Zubiaurre, in the Howard University gallery last night, was attended by Ambassador Don Juan Francisco de Cardenas and Senor Padilla, of the Spanish Embassy, and Dr. Don Jose Manuel Puig Casaurance, Mexican Ambassador, his wife and son.

The Spanish Ambassador expressed the hope that Howard University may also have the honor of showing the work of Morcillo, another distinguished artist of Spain. It was planned to open the exhibition on April 14, as Howard University's celebration of the first anniversary of the founding of the Spanish republic. A postponement, however, was necessary to meet the convenience of the distinguished guests.

Report on Mapes Income Tax Bill Due in 10 Days

The Mapes income tax bill, last of the $4,000,000 local taxation measures analyzed by the Bureau of Efficiency, will be sent to the Senate District committee within the next ten days, Thomas F. Murphy, assistant chief of the bureau, said last night.

The bureau has completed analysis of three of the measures, providing estate and automobile weight taxes, and increasng the gasoline levy from 2 to 4 cents.

The Senate District committee held hearings on these three bills, but will not vote on them until hearings are complete for the whole Mapes program, including a bill abolishing the 60-40 Federal District fiscal relationship, now in the hands of the bureau.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT was Mr. George Barrows of The Post's promotion department who made the suggestion—but we can get even for that some other time!

"Even if you do catch up with this fellow, what good will it do?" argued Mr. Barrows. "He will be surrounded by crowds of people just as he was out at the ball game Sunday, at the Willard Monday and all over the place today. A million interruptions—a million of them. Now it just happens that Frank Petrie of the Goodyear Co., out at Akron, is coming in today with the dirigible Puritan sailing up from its station at Miami, Fla., so why not get this Victor McLaglen up in the blimp and have your talk with him there where there will be no distractions and none of these phone calls, opening doors, autograph seekers or any of the other usual interruptions?"

So that is the way it was arranged. I'm a sucker for anything!

IT was at about 2:45, as I recall it, with Mr. McLaglen a friend from his last visit here two years ago, sitting up forward next Pilot J. D. Rieker, me directly behind Mr. Rieker and Lou Johrden, the demon photographer, in the third tier of two seats each, when my sylph-like and attenuated form divided at about the waistline and as much of the abandoned portion as possible executed a notably successful effort to leap into my throat.

I was informed that we had taken off!

Mr. McLaglen manifested an immediate interest—that is, next to discovering for himself whether he was still in one piece or fallen apart like me—in the 9,856,732 gadgets cluttering up the instrument board of Mr. Rieker's nice little ship. It seems Mr. McLaglen drives a car!

"You don't have to worry about ailerons, on one of these," began Mr. Rieker, "you just have the two controls—rudder for left and right direction, and the wheel, here between us, for ascent or descent as the case may be."

The latter would have been all right with me. However, summoning all of the old Bell fortitude—if any—I found a word, after much swallowing, and recalled a duty.

"Not to interrupt you two mechanics," said I, playfully, "I am up here, you know, to get an interview with Vic McLaglen."

"All right," smiled Vic, wanly, "let's get into it."

"Swell. What is your favorite flower?"

"If that is the Lincoln Memorial, it hasn't as much grass around it as I had thought," replied the Victor.

"Yeah, that's the lunchroom at Hoover Field, which we just left," sagely observed Mr. Johrden, who, it seems, has been up before.

"Returning to the question, Vic, are you really going to make pictures in England?"

"Look," was the reply, "some fool trap-drummer dropped one of those fly-swatters they use to tickle the snare drum in hot fox-trots."

"That," quoth Mr. Rieker, "happens to be the tracks and trainsheds of the Union Station."

Mr. Johrden rendered our confusion less acute by snapping a picture.

"THIS vaudeville tour of yours, Vic. . . ." I began, but Mr. Rieker interrupted, opportunely and politely.

Louis Johrden, Post Staff.

Victor McLaglen, famous film star, pictured on the steps of the Goodyear dirigible Puritan, before flying over the city yesterday, with this column looking over his head, wearing a fake smile not of the variety that won't rub off!

"That building down there in the shape of a cross, is. . . ."

"Some famous cathedral," I imagined.

"the District Jail!"

"Well, we can't exactly use a load of that!" This was a chorus.

"And right along there beside it, is Gallinger Hospital," continued the pilot who really was one.

"Well, we might use a load of that, if this keeps up," suggested Lou.

"You mean, if this doesn't keep up, don't you?" inquired Mr. McLaglen, most cheerful of all the birds. He evidently thinks the word is "dirgeable."

"But about your being teamed with Charlie Judels at the Rialto next week," I suggested. "But, pardon me just a moment, I think that's my rose garden and bird-bath, out on Gallatin street, right down there."

"Oh, you mean the Soldiers' Home grounds and farm with the lake in the middle."

I don't know who it was made this smartcrack, but, unfortunately, he turned out to be right.

"Getting back to the subject of films, Vic——"

"How do you feel? I'm running this thing. Look!"

Ye gods! And right away I didn't feel so good and neither did Mr. Johrden and neither did Mr. Rieker and neither did Mr. McLaglen!

"I think we'll be going back now, if you don't mind," observed Mr. McLaglen casually, "but that is a nice bridge hand Ely Culbertson left lying down there, for somebody that knows how to play it."

"Oh, sure," yawned Mr. Rieker, "that's the Arlington Experimental Farm!"

DRIFTING slowly over the lazy-looking Potomac, with no sense of progression, it seemed to me that we were getting nowhere rapidly—especially if Vic was to take another hitch at the wheel!

"These blimps don't get going very fast, do they?" I asked Mr. Rieker.

"No, not very," he grinned; "we're only doing between 45 and 50 at the moment."

"And are how high?"

"What's the matter, son; can't you read? There it is right there in front of you—2,300 feet."

And it was right then that Hoover Field began rushing up to slap us handsomely in the face!

AS soon as we had arisen from kneeling down and kissing dear old Mother Earth smack on her landng field, Mr. Petrie dashed up to know how we had liked it.

After the others, exclusive, of course, of Mr. Rieker, had done their lying, I spoke up.

"Great!" said I. "Swell place for an interview. No interruptions!"

District Heads Due To Renew Aid Plea

Expected to Include Item in Their Estimates to Senate.

A renewed request for the $600,000 relief item, which was eliminated from the District appropriations bill by the House last week, is expected to be made by the District Commissioners when they go before the Senate committee.

Yesterday the Commissioners spent most of the day considering the revised bill, and it is understood that they included the relief item in the estimates which they will present to the Senate.

Charitable agencies have warned that many unemployed will suffer here if the special appropriation is not forthcoming. Paul L. Benjamin, former executive secretary of the District committee on employment, has led the fight for the congressional relief, which would be taken from the Municipal Center estimates.

Contest on Better Homes Extended

Arlington County Event to Close Sunday; Prizes Are Offered.

Four more days have been allowed for entrants in the small house contest of the better homes committee of Arlington County, it was announced yesterday. The contest will close on Sunday, instead of today, as first planned.

There will be two prizes in each of the five classes of the contest. The classes are the most attractive small house worth not more than $10,000, the best planned house, the best remodeled small house, the best room completely furnished with redecorated pieces, and the best kitchen.

All entries should be mailed to Mrs. N. D. Mitchell or handed to some member of the committee before Sunday. Homes will be judged by representatives of the Better Homes Bureau, the American Civic Federation, the Real Estate Board and the American Institute of Architects.

Broker's First Wife Sues for Alimony

Executors for Estate of S. M. Marks Named as Defendants.

Col. Edward S. Bailey and the Munsey Trust Co., executors of the estate of Samuel M. Marks, insurance broker, who committed suicide in his office last February, were named defendants yesterday in an $18,500 suit, filed by Marks' first wife, Florence L. Marks. The suit is for alleged back alimony for 15 years and five months.

Mrs. Marks presented her claim to the executors in Probate Court, but they refused payment, and the suit was filed to force the estate to pay her the alleged arrearage.

In her petition, Mrs. Marks, through George D. Horning, jr., declared that by a divorce obtained in Virginia in December, 1912, she was given $100 a month alimony. The payments were made until October, 1916, since which time no alimony has been paid to her, she said. Marks, in his will, directed that a daughter, Frances Laurette Marks, be given $7,000 and that $1,000 be used to care for his dog. He left the major portion of his estate to his second wife, Mrs. Flora G. Marks.

Bids on Children's Sanitarium Asked

Will Be Opened on June 2; $500,000 Is Available for Project.

The District Commissioners yesterday advertised for bids for construction of the Children's Tuberculosis Sanitarium on Defense highway, but the bids will not be opened until June 2, on account of the priority of Federal projects.

Roland M. Brennan, chief clerk of the District Engineer Department, said that the Commissioners hope to get better estimates in June than they would in May, when the Treasury Department will open bids on the Postoffice Department, the Department of Justice, and an extension to the Agriculture Department.

Approximately $500,000 is available for construction of the hospital and nurses' home. Bids also have been asked on a refrigeration plant. Other parts of the construction will be done later.

Baltimore Woman Hurt In Capital Auto Crash

Two Baltimore visitors to the cherry blossom area figured in an automobile accident late yesterday afternoon, which sent one of them to Emergency Hospital with several fractured right ribs.

Mrs. Olia Reedy, 38 years old, of 216 East Lafayette street, Baltimore, and Mrs. Roland Carmine, 52 years old, of 806 East Lafayette street, were returning from a trip around the Tidal Basin when their car was in collision on Constitution avenue at Fourteenth street northwest, with a machine operated by Miss Helen Marshall, 29 years old, of 1704 S street northwest. Mrs. Carmine was taken to the hospital by a witness to the accident.

Paul Junior High Addition Is Urged

Board of Education Asked to Include Estimates in 1934 Budget.

The Board of Education was asked to include estimates for a ten-room and gymnasium addition to the Paul Junior High School, in their recommendations to Congress for the fiscal year 1934, by the Home and School Association of that body last night.

The Paul Junior High organization indicated that an addition now being completed would barely care for the students registered next fall and that the continued growth of the community would necessitate further school facilities by 1934.

A proposal by Ernest H. Pullman that steps be taken to eliminate home study for the school children was debated by the group. Pullman contended the children should have more time for recreation, social activity and exercise. The association was addressed by Dr. Harvey Baker Smith, on the "Adolescent Child."

$22,000 Gem Robbery Held Work of "Trailers"

While police convictions tended toward a theory that the two Philadelphia jewelry salesman robbed of more than $22,000 worth of gems Monday night were the victims of thieves who had trailed them from their home town, an intensive search was being maintained here for the bandits.

The two salesmen—Harry Stivack and Benjamin Abraham—were questioned at length yesterday by Capt. Bernard W Thompson, acting chief of the detective bureau, and other detectives. Their movements ever since reaching this city were recounted and are to be retraced by sleuths.

Symphony in Six Million But a Headache in Only Six

Fannie Hurst, Here for Film, Finds Discord in Reporters' Queries.

Fannie Hurst was besieged by reporters yesterday as she stepped off a train at Union Station with her husband, Jacques S. Danielson. The noted writer came to the Capital for a preview of a picture.

Six million persons are far less annoying than six, Fannie Hurst probably confided to herself when she left Union Station yesterday afternoon after her arrival here from New York.

Miss Hurst, whose novels and short stories are known the world over, had slipped away from her city of 6,000,000 to breathe the free air of a city of less than 500,000, to meet President Hoover and to see her motion picture, "The Symphony of Six Million," safely launched in the Nation's Capital.

Smiling in anticipation of a nice, quiet visit in "peaceful" Washington, the writer, who began the study of humanity as a a waitress, stepped from her train, the roar of her 6,000,000 still fresh in her ears, into the midst of six, who, if they didn't roar at least made a noise that was equally as disconcerting.

"About your marriage, Miss Hurst—"

"No, I won't talk about my marriage or any one's else," the famous writer answered with a pleasant smile. She looked quickly at a tall man, in a lavender shirt and a gray fedora, a few feet away. He was Jacques S. Danielson, Miss Hurst's husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Danielson a few years ago announced the establishment of independent residences, with a date once a week, dinner and breakfast included. But Miss Hurst refused to reveal how the plan worked out.

Some one tried the depression. That worked better. Miss Hurst views her six million and all the other six millions as being attached to a sort of gargentuan wheel. "A spoke," she explained, "has just happened to stop at the depression sign. The wheel will turn again."

Turning her attention from the wheel, Miss Hurst spoke of her own sex, of one in particular, Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, of Florida. She thinks Mrs. Owen "remarkable."

Number two of the disconcerting six asked the visiting author about "the trade of writing," and the visiting author bristled. She doesn't like writing referred to as "a trade."

"Writing," she explained, "is the only thing in life I take seriously."

The "Symphony of Six Million," a story of the New York Ghetto, produced by Radio Pictures, is the first Miss Hurst has written directly for the screen, she said, adding that she prefers writing novels "because they are roomier."

Her picture was given a preview last night at RKO-Keith's Theater. The Washington run of the picture will begin Saturday.

She will be accompanied by Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, to the White House today, where she will be greeted by President Hoover. She was officially welcomed at Union Station by Hardie Meakin, manager of Keith's. He wasn't, it might be added, one of the curious six.

NATS POUND WALBERG FOR 7-4 WIN OVER MACKS

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THIS morning's National League standings, which show the Cardinals and the Giants in seventh and eighth places, respectively, are no hallucination. These two clubs, the outstanding favorites this season, are still outstanding—the outstanding flops of the early season.

Babe Herman, last year one of the Brooklyn Daffiness Boys, appears to be mending his ways as a member of the Cincinnati Reds, no mental brainstorms as yet being reported. The Babe set a high-water mark last year when he held his ground in right field while waiting for a ball that had passed safely over first base to roll foul.

Fred Marberry has been no sensational success thus far this season. When he has his fast ball he's a winning pitcher. When he hasn't, his presence is a mistake. Last Sunday, against the Athletics here, he had his fast ball, but you couldn't tell it from his slow one.

Joe Turner was announcing his program of wrestlers for his weekly show the other day. "Is Grobmeier an orthodox wrestler?" Joe was asked. "Hellno," Turner wisecracked; "he's an American.

Manager Walter Johnson declined with thanks Ad Liska's services two weeks ago in Chattanooga after Liska had been mauled by the Nats in an exhibition game. Since then Liska has won his two Southern Association starts in impressive fashion, and Johnson is wondering if there isn't something to this talk of human fallibility.

A photograph comes to hand showing Max Schmeling reclining in an easy chair on his hotel porch during early training for the Sharkey fight in June. A quaint way to train, perhaps, but if memory serves this column rightly, Schmeling won the title from Sharkey while in a sitting posture in the ring at Yankee Stadium in 1930.

The attendance at the Olympic games at Los Angeles next summer is seriously threatened by the edict against nonworking officials. Only Olympic committeemen on active duty will be permitted Annie Oakleys to the events, insuring the competing athlete plenty of room in which to perform.

The National League has succeeded in pinning back the ears of the rabbit ball with great effect, according to the home-run statistics which show 31 round-trip tours in the American League to 15 for the National.

Sande must be slipping. In his heyday he didn't have to beat the barrier to get home in front, as the starter detected him doing at Jamaica the other day. But it's no sin if a jockey can get away with it.

The Capital soon will be visited by one of the busiest, most ubiquitous personages in the entire sports world—a man who is hardly ever out of range of the photographers' lens. His title is the nonplaying captain of the Davis Cup Team.

One of the greatest upsets of all sportsdom will be registered in Washington if Bill Tilden is beaten in the three-day professional singles tournament at Wardman Park this week-end, but there are no betters.

Max Schmeling's lean picking on his tour of the provinces now make it a worth while bet that the Londos-Lewis wrestling bout in the stages of development for New York this summer will outdraw the Schmeling-Sharkey fight in June.

The Boston Marathon, a part of the Patriot's Day celebration of Paul Revere's ride, is won by a young German lad, who probably never heard of the country's leading jockey of 1775.

2 Knockouts In Portner's Thrillers

Bowen and Schwartz Stopped as 1,800 Watch Bouts.

Strickler and Finazzo in Sizzling Draw; Martin Bows.

By JACK ESPEY.

THE large number of our patrons of punch who went elsewhere than Portner's Arena, Alexandria, for their entertainment last night, made the great mistake of their lives. Less than 1,800 attended the Day Nursery's weekly benefit show and were rewarded with action that would have put many major leaguers to shame.

Two of the five bouts—the last two, which sent them away happy—ended in first-round knockouts, with Sammy Braunstein and Bill Flemster exploding the dreamland dynamite at the expense of Ray Bowen and Billy Schwartz, respectively.

Nick Antonelli rallied in a sizzling eight-rounder to gain the decision over Al Martin, while in the most thrilling brawl of the night Billy Strickler drew with Sam Finazzo. Another hard-fought draw, of four rounds, saw Chuck Henderson and Marino Marini blasting away.

For unadulterated ferocity, gameness and sportsmanship the Strickler-Finazzo bout matched any witnessed here-abouts this year. Finazzo, swarthy Baltimore Italian, spotted Strickler 13 pounds—157 to 170—yet stood up under a murderous shelling in the fourth and eighth rounds when many a man would have quit without reproach from manager or fan.

Strickler Has Foe Reeling.

Strickler, local southpaw, let loose a flood of lefts and rights in the fourth that sent Finazzo reeling half unconscious from corner to corner. Having mopped up Sam's counter-punches in the earlier rounds, Billy finally caught his foe and kept throwing leather to head and body until a sweet-sounding bell came to Finazzo's rescue.

But Strickler was unable to follow up his advantage in the fifth while the Italian, with fast-returning strength, pedaled away from danger, at the same time countering with right uppercuts to Billy's midsection. Strickler, however, never gave up the chase, but did not nail his rival again until the latter part of the seventh, when, disregarding Sam's heaviest blows, he broke through the invader's defense and punched him from pillar to post. The eighth was a repetition of the one previous.

The two quick kayoes were totally unexpected and equally as clean cut. Braunstein, Navy Yard Marine, dropped Bowen for nine and then the full count after two minutes of the initial stanza.

Bowen, fulfilling predictions, thoroughly outboxed Sammy at the start, poking a speedy left to the body and chin and getting away without a return. But Braunstein, also living up to form, waited for an opening when Ray missed. Then his right flew home. Bowen got up groggily at nine only to run into another right-hand dose and the finish.

Flemster, light heavyweight champion of the Carolinas, and little known to this section, stopped Schwartz in 1:40 of the opening round. The Alexandria boy was floored by a sharp right to the jaw. Billy got back to his feet through sheer courage and determination, but when battered down again by Flemster's right, Referee Charlie Short halted the bout.

Antonelli justly earned the nod over Martin, staging a rousing rally in the last four rounds to cause the Baltimore featherweight to clinch for safety. Martin's machine-gun left scored repeatedly in the first half of the milling, but lost its zip when the Mohawk Club star reached his head and body with a long left hook.

German Youth Wins Boston Marathon

Paul Debruyn Leads Field of 220 in 26-Mile Grind.

Hennigan, Winner in 1931, Second; Demar in 18th Place.

By BILL KING.

BOSTON, April 19 (A.P.).—The machine-like strides of Paul Debruyn, 24-year-old German marathon champion, wore out 220 rivals today as they carried him home first in the thirty-sixth running of the Hopkinton-Boston marathon, 200 yards ahead of Jimmy Henigan, of Medford, last year's winner.

The smooth-running Teuton raced almost shoulder to shoulder with Henigan during 5 of the last 6 miles before uncorking a terrific closing spurt that forced that 40-year-old veteran to wilt badly when the finish line was almost in sight.

Debruyn appeared capable of breaking the record for this classic. He finished strong in 2 hours 33 minutes and 36 2-5 seconds, less than a half minute slower than the mark established by Johnny Miles, the Canadian ace, back in 1926.

Kyronen Maintains Third Position.

Willie Kyronen, of the Finnish-American A. C., New York, who ran third past five of the seven checking stations, finished in that position, 23 seconds later than Henigan, whose time was 2:34:32, the best he has ever made in almost a dozen starts in this race. Kyronen was second in 1930 and third the year before.

Albert "Whitey" Michelson, of the Millrose A. A., New York, finished fourth in 2:36:23 2-5; William Steiner, New York National Guardsman, placed fifth in 2:38:46; Alex Burnside of Toronto, sixth, in 2:39:42; Earle Collins, of Medford, seventh, in 2:40:59; Leslie Pawson, Pawtucket, R. I., eighth in 2:41:36; Eddy Cudworth, Toronto, ninth in 2:42:32, and John Semple, of Lynn, gained the last place in the "first ten" by finishing in 2:43:07.

Demar's Pace Too Slow.

Three other former winners also started. Age, however, exacted its usual toll. Clarence Demar, the 44-year-old Keene, N. H., teacher, who had won seven Boston marathons, six of them in the past ten years, discovered that his usual pace was much too slow for his younger rivals. He started off in eighteenth place and finished there.

Bill Kennedy, Port Chester, N. Y., veteran, who won in 1917, was the twenty-second man home. Carl Linder, of Quincy, 1919 victor, was not in sight when the official checkers retired after timing the first 45 finishers.

Among the other stars who faded were Carl Koski, Finnish-American A. C., New York, who finished thirteenth; Fred Ward, Millrose veteran who finished fifteenth, and Max Lamp, another of the Millrose team who placed thirty-sixth.

Among the 33 prize winners was Frank Dengis, Baltimore, who finished twenty-ninth in 2:51:58.

Sam Jones Loses Duel to Tribe, 4-2

Veteran Is Outpitched by Hudlin, Weakening in Last Three Innings.

Chicago, April 19 (A.P.).—Willis Hudlin outpitched Sad Sam Jones today to give Cleveland a 4-to-2 victory over the White Sox, and a 3-to-1 edge for the series.

Hudlin gave only five hits and might have had a shutout but for four Cleveland errors, all of which figured in the scoring. Both the Sox runs were unearned. The Indians did all their scoring in the last three innings.

BRAVES BEAT GIANTS, 8-7, IN 13TH

Worthington Triples to Decide Contest for Boston.

NEW YORK, April 19 (A.P.).—Despite the best efforts of Bill Terry and Hughey Critz, the Boston Braves outlasted the Giants today to win a 13-inning struggle, 8 to 7.

Terry clouted two home runs, tying the score in the ninth with his second, and drove in the final run with a triple in the thirteenth and Critz made five hits in six times up. But the Braves combined fourteen hits off Walker, Luque and Hubbell with three Giant errors to tally eight times.

Wally Berger drove in the winning runs with a triple after Maranville had reached first on a force out and Worthington had doubled.

Benge Checks Dodgers As Phils Tie for Lead

Brooklyn, April 19 (A.P.).—The Phillies resumed their heavy hitting today behind some fine mound work by Ray Benge and clouted out a 10-to-2 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers. The triumph put the Phils into a tie with the idle Chicago Cubs for the National League lead.

Benge allowed only five hits, not more than one in any inning, and lost a shutout by throwing a home run ball to Glenn Wright after he had walked Boone in the sixth inning.

Waite Hoyt, who made his second start for Brooklyn, was tagged for seven hits and five runs in the first five innings.

Hack Wilson, who wrenched his knee sliding to second base Monday, was on the Brooklyn bench today.

YANKS DIVIDE 2 GAMES AT BOSTON

Lazzeri's Homer Wins Second Game After Loss in Morning.

BOSTON, April 19 (A.P.).—The Boston Red Sox pounded Johnny Allen for four runs in the first inning today and won the morning half of the Patriots' Day doubleheader, 6 to 5, but the New York Yankees came back with a home-run assault in the afternoon and evened the count with a 6-to-3 victory.

In the two games the Yankees hit five homers. Earle Combs, playing left field in Babe Ruth's place, hit one in each game. Tony Lazzeri won the second game with a homer with two on base in the seventh inning. Lou Gehrig and Bill Dickey got the other four-baggers.

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

Philadelphia, April 19.

MUCH pleased with themselves at having beaten the Mackmen twice here, thus evening up the score at 2-all, Manager Walter Johnson and his Nats return to Washington for a series with the Boston Red Sox, which starts tomorrow afternoon. Another game will be played Thursday. Friday is an open date, and the series ends Saturday, with the Mackmen showing up for a Sabbath contest.

For tomorrow's game, Manager Johnson plans to start either Lloyd Brown or Bob Burke, with the latter probably getting the call in view of the fact that Brown is still complaining that his salary wing, which has been sore most of this spring, is still not quite normal.

Shortstop Joe Boley, of the A's, wrenched a shoulder in the late innings of Monday's game, putting him out of commission. Eric McNair drew the assignment this afternoon.

Carl Reynolds, Nat right fielder, pulled up with a bad cold and gave way to Dave Harris today.

Spencer shot a liner down the right field line in the first, which apparently had cleared the filled bases, but the wind carried it foul by a small margin and all it proved to be was a second strike. Walberg then fanned him.

The Mackmen also had three left in their first, Weaver showing gameness in escaping unscathed. He had the count three balls and one strike on Cramer, forced the batter to foul one and then to roll sharply to Myer.

Haas chased back and over toward right to make a sensational over-the-shoulder grab of Myer's liner in the second. The blow was ticketed "three bagger."

Bishop's single in the first and Dykes' in the second, both opening innings, were scratch hits which Cronin knocked down but could not hold. Dykes' blow helped the Mackian cause none, for Bluege immediately raced over toward short to snare

True, Monte did not go the route, giving way to Fred Marberry in the seventh, but he might have completed the game had Dave Harris held on to a fly ball which he caught in the fifth inning. No error was charged, Johnny Heving, the batter, being credited with a double which let two runs score in the fifth and paved the way for another. Had the Greensboro sheriff held the ball, the inning would have ended then and there and the trouble Weaver found himself in in the seventh would not have looked as serious.

Until this fifth round, Weaver had granted but three hits and two of these were scratchy. He was hit hard in the seventh, however, and Marberry did some good pitching to wriggle out of this hole.

Walberg Solved Early in Game.

George (Rube) Walberg started for the Macks and got away badly. The Nats solved him for twelve of their fifteen hits and six runs in the first four frames, these blows including a homer by Joe Cronin, a triple by Sammy West and doubles by Manush and Weaver. He settled down in the fifth and went out to make way for a pinch-hitter in the eighth, Ed Rommel finishing the game.

In addition to his four-bagger, Cronin was credited with two singles, to take hitting honors of the game, with Harris also getting a trio of bingles to show for his work at the tee.

Lady Luck surely smiled on the Nationals as they started the game, being largely responsible for the two-run lead which they attained. Three distinct breaks helped them.

Simmons Drops Myer's Liner.

First Myer led off with a liner to Simmons which the latter dropped after apparently having made the catch. Then, on Manush's lusty double, the relay throw had Myer nipped at the plate but he managed to knock it out of Cochrane's hands on his slide. West singled and, after Cronin lofted to Haas, Harris followed with a pop which went as a hit when Bishop lost the ball in the sun. Judge coaxed a walk, filling the bases, but Walberg then managed to put on the brakes.

It looked as though the A's might get these two runs back in their half when they filled the bases on Bishop's single and walks to Simmons and Foxx. These passes were issued after two were dead, however, so that Weaver had only to dispose of Cramer, which he did on a roller to Myer.

In the third, the Nats became 5 up, a double play preventing possible further advance

OVERTIME, DERBY HOPE, SCORES IMPRESSIVELY AT GRAW

Whitney Colt Winner by Length

Circles Field to Beat Open Hearth and Snobful.

Prometheus Scores in Third After Getting Slow Start.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, April 19.—Overtime, the Porter colt, owned by Mrs. John Hay Whitney, won the Combat, at 1 mile and 70 yards, test and a sort of try-out for Derby candidates. Overtime, which is named for the Kentucky classic, ran a good race, but found most competition from Open Hearth and Snobful, a pair that has no particular stake ambitions at this time.

Snobful and Jolly Pilot did the fastest running at the start, and they appeared like a team swinging around the clubhouse turn. Overtime was fourth and Open Hearth fifth. There was little change in the first division until the swing for the stretch, where Overtime answered Jockey Jimmy Smith with a burst of speed that carried the colt to the front. Snobful was still sticking to his guns, with Open Hearth looming as a menace. The latter came with a rush at the end and was going the fastest. Snobful was tiring, but held Big Beau and War Plane safe.

A crowd of 10,000, including Vice President Charles Curtis, saw the race.

Aegis Pays Board Bill.

Aegis has been eating oats in the W. M. Jeffords barn since last May. Mr. Jeffords hasn't kicked, but Trainer P. M. Burch believes that every animal should pay his own way. Today Burch saddled the American Flag gelding and sent him to the post in the Lansdowne, secondary feature.

And just to prove there was no hard feelings, Aegis carried Jockey Buddy Hanford down the stretch a length in front of Impish to collect the major portion of a $1,400 purse. Pending had to be satisfied with the show money.

Aegis was no deep dark secret on the lawn, in the stands and down under where the principal betting is done. He was 65 cents on the dollar, quite flattering backing for a horse so long away from competition.

Sergt. Donaldson was batted hard to take the lead soon after the break. Aegis was second, with Portam third, and Pending fourth. Going down the back stretch, Sergt. Donaldson began to fade and Aegis was there to take the lead. Pending moved up as though to become a serious contender. These two battled for an eight before Impish came through on the rail with a rush that threatened to take the race. It was good for second money. Pending managed to stick to take third place for Portam.

Fusina Wins After Start Is Delayed.

Starter Milton had a variety of trouble with the 2-year-old maidens that faced the barrier in the opening race. After the youngsters had broken the tape, backed out and plunged through, the winner turned up in Fusina, from the Middleburg Stable. Eddie Watters rode the filly home five lengths in front of Apprehensive which had a head margin over Vendace.

Fusina ran a winning race from the start. Apprehensive broke second and stayed there the entire trip, although Vendace would have taken second money in another stride or two.

Step Liz delayed the start of the second race for some minutes, running away to the clubhouse turn and for a while resisting all efforts to move her. The Single Foot filly put on a one-horse rodeo with Jockey C. Pegg doing some fancy riding. When this was over, she decided to join the field and pranced to the post.

Fair Jack took the race for the Bedwell interests, defeating Jaffa and Tullachard. The start was ragged with Boscobel left after a bump as the barrier rose. Jaffa broke out in front and held an advantage of four lengths at one stage. Fair Jack followed close to the stretch, where Gilbert went to the whip to take the first honors.

Prometheus Worthy Favorite.

Prometheus, Broomstick gelding, made good for the favorite players in the third race, staging a show of speed in the stretch to defeat Princeton, which saved place money from Step Sis.

Step Sis, accompanied by Golden Gate, set a fast pace to the swing around the stretch turn, where Princeton took up the front running. Elston did not let Prometheus run until the field straightened out in the stretch; and when he did, the race was over.

Broadway Lights proved a surprise in some circles by defeating Don Tasker in the sixth race. Broadway Lights took the decision by a neck margin, with Battering Ram third.

Durva won from Deedie in the finale. Garlic was third.

JOE AND ASBESTOS —By Ken Kling

Yesterday's long shot ran second and the bank roll went up only 20 cents on the day. The total is now $11.10. Yesterday's secret code ran second, and counting the three selections Joe made Monday, the boys have picked 12 straight horses in the money. Only a few were favorites.

FUSINA, away in the first flight, assumed command when rounding the turn, opened up a winning lead, saving much ground when entering the home stretch, and was well in hand at the end. APPREHENSIVE, a forward factor, held on stoutly for the closing drive. VENDACE worked her way up steadily and closed with good courage under punishment. LADYKIN, slow to settle in her stride, finished creditably in the late stages. SINGING HEART was held safe for the entire trip. BLAZING CRIMP, under severe urging, was unable to reach the leaders. SNOWDRIFT broke slowly and showed little speed. MISS JAYCEE displayed early foot.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FAIR JACK, $6.90, $3.60, $2.60; JAFFA, $4.10, $3.20; TULACH ARD, $5.80.

FAIR JACK, hurried into a forward position, followed close to the pacemakers, swung to the outside when entering the home stretch and wore JAFFA down to win hard urged. JAFFA quick to get going, raced TULACH ARD into defeat, saved ground but was unable to withstand the winner. TULACH ARD forged a good pace for five furlongs, but weakened thereafter. LILLYBET was unable to challenge the leaders. FAIR BOB was outrun. STEP LIZ wheeled with the break and blocked BOSCOBEL.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:45. Off at 3:50¼. Winner, Mrs. W. R. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PROMETHEUS, $4.00, $2.60, $2.20; PRINCETON, $4.60, $3.10; STEP SIS, $2.90.

PROMETHEUS, closer up than usual in the early racing, was taken out to circle his opposition when approaching the home stretch and, wearing PRINCETON down, drew out without effort. PRINCETON outbroke his field, was raised in close pursuit of the leaders, assumed a brief lead, but could not keep pace when challenged. STEP SIS, hard ridden from the start, held the others safe in the final stages. HIGH SOCKS was never troublesome. DEJA went at an even pace throughout. GOLDEN GATE was used up setting the pace. BLACK DREAMS showed good speed to reach a forward position, then tired.

FOURTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,400; allowances. The Combat. For 3-year-olds. Start poor from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:20. Off at 4:27½. Winner, Mrs. J. H. Two-dollar mutuels paid—OVERTIME, $6.10, $3.80, $3.90; OPEN HEARTH, $4.70, $3.40; SNOBFUL, $5.30.

OVERTIME away clear and rated close to the pace in the first six furlongs, took command when midway of the final turn and, hard ridden thereafter, had enough left to withstand OPEN HEARTH. Latter, away in a tardy start after breaking out of hand, was forced to take a course on the outside to reach contention and came determinedly for the final drive. SNOBFUL, close up from the beginning, weakened during the final quarter mile. BIG BEAU, following close to the leaders early, was not good enough when the real test came. WAR PLANE lacked speed for the entire trip. INDIAN RUNNER and JOLLY PILOT quit badly.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,400; allowances. The Lansdowne. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:56. Off at 4:59½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—AEGIS, $3.30, $2.70, $2.30; IMPISH, $4.00, $2.70; PENDING, $3.50.

AEGIS, having good speed and rated close to the early leaders, gained command when midway of the back stretch, was steadied along until challenged and, responding gamely when shaken up for the final drive, held safe. IMPISH, laid over the outside the first six furlongs, came to the inside in the final three-sixteenths and finished full of run. PENDING, reserved within striking distance of the leaders, made a stout effort when approaching the home stretch, but faltered in the closing furlong. PORTAM met with no excuses. SERGEANT DONALDSON bore out badly rounding the second turn. HATTERAS was outrun.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:30. Off at 5:30½. Winner, T. McCarthy's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BROADWAY LIGHTS, $9.40, $3.80, $2.60; DON TASKER, $3.10; BATTERING RAM, $3.30.

BROADWAY LIGHTS, sent into early contention, raced HOMEWORK into submission to take command after seven furlongs, came willingly under severe punishment and just lasted to stall off DON TASKER. Latter, rated close to the early leaders, responded gamely and was wearing the winner down gradually. BATTERING RAM was blocked when moving into contention on leaving the back stretch, secured racing room next the inner rail during the closing stages and finished stoutly. SPANFAIR, breaking out of tight quarters, finished with good courage after racing around his field. HOMEWORK was made too much use of in setting the pace. KNEEHIGH closed a good gap. CHOSEN PAL, NIGHT VINTAGE and DARK VISION were rushed off their feet in the early racing.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 6:00. Off at 6:02½. Winner, Mrs. J. B. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DURVO, $11.40, $4.10, $2.60; DEEDIE, $2.70, $2.20; GARLIC, $2.30.

DURVA, rated along in contention, took command when leaving the back stretch, was placed to punishment in the final furlong and was under severe pressure nearing the finish. DEEDIE, steadied after racing MAKE HASTE into defeat, came again and finished stoutly on the inside. GARLIC, allowed to settle in his stride, challenged stoutly in the final half-mile, but hung in the closing furlong. FOURTH WARD was unable to reach a forward position. MAKE HASTE went well for six furlongs and tired fast. THE MARQUISE was outrun. ROYAL CHARGE pulled up lame.

Leiter Racing Stable Soon to Be Auctioned

Chicago, April 19 (A.P.).—The racing stable of the late Joseph Leiter will be auctioned off at Louisville, Ky., after the will is probated, Thomas Leiter announced today after deciding not to take over the turf interests of his father.

Fifty horses, including Princess Camelia and Prince Hotspur, the latter a Kentucky Derby eligible, are in the string, which is said to have cost about $500,000.

G. W. POST NINE DRILLS.

The George Washington Post baseball team will practice today at 3:30 p. m. on the West Ellipse diamond. All players are requested to report.

Adobe Post Scores In Lexington Feature

Lexington, Ky., April 19 (A.P.).—A new Richmond edged into the Kentucky Derby panorama when Knebelkamp & Morris' hitherto lightly regarded Adobe Post made good in his first 1932 appearance to capture the Spring Station Purse, feature here today. Among those trailing the gelded son of Cherokee—Ruth S. to the wire over the Futurity course were Col. E. R. Bradley's chief Derby reliance, Brother Joe, and Scream and Minton, also eligible for the classic.

Brother Joe was anything but disgraced and can be expected to improve. Enjoying a clear advantage for the first half mile the Bradley colt quit in the drive home as if short.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK.

Equipoise has been assigned 131 pounds for the $10,000 Philadelphia Handicap to be run here Saturday and I understand that Owner C. V. Whitney is undecided whether or not to start his star. Gallant Knight has 119 pounds but I understand he will be kept in the barn. This means Equipoise will have to spot Spinach, Her Grace, Lightning Bolt and other stars weight ranging from 17 to 27 pounds. Pending, which gets in with 90 pounds, would receive 41 pounds from the Pennant colt.

I have some below that I am trying for today. BILL.

FIRST RACE—LA CONTESSA showed excellent speed in her race at New Orleans and then exhibited a dull effort at Bowie. Despite that last, I understand, this filly is ready to leave the maiden ranks. This is the spot picked for her. LIQUEUR gave evidence of possessing speed in his race at Bowie and should be second here. PORT WEATHER comes to the races well recommended and may step out at the first asking.

SECOND RACE—The Audley Farm and Ral Parr entry of JILTED and KNIGHT'S CAP has an excellent chance here. The former turned in a victory in her only start and has worked well since. KNIGHT'S CAP has been first and third in two trys this year

FRIDAY'S GAME.
Eastern vs. Tech.

SERIES SCORES.
Central, 10; Business, 5.
Business, 12; Tech, 7.
Central, 8; Western, 6.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

CENTRAL HIGH'S dark-horse rating in the high school baseball series almost crumbled yesterday when Western High exhibited some totally unsuspected hitting power to back up the fine pitching of Bill Payne and all but won the ball game. But a tenth-inning batting spree by the Central Club pushed two runners across the plate in the twilight and it was Central's game by 8-6.

Central's tenth-inning bat belligerency did not arise until Bryant and Thompson, the team's hardest hitters, had rolled weakly out. Dick Cooke started things when Payne walked him. He stole second and Raub rapped him home on a single to right. Keyster ripped a hefty single to center, scoring Raub. Payne's speedball nicked Buddy Nau's shirt. The rally subsided when Payne stabbed De Bettencourt's liner.

Game Is Well Played.

It was one of the best games played in the last several high school series. After Central's pitching ace, Emmett Buscher, had been removed from the mound in the fifth, the game settled down to a dog-eat-dog affair. Jack De Bettencourt, who took up the Central pitching assignment with three on base and the score 6-3, in favor of his team, mowed down Clark, the last batter, and was effective throughout the rest of the game, except in the seventh, when Mullock, Hilleary and DeStephan produced three hits and that many runs. He cut down Western 1-2-3 in the sixth, eighth, ninth and tenth.

But it was Bill Payne that was the individual figure. Backed up with support that was only spasmodically good he dampened the dynamite in the Central bats and allowed only seven detonations. Western gained eight safeties.

Heckler Ires Payne.

Payne's downfall in the tenth, after nearly 2 hours and 40 minutes of labor, was at least partially caused by an unknown young man who heckled him through a megaphone during the entire fatal inning. When Payne ended the tenth by spearing De Bettencourt's drive he pegged the ball in the direction of the boy whose derision had been sulphuric and audible for fifteen minutes. There was no attempt to hit the boy, but it was a mighty scared and extremely silent young man who vaulted the railing and beat a retreat. Umpire Watt ruled Payne out of the game, but the incident in no way dimmed the splendid performance the big Westerner rendered in the midst of his sieve-like team.

Central's victory gave them quite a margin over their rivals in the series standing. The team has won its only two series games. Eastern, the defending champion, has not played yet.

BOSTON MARATHON TO GERMAN YOUTH

a cattleboat last summer to run and win the German marathon.

He had engaged in a few road races on this side with only moderate success and felt he had to show the home folks what he could do before they would consider him as a member of their Olympic team.

When he won the German classic and the story of his trip came out funds were raised to send him back to the United States in style.

He has competed in several road races in and around New York during the winter and set new American records. His latest feat was to win the 25-mile run at Staten Island, March 20, in the record time of 2 hours 44 minutes 50 seconds.

GONZAGA NETMEN WIN.

The matches were hotly contested, all three singles encounters going to extra sets.

OARSMAN DISCIPLINED.

Marietta, Ohio, April 19 (A.P.).—Willie Meyers, Jamaica, N. Y., veteran stroke of the Marietta College crew, was dropped from the squad today by Coach Ellis MacDonald for breaking training rules. This leaves MacDonald without an experienced stroke, with the triangular race against Penn and Wisconsin only a month away.

SONNENBERG ON BOLLING PROGRAM

Star Here Monday; Stein and Roebuck Clash at Strand.

GUS SONNENBERG, one of the many reformed rassling champions now percolating about the chest-expansion circuit, tops next Monday night's card of bouts at Bolling Field, the farthest outpost of this bustling mat bailiwick. The aging Gustave, whose particular nickname is "Dynamite," meets Bull Martin, a gent from Trenton who stoops to everything but wrestling in a wrestling ring.

Somewhat closer at hand, in the hallowed interior of that old fortress of flash, the Strand Theater, Matchmaker Joe Turner is dusting the chairs prior to offering his regular Thursday night torso tableau, which features a truly rough and ambitious hombre in George Zaharias, along with such established perennials as Sammy Stein, Sandor Szabo and Fred Grobmeier.

Sonnenberg has been a lethal force in wrestling. He was one of the first jobless college men that ambled into the beefy sport. His fame as a gridman had been more or less established at Dartmouth. When he dived at Strangler Lewis and flattened that Civil War veteran it turned a new page in the mat game. Many new faces appeared, with new and more sensational holds and flying gadgets and whatnot. Wrestling began to spread its wings, but the wings were mismatched. The N. B. A. tried to get all the boys together for a tournament. Sonnenberg said no, and Londos came into prominence as the duly sworn to and accredited champion.

Don George took the title away from Sonnenberg, and Lewis beat George. Then DeGlane beat Lewis on a foul.

Promoter Turner's headline exhibition tomorrow night is between Stein and Tiny Roebuck. Stein, as popular as Londos in New York, has shown marked improvement in his last several matches here. Zaharias, with his sincere jaw whacking, probably will steal the show, with Sandor Szabo as his sparring partner.

A trophy will be awarded the winning class, while medals will go to individual winners. It is planned to make it a yearly event.

Eastern's ball team will play Alexandria on Eastern Field at the same time. In other games today, Georgetown Prep plays at Western and Central opens up Hyattsville's season, at Hyattsville.

WALBERG POUNDED AS NATS WIN, 7-4

Two were out and men were on first and third as a result of McNair's single and a walk to Bishop when Heving filed to right. Harris managed to get both hands on the ball after a long run, but dropped it and it went as a double. Both runners, of course, scored, and Simmons singled home the other. Then Weaver fanned Foxx to end the round.

Philadelphia scored again in the seventh round, which saw the retirement of Weaver in favor of Marberry. With one gone, successive singles by Heving, Simmons and Foxx netted a run and caused the shift in pitchers. Marberry forced Cramer to pop to Cronin, but it took a good stop by Bluege to nip Dykes at first for the third out.

Walberg went out to make way for a pinch hitter in the eighth, and this brought Rommel into action in the final frame. He would have blanked the Nats except for an error by Bishop. The latter fumbled Manush's opening roller and the runner completed the base circle on West's useful out and Cronin's single to left center.

The Mackmen, who specialize in providing last-inning thrills, tried hard to put on their act today. With one dead, Heving bounded a single over Marberry's head and Simmons drew a free ticket to first. Foxx, however, rolled to the pitcher, who made a force play at second, and the game ended when Bluege gathered up Cramer's hopper and made another force out at Myer's station.

American League Crowds Show Drop of 50 Per Cent

National League Maintains Average Gates of Last Two Year; Washington Turn-Outs Top All Other Cities in Circuit.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

NEW YORK, April 19 (A.P.).—Cold weather, curtailment of the "free list" and general scarcity of spending money have served to take a big slice out of American League attendance since President Hoover tossed out the first ball a week ago, but the same factors, apparently, have had little effect on fans of the National League.

Unofficial figures gathered by the Associated Press for the first full week of play disclose that patronage in the American League slumped almost 50 per cent from the high figure set for the same period a year ago. The senior circuit, on the other hand, has enjoyed virtually the same attendance, game for game, as in 1930 and 1931.

Average Is 12,500 in National League.

In their first 23 games this season, National League teams drew approximately 289,000 fans through the gates, or an average of 12,500 per contest. For the first 28 games last season the average attendance was 13,400, and the first 21 contests of 1930 attracted an average of 12,840 customers.

The American League, which started last season with an attendance of some 400,000 for its first 20 games, has drawn only 209,800 spectators to 22 tilts this year. Some of the deficiency is explained, however, by the fact the New York Yankees opened at home last year, while they have been on the road since the current campaign began.

The most pleasant surprise in either league has been the enthusiastic turnout of Cincinnati fans to look over their revamped Reds. In their first seven games at Redland Field, Col. Dan Howley's athletes played before an estimated 130,000, an average of more than 18,000 each afternoon.

Giants and Cards Suffer Losses.

The closest approach to this mark was set by the Brooklyn Dodgers, who were hosts to 87,000 Flatbush fans in their first five bouts with the Braves and Phillies. Attendance fell off both at the Polo Grounds, where the Giants played to only 46,500 in five starts, and at Sportsman's Park in St. Louis, where the champion Cards pulled on 25,725 patrons for their first six engagements.

Washington fans so far have provided the largest turnouts in the American League. Two games at the Capital City have drawn 39,800 customers. Attendance in the four other cities for the first week were:

Detroit, six games, 54,500; Boston, three games, 15,000; Chicago, seven games, 55,000; Philadelphia, four games, 45,000.

Hitting The Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

LORRAINE GULLI'S TEAM, University Park, was just an also ran in the Washington Ladies League this season, but it loomed as the most important aggregation in the bunch last night at Columbia, when it broke up the first-place tie between the Beeques and the Columbias.

The championship of the league goes to the Beeques, for the Columbia Team went down before University Park in a rousing upset, three games to none. The Beeques administered the same treatment to the Keenos.

Miss Gulli played no small part in the procedure, as the curtain came down on this ever popular league. She rolled a 140 game and 344 set during the fracas. Her team amassed 546 pins in one game. The Hilltoppers took high set honors with 1,529.

Last night also was the final night of the North Washington Church League. Emory won the title some time back. The second place First Reformed team took last night's spotlight with a 1,593 set and 568 game. Walter Seltzer, of Gunton Temple, took high average game honors for the season with 112. Last night he had a 137 and 368.

At Arcadia last night the Zion Girls upset the Zion Boys two games to one. The winning scores were 454, 450 and 481 to 458, 422 and 458. Miss Leonberger had 108 and 293.

ALEXANDRIA BEATEN BY BUSINESS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., April 19.—Business High's slugging batsmen carved a 6-5 victory here today when Alexandria High's nine was turned back in a 10-inning game which found its climax in Joe Sherman's scorching double in the last inning, a blow that scored Carlton Giovanetti, diminutive Business second-sacker, with the winning run.

With the game apparently well under control Jimmy Garner took up the pitching duties for Business in the fifth inning on the long end of a 4-1 lead established by Lou Silverman. But a quantity of wild throws and a hitting splurge by Bruin, McMenamin and Hudson produced three runs for Alexandria in the sixth and another in the seventh, to give the locals a 5-4 lead.

Shoreham Swimmers To Race National Stars

The newly formed Shoreham Swimming Team, which formerly won most of Washington's swimming trophies under the name of the Washington Swimming Club, will face big league competition May 7 at the hotel pool, when the New York Swimming Association's women's team will be engaged in the customary events.

Eleanor Holm, national backstroke and medley champion, will head the New York delegation. Aiding and abetting this well-known figure in swimming will be Joan McSheehy, former national backstroke champion; Susan Robertson, junior national medley champion and holder of several other important sectional titles; Lisa Lindstrom and Catherine Ames, both well known in junior swimming ranks.

The locals rely upon such tankwomen as Onalene Lawrence, Rita Augusterfer and Lenore Taube.

VARSITY 'G' DINNER ON TONIGHT

Floyd Gibbons Talks at Annual Georgetown Event.

FLOYD GIBBONS, famous war correspondent and radio announcer, will appear tonight among the specially invited guests at the eighth annual Varsity G dinner of Georgetown University in the Willard Hotel. The affair gets under way at 6:30 o'clock.

Gibbons, who recently returned from China, is a Georgetown alumnus. He will make an address.

Owing to pressure of political interests in his home State, Congressman William P. Connery will be unable to appear as toastmaster, as originally scheduled. His place will be filled by Henry I. Quinn, also a Georgetown alumnus, who is one of the leaders of the District of Columbia bar.

Dr. John B. "Jock" Sutherland, football coach of Pittsburgh University, and Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, will make the principal speeches. The Rev. Coleman Nevils, president of the university, also will address the gathering. Presentation of the "G" certificates to athletes who have earned the school insignia this year will be made by G. Harris "Doc" White.

Finland Reconsiders, To Play in Cup Tennis

Helsingfors, Finland, April 19 (A.P.). Acceding to the request of Hungary, Finland reconsidered its decision not to engage in Davis Cup play and announced it would meet Hungary in a first-round match of the international tennis play at Budapest.

Finland announced a few days ago it was withdrawing from the competition because of the illness of some of its star players and inability, therefore, to put a strong team on the courts.

Eastern Nine Routs St. Alban's by 15 to 0

Eastern High's ball team, for which a rather bleak future has been painted this year by the experts, looked far from a cripple yesterday afternoon when it defeated St. Alban's, 15 to 0, at St. Alban's. There was nothing to it, except a preponderance of hitting and even more errors.

They let it run nine innings.

Greatest Star Invasion Due In Capital's Tennis History

Tilden Holds Chief Interest in Pro Tourney Starting Friday; Davis Cup Teams Play Here Next Week.

MORE sheer tennis caliber will converge on Washington within the next ten days than ever before in the 52 years the game has been fostered here. Leading the pack is Bill Tilden, the perennial leading figure of American tennis, and bringing up the rear is the youth who seems destined to take Tilden's place in the hearts of America's net fans, Ellsworth Vines.

In between these two masters loom the greatest amateurs and professionals in the game, Hans Nusslein, Wilmer Allison, Karel Kozeluh, Frank Shields, Albert Burke, John Van Ryn, Emmett Pare, Gregory Mangin and Roman Najuch, Marcel Rainville, Jack Wright, Gilbert Nunns and Willard Crocker.

Segregated, Tilden, Nusslein, Kozeluh, Burke, Pare and Najuch will stage Washington's first professional tournament, beginning Friday and extending through Saturday and Sunday on the courts at Wardman Park Hotel. Singles and doubles will be played every afternoon, commencing at 3 o'clock.

Likewise segregated, Vines, Allison, Shields, Van Ryn and possibly Mangin, will form the United States Davis Cup Team which meets Canada in the first round of the American zone, April 28, 29 and 30, at the Chevy Chase Club.

Canada, which always can be counted upon to give any team a rub, is sending its four best netmen for the event. In Rainville and Nunns, Canada has two young players who promise to go far in international tennis. Wright and Crocker are the Tilden and Johnston of Canadian tennis, and while eclipsed by the younger men, still are generally feared.

With the exception of Tilden and Nusslein, who stand a bit above the remaining pros, the Wardmen event will be a hotbed of competition, for although they have come from vastly separated sections of tennisdom, they nevertheless are almost perfectly matched.

Seats are on sale for both net events. The Tilden tickets may be had at Spalding's and the hotel, while the Davis Cup tabs may be had at Spalding's, Chevy Chase, or the Junior League rooms at Connecticut avenue and Q street. The professional tickets range from 75 cents to $3. A $5 ticket will admit a holder to all three days of the Davis Cup matches.

Red Sox Send Dashiel Back to Chattanooga

Boston, April 19 (A.P.).—The Boston Red Sox management today released John Dashiel, of Marshall, Tex., a recruit second baseman, unconditionally to the Chattanooga Club, of the Southern Association.

After announcing the trade, President Bob Quinn denied rumors that he contemplated trading Danny MacFayden, his right-handed pitching ace, to the New York Yankees for Tony Lazzeri, second baseman, and Outfielder Earl Coombs.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

SINCE DAD BROKE 100.

QUITE lovely are things now at our house—
All's peaceful and tranquil and sweet;
There's not a suggestion of friction—
Our happiness now is complete.
Much laughter and mirth fill the homestead,
The atmosphere's carefree and gay;
Life now holds a sweetness unequaled—
For dad broke one hundred today!

II.

No harsh words are raised in a quarrel—
No bitterness brings on a fight;
A spirit of good will is rampant—
The air's full of sweetness and light.
The baby can smash all the dishes,
The dog with the best rugs can play;
Ma even gets by with her cooking—
For dad broke one hundred today.

III.

The kitten can swallow the goldfish,
The puppies can gnaw up the chair,
The kiddies can raise a commotion
Without father seeming to care.
Bad coffee no longer disturbs him,
He tosses all trouble away;
Home now seems a place for the angels—
Since dad broke one hundred today.

IV.

Ma gets that new hat that she wanted
And also that coat trimmed with mink.
Dad now wears the smile of a cherub
To show that he's tickled quite pink.
Away with all problems and worries!
Let merriment rule down the line—
All bothers seem innocent trifles
Since dad got a ninety and nine!

V.

If business is bad, oh, forget it!
Economy? Bah; shoot the works!
Promotion of sunshine and music
Is something that nobody shirks.
All's right with the world, and, no fooling,
Life's just meant for dancing and glee;
It isn't the old home at all, sir,
Since dad broke one hundred, you see.

VI.

He's jolly, his voice rings with laughter;
It's hard to suppress him from song.
These days if he's served a cold dinner
He doesn't regard it as wrong.
He now is a new man entirely,
Abhorring all friction and strife,
Is dad since he bettered one hundred
The very first time in his life.

VII.

A crabbed and petulant creature
He was for a great many years;
His temper was something that often
Kept all of his dear ones in tears;
A grouch and a pest and a nuisance,
He long was a killer of joy—
But now that he's busted one hundred,
My gosh, he's a Happiness Boy!

RETRENCHMENT.

FROM a late homecomer from Florida comes the tale that things were so bad there this winter that John D. Rockefeller stopped giving away dimes and announced that he was merely lending them.

CAMPAIGN MOTHER GOOSE.

Al Smith would talk no bunk,
His foes would talk no sense,
And so between them they contrived
To make a brawl intense.

Divorces have taken a big drop since the depression. It's curious how hard times will convince a husband that the old girl isn't so bad after all and that he wouldn't think of trading her in this season.

PROOF.

Soon flowers in the green, green grass
Will lift their lovely faces,
For House of David whiskers now
Are tearing 'round the bases.
—Aphasia.

Elmer Twitchell says he knows a man who is so ignorant of all matters of business and finance that you'd almost take him for either a professional writer of business articles for the magazines or the author of those stock brokerage office letters.

It is believed the New York subways will have to be run by the city. We'd hate to be caught in an underground tieup while somebody with influence got Tammany Hall to come down and straighten out traffic.

Markets and Business in Review and Outlook

By Lawrence Sullivan

AN insistent demand for a greater volume of commercial credits to start the wheels of industry has come in upon official Washington with ever-increasing intensity during the last two weeks. Reduced to its essence this demand says bluntly to the banker: "Business sentiment now is ready to venture out once more—whenever the financial community will re-establish the normal flow of expansion credits."

It is the contention of many reputable business observers that the trend of banking sentiment toward abnormal liquidity has itself been a major factor in the fourth phase of the depression, which dates from the late summer of 1931.

* * * *

HOW completely the problem of commercial credits has swept other major considerations aside for the moment is indicated by the fact that two of our greatest national business organizations will give the question a dominant place on their convention agenda during the next two months.

First on the calendar is the annual meeting of the governing board of the Associated General Contractors of America, scheduled for Washington on May 2 and 3.

"Easement of credit for commercial and industrial uses, to the same extent afforded the financial institutions of the country through creation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and recent liberalization of the Federal Reserve act is to be strongly urged," the Associated Contractors have announced.

A few weeks later, May 16-20, the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States will give the same question a prominent place on the San Francisco program.

* * * *

THERE is already in preparation for the San Francisco committee on resolutions a formal call upon the banks of the country, probably to be presented through the American Bankers Association, to "pass the benefits of these increased credit facilities along to business."

"We believe that American banks have, in addition to the responsibility of safeguarding the funds of their depositors, the responsibility for making available at all times credit for commercial and industrial uses to the same degree in which they themselves enjoy its availability," the resolution reads.

"We call upon them to commit themselves publicly and actively to this responsibility while improving the liquidity of their assets through participation in the credit facilities of the Federal Government."

Edward J. Harding, of Washington, managing director of the Associated Contractors, stated in discussing the resolution that although the banks are enjoying the new liquidity which the recent Federal measures afford, "they are just as tight with funds as before the relief was provided."

"Hoarding by banks will nullify the benefits of Federal assistance just as quickly as hoarding by individuals," he said, "and the question of breaking the credit jam will be one of the major questions before all business interests from now on until it is solved."

CONTINUATION of the general downward trend of industrial earnings is indicated in the first-quarter industrial reports and trade surveys. The following briefs from the special financial wires of the Associated Press afford a cross-section of the business situation throughout the country as of mid-April.

The American Iron and Steel Institute estimates trackwork material shipments for the first quarter this year at 8,930 tons compared with 20,-891 tons in the 1931 quarter and 37,-450 tons in the 1930 period.

The Colorado Fuel & Iron Co. last week shipped 26 carloads of rail to the International Great Northern Railroad. The shipment was part of an order delayed since last summer. An order for 1,760 pairs of angle bars is now being filled for the same road.

Analysis of prices named by men's wear mills on fabrics for the fall, 1932, season shows that they are close to 1916 levels, with some woolens at the 1914 levels.

The further development of Railway electrification and wider demand for new industrial and household appliances promises continuance of the long term uptrend in the electrical equipment industry, says the Standard Statistics Co.

For the first quarter of 1932, the New York, Ontario & Western Railway Co. reports net income of $150,-000, after taxes and charges, compared with $2,498 in the same period in 1931.

The Bohn Aluminum & Brass Corporation reports for the quarter ended March 31, net loss of $73,201 after depreciation and taxes, compared with net profit of $437,296, or $1.24 a share in the first quarter of 1931.

Sales of carded cotton cloth for March, as reported by the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York, were 165,850,000 yards, equivalent to 58.1 per cent of production, which totaled 285,252,000 yards. Shipments were 265,675,000 yards, or 93.1 per cent of production.

Production of pig lead in the United States will be reduced from 3,000 to 4,000 tons monthly. It is estimated, through the suspension of the St. Joseph Lead Co.'s smelter at Herculaneum, Mo., scheduled for May 1.

A slight seasonal betterment is anticipated in a few lines of the chemical industry, but the gain for the industry as a whole will be reduced to a large extent by smaller takings in other channels, says the Standard Statistics Co.

Mill agents and jobbers report a marked improvement in demand for flour, inspired by recent sharp advances in wheat prices, which the flour market has shown a tendency to follow.

UTILITY MAN SAYS COURAGE IS NEEDED

Cortelyou Is Confident Spirit of Nation Will Overcome Depression.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The will to win and the courage to work are still with us, George B. Cortelyou, former secretary to President Roosevelt, declared last night in a radio address broadcast under auspices of the New York Life Insurance Co., of which he has been a director for eighteen years.

Asserting we can go forward or backwawrd, Mr. Cortelyou, now president of the Consolidated Gas Co., of New York City, insisted there is one thing we can not do, a thing forbidden by nature, and that is—stand still.

In his address, Mr. Cortelyou emphasized that the greatest asset any nation can have is the spirit of its people, and the greatest danger that can menace any nation is the breakdown of that spirit—the will to win and the courage to work. That spirit to win will carry us through this man-made depression, he predicted.

Investors Syndicate Report.

Assets of Investors Syndicate, with local offices, totaled $48,058,479.93 as of March 31, according to the company's quarterly report just released by E. M. Richardson, secretary and treasurer. This is an increase of $1,412,261.38 in the first three months and a gain of $7,332,698.15 over the total as of March 31, 1931. Capital, surplus and reserves showed a gain of $844,912.45 in the same twelve months' period, totaling $6,242,080.29 as of March 31, 1932.

Current favorable market conditions brought a substantial increase in purchases for bond and security account, Mr. Richardson stated. This item, consisting chiefly of securities legal for life insurance investment under New York State laws, totaled $4,748,398.87 as of March 31, 1932, according to the report, an increase of $2,186,800.54 in twelve months.

First Mortgages Increase.

First mortgages on improved city residential property increased during year from $32,019,454.99 to $33,732,-453.07, according to the latest report. Cash on hand showed an increase during this period of $175,383.98, and totaled $834,851.62 as of March 31, 1932, Mr. Richardson said.

Collections on the company's residential mortgages, which are on the monthly pay-off plan, continue satisfactory, Mr. Richardson stated. Payment collections on the syndicate thrift certificates have shown a definite improvement during the first quarter of 1932, according to Mr. Richardson, while sales of new certificates have shown an upturn in New York, Boston, Washington and other Eastern cities.

"This latter fact is particularly encouraging," said Mr. Richardson, "inasmuch as changes in the business trend usually make themselves noticeable first in the large population centers of the East, and then spread westward."

GENERAL ELECTRIC EARNINGS DECLINE

Net for First Quarter Equals 16 Cents Per Share; 38 Last Year.

Schenectady, N. Y., April 19 (A.P.). At the annual meeting of stockholders of the General Electric Co. held here today, Gerard Swope, president, announced that earnings for the first quarter of this year were equivalent to 16 cents a share on the common stock against 38 cents per share in the same quarter of 1931.

Profit available for dividends on the common for the first quarter was $4,508,668 against $10,844,334 one year ago. The quarterly dividend is 25 cents per share.

Mr. Swope said that orders received by the company in the first three months of this year amounted to $33,404,642 against $60,386,297 in the same quarter of 1931. Sales billed for the quarter amounted to $37,876,-399 against $61,959,801 a year ago.

"Business is still running at about the same rate as in the first quarter," said Mr. Swope, "and we hope to be able to keep business at about this rate and to continue to show operating profits as reported in the first quarter. Operations are now between 20 and 25 per cent of capacity."

He pointed out that the writing down of plants aided the company in times of reduced operations.

Directors were reelected.

HOLDERS APPROVE C. & O. ACQUISITIONS

Stock Purchases in Erie Are Sanctioned, Despite Minority Protests.

Richmond, Va., April 19 (A.P.).—Despite protests of a minority group, stockholders of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co. today approved all acts of the directors during the past year, including the taking of an option to purchase stock of the Erie and Pere Marquette Railroads from the Allegheny Corporation at prices higher than the market rate at the time of the transaction.

The action was taken at the annual meeting of the stockholders in the company's general offices here.

By a vote of 5,845,619 shares to 23,336 a resolution of approval was adopted. The minority declined to vote on the reelection of directors, all of whom were declared elected unanimously.

Charles Valentine, Collins Denny, Jr., and Henry Reily were spokesmen for the minority group.

The day's action was taken despite vigorous protests by a minority group which, during the meeting, indicated its fight today was only the beginning of a contest to prevent the controlling interests from proceeding with the purchase of stock in roads which have shown no earning potentialities in recent years.

The minority declined to vote on the reelection of directors.

Defending the action of the directors committee in taking the option on the Erie and Pere Marquette stock in response to a series of questions propounded by the minority group, W. J. Harahan, senior vice president, who presided at the meeting, asserted the value of large blocks of stock can not be measured by market quotations.

"An attempt to buy large blocks of stock on the open market would force up the price," he said. "The stock market is no criterion of values," he added.

Mr. Harahan said the option price for the recent Erie and Pere Marquette purchases was "substantially less than true values."

The directors committee recommended the taking of option on two blocks of stock at $13.25 per share by payment of $9 a share in cash.

KEY STOCKS PUSHED TO NEW LOW LEVELS

Losses in Main Body of Shares Small; Rails Are Relatively Steady.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

New York, April 19 (A.P.).—Scattered selling kept the stock market on the downgrade again today. While losses in the main body of shares were small, there were several net declines of a point or more, carrying some of the leaders into new low ground.

The closing tone was heavy.

Sales approximated 1,000,000 shares.

The dribbling liquidation in a number of leaders followed a few unfavorable first quarter earnings statements. There was a general absence of buying interest.

For the second successive session rails held relatively steady, trying vainly now and then for a rally. The market appeared to have been impressed by the March operating figures of large carriers reporting to date and the lifting of pressure against rail shares at least removed a depressing influence.

Industrials Wobbly.

Industrials were rather dispirited, although in only a few instances did much weakness develop. Allied Chemical's 4-point break was the worst single performance.

U. S. Steel, dipping under 30, seemed to be making further efforts to discount a dividend omission next week.

American Can sold into new low ground, while General Electric, which earned 16 cents a share in the first three months of 1932, against 38 cents a year ago, touched 14.

At the worst, losses for the leaders, with a handful of exceptions, ranged from 1 to 2 points, but these were reduced by late covering.

American Telephone parted company with par on an opening block of 5,000 shares at 99⅞. Eventually it sold down to 97¾, but cut a loss of 2¼ to half a point net. Brokers reported a fairly active odd-lot demand for the stock.

Laclede Gas, trading for the first time this year, changed hands at 73, off 83½ points from the last transaction, after several adjustments of bid and asked quotations.

Homestake Mining, sole surviving member of the One Hundred Club, was pushed down 6¾, to 110¼, but reduced its loss to 1¾ net.

Union Pacific closed at a minor fractional concession, as did New York Central and Pennsylvania. Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio and Norfolk & Western improved from one-half to 1 point.

Steel Wage Cut.

Reports of quickening activity at some steel centers were reassuring, but preliminary estimates of this week's average operations indicated that for the country as a whole the industry was still jogging along in the trough of the depression.

Wall street is fairly certain that further wage reductions will be considered at next week's meeting of the steel executives and is wondering whether a cut of 10 or 15 per cent will be decided on. Several smaller manufacturers, it is understood, favor the larger figure. A belated seasonal pick-up may still be possible, provided automobile output expands, but in some quarters hopes of much improvement are being postponed until summer.

Money Plentiful.

Money was abundantly plentiful, a situation that received recognition in a further paring of time loan quotations. Lower rates were quoted for 60 to 90 day accommodations. There was some talk of another downward revision in banker's acceptances, since last week's drastic cut of half of 1 per cent did not appreciably augment the supply.

With time funds now being offered at the official stock exchange call money rate, 2½ per cent, it was expected that that change might soon be taken off the peg to which it has clung tenaciously all year. Outside, accommodations have long been available at 2 and this week lenders have made offerings at 1½.

Banks are still defiating security loans, which would account in large measure for a sagging stock market. However, members of the Central Banking System are adding to their reserves with the Federal. This item rose $71,000,000 last week. Sooner or later, it is expected, easier credit conditions must make themselves felt.

BOND MARKET LACKS SUPPORT OF BUYERS

All Corporate Issues Sag on Small Turnover; Foreigns Are Mixed.

By VICTOR EUBANK.

New York, April 19 (A.P.).—Support was withdrawn from the majority of bonds today and prices again took the negative side of the trading debate.

The session was a quiet one, however, and declines generally ranged from fractions to around a point.

Sales totaled $8,746,000 par value, and the average for 60 corporate securities was off six-tenths of a point.

The United States Government section, which has been running away from the corporate classes, appeared somewhat fatigued. But losses in the Federals were mostly confined to fractions and Treasury 4s and 3⅜s even closed slightly higher.

The railroads and utilities, especially the speculative liens, were under pressure. Poor earnings reports, the anticipated falling off in car loadings and the feebleness of stocks were blamed in part for the liquidation. Louisville & Nashville 5s, on the sale of one bond, dropped 13½ points. There was a mixed trend to foreign loans. The Argentines eased while French and Italian obligations firmed. The Japanese list was steady. British 5½s reached another new high for the year, but reacted aroung a point.

Curb Trade Irregular.

The curb market drifted irregularly lower in extremely sluggish trading today. There were intervals of firmness, and the oils held up well all day, but scattered selling was sufficient to lend a somewhat heavy tone to the general list in the afternoon. The total turnover was only about 130,000 shares, or some 30,000 less than yesterday's.

Electric Bond & Share was well bought, closing ½ higher. American Gas salged ⅝, and then recovered to close off ¼ net. United Light "A" sagged a fraction, and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore was off more than a point. Edison Electric Illuminating made one of its infrequent appearances, trading at 155, off 17 points.

Cities Service issues were under some pressure, the preferred shares sagging to new lows.

Some of the thinly traded issues in the industrials and specialties again slipped off substantially to new lows. Losses of about 2 points in Rubberoid, Fedders Manufacturing "A," and 1 point in U. S. Playing Card, carried those issues into new low ground.

The Ford issues were somewhat heavy, Ford of Canada "B" losing 2 points in a few transactions.

U. S. Dairy recovered somewhat, the Class "A" rising 4 points.

A. T. & T. Drop Leaves Only One $100 Stock

New York, April 19 (A.P.).—Shares of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. sold under their par value of $100 on the New York Stock Exchange today for the first time since 1921.

American Telephone, which closed yesterday at $100, opened at $99.87 for a block of 5,000 shares, and subsequently sold lower. Only six times previously in this century had the shares been quoted under par. In 1921 they reached a low of $95.75. In 1920 they touched $92.12 and in 1907 reached $88. Other years that saw violation of par were 1917, 1918 and 1919.

There was no change in the gold earmark account.

TRADERS SPECULATE ON STEEL DIVIDEND

Action to Be Taken Next Week Subject of Much Conjecture.

New York, April 19 (A.P.).—There is much conjecture in Wall Street concerning what action directors of U. S. Steel will take on the common dividend at their next meeting one week from today.

No clew was seen at the annual stockholders meeting yesterday, in the statement of Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the board.

"A prophecy for the future is quite out of order," appeared to epitomize his remarks.

The chairman intimated the question of cutting wages had again been taken up by the directors. He likewise indicated that the question of reducing or omitting the common dividend had been studied.

Should the directors decide that a further reduction in dividends is necessary, close followers of the company's affairs reasoned that workers in both the corporation's mills and its offices might also be called upon to take another cut.

Stockholders who continue hopeful the dividend will not be reduced found some satisfaction in the chairman's reference to the company's net current assets. On December 31 these had a book value of $460,000,000, he said, and their book value has not changed since. Contrasted with this figure was his statement that the open market valuation of the company' common stock on April 15 stood at $300,000,000.

The chairman pointed out, however, that the management will insist upon conserving a necessary amount of cash in order to keep the company so strong it "can not come to any difficulty."

COTTON DEPRESSED BY HEAVY SELLING

Traders Shift to New Options; Close Is Off 4 to 5 Points.

New York, April 19 (A.P.).—After showing firmness during the greater part of the day, cotton prices gave way late in the session under increased liquidation.

The May position at one time sold at 6.15, an advance of 10 points, but reacted to 6.00, a net loss of 5 points, closing at that level, while the general market closed barely steady, at the low of the day with net declines of 4 to 5 points. May liquidation was again in progress in preparation for first notice day on April 26 and there was some active exchanging from May to the more distant positions. Owing to the unsettled outside features comparatively little attention was given to the new crop outlook.

News from the dry goods centers was not encouraging, as the demand was very disappointing for this season of the year and there was a general disposition toward curtailment of production, all of which was against the consumption of cotton.

Liverpool cabled that the market there had been influenced by covering, calling and less pressure and reported small cloth sales to India and China.

Exports today were 10,767 bales, making 7,269,301 bales so far this season.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

DERELICTS are a great menace to shipping. Usually the boat becomes wrecked, and the crew must abandon her, leaving the ship at the mercy of the winds and tides. Drifting here and there in the paths of ocean liners, sighted for a moment, then not again for days, weeks, even years, the derelict causes no end of trouble.

U. S. Coast Guard cutters keep a ceaseless patrol of the coastal waters to reduce these dangers, but the task is far from an easy one. Many times the job requires as much patience and labor as it would to find a needle in a hay stack.

Down through the annals of maritime history, there is none as amazing as the wanderings of the "Fannie E. Wilson." Although she was sighted time and again, she would disappear before coast guard patrols could arrive to destroy her. All scouting attempts proved hopeless, and she became known as the "Mystery Derelict."

Wrecked off the coast of Cape Hatteras, and abandoned, she was hurriedly taken out to sea by westerly winds and the Gulf

CAPPER PLEDGES AID TO P.-T.A. CONGRESS AND LAUDS EFFORTS

Praises Interests of Group, Particularly Concerning Individual Child.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS SET FOR THIS MORNING

Wilbur Opens Meeting With Welcome Address; Blames Crime on War.

Cooperation, to the best of his ability, in all objectives of the District Congress of Parents and Teachers was pledged last night by Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, chairman of the Senate District committee, at the program following the annual dinner of the congress, at the Interior Department.

Senator Capper congratulated the parents and teachers on their sincerity and devotion to the District schools, particularly in interest of the individual child, comparing this spirit with that found in the West.

Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, District Commissioner, who, with Senator Capper, was an honor guest at the annual dinner, said each member of the District government had "a strong interest" in the P.-T. A. movement and plans.

Mrs. Bowles Presides.

"With a friend like Senator Capper in Congress, combined with this interest and support from the District government, there is no limit to your progress, as long as you do not exceed the financial limitations," he said. This remark was hailed with good-natured laughter.

Mrs. Oliver Bowles presided at the dinner and the meeting. The program was featured by a series of tableaux, depicting the seven objectives of the parent-teacher movement, and by a musical program.

Tableaux Presented.

The tableaux, centering around "the indispensable triumvirate of home, school and church," consisted of health, the summer roundup, by Stuart Junior High School students, under direction of Mrs. Victor Gauzza; worthy home membership, by Mrs. C. C. Mullady, of the Sixth division; tools, technique and spirit of learning, by Mrs. A. C. Houghton, of Central High; citizenship and world good will, by Mrs. C. L. Dalrymple, of the Seventh division, and Miss E. M. Trusheim, of Congress Heights; vocational effectiveness, by Mrs. Horace Drury, president of the Janney P.-T. A.; wise use of leisure, by Mrs. Richard Baker, of the Third division, and ethnical character, by Mrs. Loyd Miller, of the Fifth division. Richard Baker was the reader, and Mrs. A. A. Birney enacted the voice of the past. Solos were given by Phelps Clark, accompanied by Mrs. Cecile P. Clark.

The dinner was held in the Interior Department dining room, while speaking and entertainment program was presented in the auditorium.

Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur opened the annual meeting yesterday morning with an address of welcome in which he described adversity as a means of restoring the home to its traditional purpose of close alliance between parents and children and the proper training of children.

Lays Crime to War.

Secretary Wilbur denied that prohibition is responsible for the crime wave among youth, blaming it on the war and the conditions that followed it. Secretary Wilbur was introduced by Seldon M. Ely, supervising principal of the fifth division in the public schools.

The day's session included reports from officers, including the annual report of Mrs. Joseph N. Saunders, president of the District Congress. During the past year, she said, the congress has aimed to give every child the best possible education, mental, moral and physical. Mrs. Mary Dabney Davis, of the department of education, Department of the Interior, addressed the afternoon session on the preschool program and ways in which it can be linked with parental education.

The annual meeting will reach its apex of interest this morning when the annual election takes place. With Mrs. E. C. Rittue opposing Mrs. Saunders for reelection, a lively session is expected.

Traffic Arrest Second Made by Glassford

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, made the second arrest of his tenure of office yesterday—this time in a case of alleged traffic violation. His first was the arrest of a panhandler.

The police head was cruising aboard his private motorcycle when he made this arrest. He booked George Wells, colored, 26 years old, of 1715 Ninth street northwest, on a charge of "failing to obey official automatic signal." Wells was released on $5 collateral.

Window Smashed, Man Departing Is Arrested

Thomas A. Lane, 39 years old, of Richmond, Va., was charged with housebreaking by Arlington County, Va., police last night after he was arrested as he attempted to leave a Clarendon chain store.

Thomas was discovered by James Adeell and Charles Bloom, employes of a garage adjoining the store, after he is alleged to have smashed the front window to gain entrance. County Policeman William E. Thompson arrested Thomas as he emerged from the store.

Child Injured by Auto.

Georgia Lee Washington, 3 years old, of 1486 Meridian place northwest, was slightly injured yesterday when struck by a car driven by Mrs. Anna Cooper Wolpe, 36, of 1376 Taylor street northwest. Taken to Children's Hospital in a passing automobile, the child was found to have received abrasions to the legs. She was later sent home.

STRUCK BY HIT-RUN CAR, WOMAN DYING

Matron at Orphan Asylum Is Knocked From Roadside by Speeding Auto.

The victim of a hit-and-run driver whose automobile hurled her several feet in the air last night as she walked with a friend along Good Hope road southeast, Mrs. Mathilda Hofmann, wife of the superintendant of the German Orphan Asylum, is in Providence Hospital, with little hope held for her recovery.

Mrs. Hofmann, in company with Miss Emma Krause, an employe of the home, was on her way to a parent-teacher meeting at the Ketcham School, Fifteenth street and Good Hope road southeast. They crossed the road so as to face approaching cars, Miss Krause declared, and were walking on a down grade toward Anacostia.

They had proceeded only a short distance from the gates of the asylum, located at 2100 Good Hope road, when the roar of an automobile, apparently traveling at a high rate of speed, was heard. Miss Krause said she and Mrs. Hofmann stepped from the road and walked along a dirt shoulder.

Suddenly, some distance ahead of them, Miss Krause said, the machine appeared, followed immediately by a second car. The two seemed to be racing.

The first car sped on, but the second careened and struck Mrs. Hofmann, who was walking a few feet behind her, Miss Krause said.

A passing taxi was hailed and the injured woman was taken to Providence Hospital. An emergency operation was immediately performed, but it is feared Mrs. Hofmann will not live. She suffered a fractured skull and other injuries.

For the last seven years she has been matron of the German Orphan Asylum, where her husband, Andrew Hofmann, is superintendent.

Gaming Raiders Arrest 7 Men in Apartment

Seven men were arrested yesterday in a raid on an apartment at 3023 Fourteenth street northwest, staged by Sergt. R. A. Johnson and a squad from headquarters. One was charged with permitting gaming while the others were booked as United States witnesses.

Clarence P. Sawers, 35 years old, of the Fourteenth street address, was booked on the gaming charge. Police said they obtained money, cards and dice as evidence. Sawers was released on $500 bond.

Mother Finds Boy Missing 10 Years

Child Spirited Away in Infancy Is Located in Children's Home.

A mother and her 11-year-old son were looking over plans last night—plans for the lad's future which were disrupted ten years ago when the boy was spirited away from his mother after she had obtained a divorce from her first husband.

The mother Mrs. Hilda Smith Davis, of this city, recently located her son in the Buncombe County Children's Home, Asheville, N. C. The boy had been there since infancy. Mrs. Davis picked him from a group of other children during a touching scene that brought tears to the eyes of a county judge, the mother, the boy and witnesses.

A Nation-wide search had been conducted for the boy, Jack, since his disappearance. Mrs. Davis has since remarried. The stepfather of the boy, Charles F. Davis, has cooperated in the quest for his wife's missing son.

KENNEDY-WARREN RECEIVER IS NAMED

W. L. Benson to Operate Apartment House Pending Litigation.

The Kennedy-Warren Apartment Building, 3133 Connecticut avenue, with a bonded indebtedness approximating $1,750,000, yesterday was placed in temporary receivership. Justice Oscar R. Luhring, of the District Supreme Court, signed a decree appointing William P. Benson receiver pending litigation to foreclose on the trusts.

Mr. Benson, surviving trustee on a first trust of $1,500,000 and a second trust of $250,000, was required to post a $50,000 bond. He is to take over the apartment and manage it for the benefit of the creditors.

The petitioners for a temporary receivership were the Columbia Securities Co., the Columbia Credit Co. and Benson. Through Attorneys G. Percy McGlue and Thomas F. Burke, they told the court the first two named were holders of first trust notes.

The owners of the property are in default of taxes to the extent of $15,300 on which there is a monthly penalty of 1 per cent. Interest payments on the second trust have been defaulted. An interest payment of $45,000 on the first trust matures tomorrow and it was said the Kennedy-Warren, a Delaware corporation, is without funds to meet this obligation. W. Gwyn Gardiner, attorney for the apartment, consented to the temporary receivership.

The court retained active jurisdiction over the receiver.

Visitors Lose Clothing As Thieves Loot House

Two visitors of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Shaneider, of 1612 Allison street northwest, came to town just in time to share their ill luck. Burglars broke into the Shaneider home yesterday afternoon while the four were out sightseenig and made away with about $750 worth of jewelry and clothing.

The basement door was broken open and the house almost cleaned out of clothing. The loot included a .32-caliber revolver and four stickpins and a platinum diamond ring. Mrs. Irene Taylor and Mrs. Frances Sellers, of Wilmington, Del., lost much of the clothing they had brought to Washington.

Hearst's Plan Hit By Little Congress

Proposed Prosperity Loan of $5,000,000,000 Opposed in 30-3 Vote.

After a lengthy debate last night, Capitol Hill's Little Congress expressed itself emphatically in the negative on the subject "Should Congress pass the $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan proposal advanced by William Randolph Hearst?" The vote was 30-3 against the proposal.

Opponents of the prosperity loan argued that such a move would entail a still greater tax burden, the further underbalancing of the budget, and would probably mean currency inflation, thus endangering the stability of the dollar.

The Little Congress is made up of secretaries to members of the Senate and House and other Capitol attaches. Last night's session was presided over by Arthur Perry, of Texas, secretary for Senator Tom Connally (Democrat), of Texas.

Fire Near Police Headquarters.

Business at police headquarters was temporarily disrupted yesterday when fire broke out in the basement of the adjoining building, at 468 Indiana avenue northwest. The blaze, caused by a defective oil burner, was quickly quenched by firemen and damage was estimated at $50.

District Auto Tags for '33 To Bear '32 Colors Reversed

The District Commissioners yesterday adopted for 1933 the same colors used on the 1932 automobile license tags, but reversed them so as to have yellow letters on a black background. The colors were adopted upon recommendation of Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer. The Bureau of Standards previously had recommended the colors for visibility both day and night.

The tags will be ordered from Lorton Reformatory, where they are made by District prisoners.

In adopting the tag color scheme, the Commissioners failed to consider a proposed design offered for their approval some time ago. A standard color—red, white and blue—with an official emblem, was suggested as a permanent license plate for District motorists. The plan was never acted upon by the Commissioners.

PLAN TO PURCHASE MT. VERNON FAILS TO WIN HOUSE BODY

Proposed Federal Acquisition Urged and Attacked at Public Hearing.

SEMIOFFICIAL CIRCLES HOLD ACTION UNLIKELY

Treadway Hits Charge for Admission and Sunday Closing of Shrine.

Proposed governmental control of Mount Vernon made no progress in Congress yesterday, although the House lands committee heard both sides of the controversy.

Through semiofficial sources it was learned that no action is contemplated and it is thought that the Treadway resolution will die in committee.

The resolution would direct the Secretary of the Interior to determine under what terms and conditions Mount Vernon might be acquired by the Federal Government.

Smith Opposes Bill.

Representative Smith, of Alexandria, Va., took the side of the owners, the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association, in opposing the bill, and cited a section in the deed of cession which prevents its disposition without the approval of the Virginia General Assembly.

He described the bill as "rather innocuous" and said, "I am sure you do not want to do a futile thing. Mount Vernon Ladies have no right to alienate the property."

He opposed an amendment of Representative Leavitt (Republican), Montana, to allow the Interior Department to negotiate with the State of Virginia. This amendment was approved by Representative Treadway (Republican), Massachusetts, who reiterated his belief that Mount Vernon should belong to the Nation.

Management Is Criticized.

Representative Treadway said that "the American people want Mount Vernon turned over to the Federal Government." He criticized again the 25-cent admission charge and the fact that it is always closed on Sundays.

Several members of other patriotic organizations were heard. Mrs. J. Taylor Ellyson, of Richmond, president of the Society for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquity, spoke against the resolution when the subcommittee reported it to the full committee.

Thefts From Stores Charged to Girl, 20

Gladys C. Totty, 20 years old, of no fixed address, was literally left holding the bag yesterday afternoon by three girl companions, according to police. She was booked at the First Precinct station on a charge of investigation after a salesgirl allegedly caught her in the act of stuffing articles from a store counter into the bag.

The girl, who said she formerly lived in West Virginia, was caught by Miss Marie Kidwell, salesgirl at a store on F street northwest. Two other girls fled. Police said the bag yielded several dresses, feminine underwear and other articles. Some of the articles were taken from other downtown stores, they said.

In two of Miss Genet's selections, "Lilie of Arcadie" and "Sea Love," the lyrics are by Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton, president of the Pen Women, who is becoming widely known for this form of poetic expression.

TRIAL OF POLICEMAN IN ALLEGED ASSAULT ON PRISONER STARTS

Clash Between Prosecutor and Attorney for Defense Marks Perry Hearing.

TESTIMONY OF WITNESS ON WOUNDS DISPUTED

Youth Charges That He Was Beaten by Suspended Officer of First Precinct.

A lively exchange of words between Irvin Goldstein, assistant United States attorney, and James A. O'Shea, defense attorney, marked the initial session of the trial of Policeman George E. Perry, of the First Precinct, who is being tried in the District Supreme Court on an indictment charging him with simple assault upon John Miller, young colored bootblack. Perry is under suspension.

A Government witness, Leo Gier, was the subject of the verbal battle. Gier, asked whether he noticed anything unusual about Miller's mouth when he saw him in an F street barber shop Sunday, August 23, said that he "hadn't noticed."

Dismissed From Stand.

At that, Goldstein pleaded "surprise" and asked permission to cross-examine his own witness, and after a torrent of objections, Justice F. D. Letts summarily dismissed Gier from the stand, reserving to Mr. Goldstein the right to call him again to the stand and cross-examine him to "refresh his memory."

Gier was later brought back to the stand and questioned, and when he was given a chance to explain he said that somebody told him about Miller's lip, and Justice Letts then ruled that there was no substantial difference between his written statement, which was in Goldstein's hands, and his statements in court.

Charges Beating.

Miller was arrested August 21 at the Union Station by Perry. He was taken to the new First Precinct station and was beaten, he said, by Perry in the sergeant's room, which, at about the same time, was the place where James Henry Harker was beaten. He was taken to the "dungeon" in the basement, he said, and Perry asked him how he would like to spend the night there. He replied he didn't care so much for that particular place of abode.

Perry was among those members of the force who were indicted in a general investigation of police brutality toward prisoners last summer.

The trial will probably last until tonight or tomorrow.

"Prevailing Wage" Claim Disallowed

Accounting Office Rejects Plea of $8,394 Loss on Paint Job.

The General Accounting Office yesterday disallowed a claim for $8,394 presented by the Alliance Construction Co. of New York, which contended this amount was lost by the firm because of a Labor Department decision compelling the payment of the "prevailing rate of wages" to painters working on the interior of the Internal Revenue Building.

Pointing out that the job on the Internal Revenue structure was new and not repair work, the decision of the General Accounting Office held that any amount paid by the contractor above his original bid was entirely proper and not to be defrayed by the Government.

Union labor, during the painting work, had protested that the "prevailing wage" was not being paid and this led to the Department of Labor order for the $11 a day rate. The original bid of the painting firm was $78,896.

Senate District Unit's Meeting Is Postponed

A meeting of the Senate District committee, scheduled for 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, was postponed yesterday by Chairman Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, out of respect to Senator William J. Harris (Democrat), Georgia, who died Monday.

The committee will meet instead Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, when it will call up a bill to regulate operation of employment agencies in the District.

VETERANS TO OPEN PAINT JOB CANVASS

60 Men Today Begin Tour of City Expected to Last Four Months.

With a view to aiding in the relief of the local unemployment situation a group of World War veterans will start a canvass of the city today soliciting home owners to have street numbers painted conspicuously on their houses.

The canvass is being staged by J. W. Langley, special employment officer from the national headquarters of the American Legion, and is indorsed by local legion officials, including F. G. Fraser, department commander, and Ralph H. Campbell, employment officer.

Only needy unemployed former service men will make up the group which will do the work. They will be organized into groups of three, two solicitors and a painter. Each member of the group will wear a badge, "World War Veteran Paint Crew."

Special quality paint will be used in the work and the numbers will be painted at any point designated by the owner or tenant. The numbers will be black on a white background and will be 2¾ inches high, a size recommended by merchants, police and postoffice officials.

An inspection of the work is made and the painter is paid 50 cents for the job. J. W. Langley, in charge of the work, has asked that residence owners do not offer any donations, simply paying the set fee.

The plan has been worked with great success in other cities in the East. It is believed that it will take approximately four months to cover the city thoroughly.

Sixty men will be on the job today.

The presentation of the trees and books containing biographical sketches of the women, was made yesterday by Mrs. Remey at a luncheon given at the club.

CHILD LIFE EXHIBIT WILL BE HELD HERE

Dumbarton House Display to Begin Today and Continue Through Next Month.

Child life in early America, dating back to colonial days, will be shown in an exhibit of portraits, miniatures, toy furniture, samplers, dolls, &c., beginning today, at historic Dumbarton House, 2715 Q street northwest, the headquarters of the National Society of Colonial Dames.

Adventists Oppose Barber Shop Bill

See Threat of Blue Laws in Attempt to Close on Sunday.

The House District judiciary subcommittee yesterday took under advisement a barber shop Sunday closing bill, after hearing conflicting requests of barbers, Seventh Day Adventists and antiblue law groups.

Chairman Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), Maryland, said the committee will meet Friday morning to decide what it will do with the measure. He said it is probable the Senate bill, which provides instead for "one day in seven" closing of barber shops, may be substituted.

Representative barbers told the group they favored the bill as a "health measure." Seventh Day Adventists and religious liberty groups, who opposed the measure before the Senate District committee, said the health claim was only a subterfuge; that the bill was in fact an opening wedge for blue laws.

The subcommittee will hold hearings Friday morning on bills to regulate plumbing in the District, and to create additional steam-boiler inspectors.

Dr. White Expresses Hope For Proper Mind Valuation

Although discounting progress in a world where a majority still "think the earth is flat," Dr. William Alanson White pointed a finger of hope toward a time when the mind will be as well understood as the physical environment.

The learned psychiatrist was speaking last night at the last session of the Round Table of the Jewish Community Center for this season.

Despite citing evidences of disbelief which still exist and poking fun at a world which in 1474 tried a rooster for laying an egg, in 1516 excommunicated a host of caterpillars, and only a century ago executed persons for witchcraft, the head of St. Elizabeths Hospital ended with a note of optimism for that time when the machinations of the mind will be properly evaluated.

The greatest progress in psychology in the Twentieth Century, he said, is the "recognition that states of mind are realities."

It is through this realization he believes that progress toward throwing off a yoke which still binds will be accomplished.

COUPLE CONVICTED ON FRAUD CHARGES GIVE UP LONG FIGHT

Herman and Julia Hagner Start Five-Year Terms at District Jail.

$30,000 WAS OBTAINED FROM TRANSFER FIRM

Three-Year-Old Son Is Sent to Receiving Home Pending Arrival of Kin.

Having exhausted all legal means to escape five-year sentences on charges of using the mails to defraud, Herman O. Hagner, and his wife, Julia, last night began their terms a few hours after Milton Kronheim, bondsman, surrendered them to the court.

The pair were brought before Justice Peyton Gordon by Deputy Marshals Gus Ceremele and John Sackey. With Mrs. Hagner was her 3-year-old son, who spent last night at the Receiving Home after his mother had been taken to the District Jail to await transportation to the penitentiary. Relatives in Camden, N. J., are expected to come for him this week.

Convicted on Sixteen Counts.

Mr. and Mrs. Hagner, who were found guilty on an indictment of sixteen counts of using the mails to defraud, had been sentenced to five years each on each count, the sentences to run concurrently. They were each fined $1,000. They were alleged to have frauduleptly obtained $30,000 from the Merchants Tranfer & Storage Co. by representing to the firm that customers' bills, which they sent the company, were genuine.

The company advanced 75 per cent of the face value of the bill to the Hagners for a small discount rate. At that time the couple operated automobile parts shops in Scranton, Pa., and Camden, N. J.

High Court Appeal Fails.

An appeal was taken by the Hagners, through their attorney, Lucien Vandoren, on the ground that the offense was committed in Scranton, and could not legally be tried in the District of Columbia.

The Court of Appeals ruled, however, that in not raising the issue before the trial opened here, the defendants had, in effect, waived this legal protection.

The case was then appealed to the United States Supreme Court, which upheld the decision of the Court of Appeals last week. The man and his wife surrendered yesterday and prepared to serve their sentences.
